INTRODUCTION.

THIS Genealogy, as its titlepage indicates, was prepared under the direction of Mr. Charlemagne Tower, late of Philadelphia, deceased. His attention was called to his ancestry while he was a student at Harvard College. He was then able to follow on his own line the generations backward toward the early settlement of Massachusetts to Ambrose Tower[3], who appeared in that part of Concord afterwards made into the town of Lincoln; but there did not appear anything of record to connect Ambrose with any other of the family of Tower. The interest however continued present to his mind, inducing him to make further and continued research; and when some years following his own graduation his younger brother, Francis Marion Tower, became a member of the same college, he took up the research in sympathy with his elder brother's wishes, and succeeded in finding evidence which established the connection of Ambrose[3], through his father Benjamin[2], with the immigrant John[1]. This evidence was found among the old papers which had been preserved in the dwelling-house now standing upon the later homestead of John Tower[1], and occupying a space contiguous to the dwelling-house which John Tower built, and which he occupied until his death.

The discovery here made deepened the interest which he had already felt in the subject, and some progress was made in the beginning of a Genealogy; but the large and ever-increasing demands of his profession, and the large business enterprises growing out of it so completely absorbed his time and energies that the genealogical work was suspended and held in abeyance for several years.

It was not until the close of our Civil War that Mr. Tower again found opportunity to resume the work. At this time, while his son was pursuing his collegiate studies at Cambridge, and his daughters were receiving instruction in Massachusetts schools, Mr. Tower had occasion to make frequent visits to the home of his ancestors, and the interest so long lying latent among his large cares became again awakened into resolution to pursue the subject to such completion as time and circumstance would permit.

The increased attention to genealogical pursuits which had then been given, provided facilities for pursuing the work not before available, and he was enabled by liberal compensation to obtain aid in his undertaking.

Mr. Tower was much interested in the early history of the several colonies, out of which has grown our now common country, and had made a large collection of the earlier laws many of which it is now difficult or impossible to find. The laws of a free people are supposed to indicate the average intelligence and wisdom of those who frame them, and they are indices along the road of progress on which a free people are constantly moving in the process of development and growth. The underlying principles are eternal, varying in their application as conditions and circumstances shall change, and only to be subverted and lost when the virtue and intelligence necessary to the existence of free institutions shall become impaired and lost.

Since Mr. Tower's death, his widow has presented this collection to the Pennsylvania Historical Society, and the Society has published the titles to them in an elegant quarto volume. It is a fitting monument to the industry and perseverance of the collector of these ancient colonial laws.

In the manner Mr. Tower has presented John Tower[1], the immigrant from Old England, and the founder of the family, will be seen the interest he had in the relation his ancestor bore to the troubled times in which the immigration occurred, and the equally troubled times following the immigration, when new conditions called for new application of old methods or the invention of entirely new ones to meet changed and ever-varying circumstances. The conflict was then, as now, between the conservatism which sees safety in the old and often tried ways, and the theory of the dreamer and enthusiast reaching out with more assurance than knowledge into the sea of adventure with faith that the continent of golden hopes may be safely reached. The struggle was then, as now; and many a bark went down, as they will continue to go down, in overwhelming storm, from their imperfect structure and equipment, before one shall be found so completely constructed and manned as to reach the haven of promise and assurance.

The present volume of Genealogy is confined to the descendants of John Tower[1], of the Tower name, and of the children of the females who have borne the Tower name. Much however has been collected and arranged in the many lines of the females, probably sufficient to make two volumes of the size of the present one. Work in this direction was interrupted by Mr. Tower's somewhat sudden death. He had attained and completed the full age of eighty years, yet from his ability to labor in these later years he may well have indulged hopes of being able to continue to labor until he had completed and prepared the whole work for publication.

It is hoped that these quite large collections may be availed of in the preparation of the genealogies of the families to which they belong, of the greater number of which no genealogy has as yet been published. It is now thought best to publish so much of the work as has been prepared, and which is in a suitable condition for publication.

The account of the first five generations brings the history down to the close of the Revolutionary War. This account will show the work they did in subduing the wilderness and preparing for themselves comfortable habitations, as well as the work they did in other industrial pursuits which were necessary for the comfort of the people.

Many of the family rendered service in the wars with the Indians, and later with their neighbors, the French, while in the Revolutionary War most of those of the name within the age of military service were soldiers either in the Continental Army or in answering the constant demands made upon the militia.

They were all educated in the common schools, but none of the name had availed himself of a college education until the sixth generation, from which we find three graduates, — two from Brown, and one from Harvard College.

During the Revolutionary War, and more particularly at its close, there was a large emigration from the older towns of Massachusetts and from Rhode Island, especially from the towns on the seaboard, to the western part of Massachusetts and extending into Vermont, and subsequently continued into the unsettled and fertile portions of New York.

Many of the descendants of John Tower were engaged in this movement. They had become acquainted with much of the outlying wilderness during frequent marches to Crown Point and Ticonderoga, the objective points of the opposing forces during the Old French and the early part of the Revolutionary War. In the older portions of the State the lands had been subjected to division, so that there was little left to provide for the wants of all the members so constantly appearing in their somewhat prolific families. The long years of the continuance of the latter war had sufficed to sweep from the ocean almost every vestige of the commerce the colonies had enjoyed under the protecting flag of the mother country. Peace brought to a close all privateering adventure, wherein the hardihood of the few remaining sailors had found exercise.

The promising field for labor and enterprise was westward in the wilderness, and here they went to repeat the work of their ancestors in subduing it. Here they succeeded in making themselves comfortable homes, from which succeeding generations have gone throughout the whole extent of our domain, and they are now found in nearly every State in the Union.

Much has been collected showing what acquisitions they made; but the limits proposed for this volume will prevent a proper presentation of what the descendants of the later generations have done to improve their temporal condition, or to show their advancement in intellectual work, or how well they have borne their part in the various callings of business and enterprise, in scientific pursuits, or in the learned professions.

It is hoped that the publication of this volume will lead some other member or members of the family to continue it to such completion as will lead to the publication of the large amount of material which Mr. Tower had collected.

Appended hereto is a brief account of Mr. Tower as it appears in the publication of the Pennsylvania Historical Society hereinbefore mentioned, with slight correction and change.

Mr. Tower's descent from John Tower is shown fully in the Genealogy. His father, Reuben Tower, a well-known and public-spirited man, born at Rutland, Worcester County, Massachusetts, on the 15th day of February, 1787, and married in the Township of Paris on the 15th day of February, 1808, was active in the development of the public improvements of his time, in the State of New York, notably in connection with the Chenango Canal; and was also a member of the Legislature of New York in 1828. He died at the age of forty-five, on the 14th of March, 1832, in St. Augustine, Florida, where he had gone for his health. His mother, Deborah Taylor (Pearce) Tower, was born at Little Compton, in Rhode Island, on the 6th day of July, 1785.

Mr. Tower's education was begun in his native place, and carried on subsequently at the Oxford Academy in Chenango County, and at the Clinton Academy, and the Utica Academy in Oneida County, New York. It is worthy of note that he taught school in the common schools of the townships of Paris and Marshall, in Oneida County, for two consecutive years, when he was but fourteen and fifteen years of age; and in 1825 he was assistant teacher in the Utica Academy. He was also shortly after engaged in business as a clerk with Messrs. Hart and Gridley, merchants, in Utica. In 1826 his father took him to Cambridge, Massachusetts, and placed him under the tutorship of Rev. Caleb Stetson, to prepare him for admission to Harvard University. He entered the Freshman class at Harvard in February, 1827, and was graduated there in the year 1830. Among his classmates was Charles Sumner, between whom and Mr. Tower a very close friendship grew up, which continued through many years, and lasted until Mr. Sumner's death.

After graduation Mr. Tower began, in 1831, the study of the law, in the office of Hon. Harmanus Bleeker, in Albany, New York. The death of his father occurring in the next year, his family interests recalled him to Waterville, Oneida County, New York, the home of his family, where he continued his studies. He went later to New York City, and finished his study of the law in the office of Messrs. John L. and James L. Graham. He was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the State of New York, at Utica, in October, 1836. He began the profession in New York City in the office of Messrs. Graham and Sanford, continued it later in Waterville, and was engaged at the latter place for some years in manufacturing and commercial pursuits. Returning however to his practice, he won a foremost place at the bar of Oneida County.

Some legal questions that arose in connection with his practice took him to Pennsylvania in 1846, for the examination of the title to large bodies of mineral land lying chiefly in the County of Schuylkill. Resulting from this, Mr. Tower married Amelia Malvina Bartle, the daughter of Lambert B. Bartle and Sarah (Herring) Bartle, his wife, at Orwigsburg, on the 14th day of June, 1847, by whom he had one son and six daughters. His legal interests induced him to take up his residence in Pennsylvania, which he did in the Spring of 1848, at Orwigsburg, at that time the county-seat of Schuylkill County, where he lived until 1850, when, upon the removal of the county-seat to Pottsville, he also moved his residence to that place. He lived in Pottsville from 1850 to 1875.

Mr. Tower's career at the bar in Pennsylvania brought him in contact with some of the most difficult and intricate questions of law, more especially upon the subject of titles to lands. The great coal-fields of the State had become the subject of wide-spread litigation, which led to the trial of cases that frequently involved estates of large value, and the conduct of which called into action the best legal talent of the day. Mr. Tower's life during this period of more than twenty-five years was exceedingly active and laborious. It was his custom to prepare his cases for trial, not only with a wonderful nicety of detail, so that in coming before the court he was prepared to meet the most exacting inquiry, but he would also go out upon the lands themselves, which often lay in a mountainous country, almost inaccessible by reason of thick forests and heavy undergrowth, and would run the lines and establish the monuments himself, in company with his engineers.

His excellent training in early life, his patient labor and untiring industry, as well as his good judgment in questions of law, and his able treatment of them, won for him a standing at the bar among the foremost lawyers in Pennsylvania. While his devotion to the interests of his clients, and his sterling integrity as a man, brought him a very wide practice, his opinion upon questions of title was esteemed so highly that it is not unusual, even now, to hear him quoted in open court as authority.

Mr. Tower was the leading counsel in the famous trials that arose out of questions relating to the Munson and Williams estate, in Schuylkill County, comprising a large body of coal lands, the litigation in regard to which he carried along for more than twenty-five years. He mastered it, and perfected the title to these lands, which are now the property of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company; and his footsteps may be traced through many other great legal battles in different counties of Pennsylvania.

At the breaking out of the War of the Rebellion, Mr. Tower's loyalty to the Union was instant and decisive. Although he was fifty-two years of age, and long accustomed to the sedentary habits of his profession, he determined to take the field. He enlisted a body of two hundred and seventy men within one week, at Pottsville, and proceeded with them to Harrisburg, where they were mustered into the service of the United States on the 21st day of April, 1861. They were divided into two whole companies and part of a third, and attached to the Sixth Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers, in the three months' campaign. Mr. Tower, having asked to be made captain, received his commission at the time of their entering the service, and commanded, throughout its term, one of his companies, — Company H, Sixth Regiment. He was under the command of Gen. Robert Patterson, and moved into Virginia by way of Chambersburg and Hagerstown, crossing the Potomac River at Williamsport, June 21, 1861, and taking part in the action at Falling Waters, very early in the war. Mr. Tower provided uniforms for his whole company at his own expense. He was mustered out of service with his men at the end of their term of service at Harrisburg, on the 26th of July, 1861, whence he returned to his family. Afterwards he paid a bounty of five dollars a man to a full company, recruited for three years by Capt. Henry Pleasants (his second lieutenant in the three months' campaign, — later Brigadier-General). This was Company C, Forty-Eighth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, which performed much honorable service and became distinguished in the war.

On the 15th of August, 1861, Mr. Tower's men, who had served under him in the campaign, marched to his residence in Pottsville, and presented him with an exceedingly handsome sword, bearing this inscription: —

> Presented by the Tower Guards, of Pottsville, Pa.,
> To Capt. Charlemagne Tower,
> As a token of their respect for him as a man and > soldier, and of their esteem for him as a friend.
> August 10, 1861.

Mr. Tower was appointed United States Provost Marshal for the Tenth Congressional District of Pennsylvania on the 18th of April, 1863, which commission he held until his resignation on the 1st of May, 1864, during a period of great national anxiety and many difficulties that at this time grew out of the carrying on of the war. His administration was soldierly, vigorous, and consistent, and won for him high distinction at Washington.

Mr. Tower continued in the practice of his profession after his return from the war, until 1875, when he retired from activity at the bar, and in the fall of that year moved to Philadelphia, in order to devote himself to his private interests in various industries and enterprises, which had grown to be very large. During his residence in Pennsylvania he had become owner of large bodies of coal land, and was director in several corporations in which he was a party in interest. He was part-owner in the well-known Coxe and Tower lands, on the Green Mountains, in Schuylkill County. He was one of the original proprietors of the Honey Brook Coal Company, and for many years one of its managers; and he took an active part, in conjunction with Mr. Charles Parrish and Mr. John Taylor Johnston, in transforming that successful enterprise into the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company. He was also actively interested in the construction and management of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and a member of its board of directors for several years. The assistance given by him to this road, by both personal attention to its affairs and financial support, frequently, when it became necessary, was of very great value to the company, and Mr. Tower may fairly be said to have contributed largely to its ultimate success. His judgment and foresight in business affairs placed him among the few men who never lost confidence in the value of this road, or in the great future development of the country through which it has been built.

The greatest and most successful undertaking, perhaps, of Mr. Tower's long business career was his development of the iron resources of Minnesota, in the district now well known to the world as the Vermilion Range. The presence of large deposits of iron ore in that country having been brought to his attention about the year 1875, he made a thorough investigation of their quantity and value by sending out several expeditions to explore them and report to him; the result of which having proved extremely favorable, he concluded to proceed with their actual development. The enterprise was a daring one. These ore deposits lay in St. Louis County, Minnesota, some ninety miles northeast from Duluth, and about seventy miles in a direct line north from the north shore of Lake Superior. The country was densely wooded, was traversed by many small streams and broken by long stretches of swamp that in the summer season were almost impassable. Provisions, as well as materials and supplies, could only be transported in midwinter, laboriously, over the frozen ground and on the snow, frequently at a temperature of forty degrees Fahrenheit below zero, and in the summer carried upon the backs of men, or over a circuitous route by Indians in canoes. The opening and working of the iron mines at this great distance from the outskirts of civilization implied a formidable expenditure; but this was far surpassed by the necessity of constructing a railroad seventy miles long to the nearest water communication, the shore of Lake Superior, and equipping it, in order to transport the product of the mines to market, and the construction of sufficient dock and harbor facilities for vessels to receive it at the water's edge. Many experienced business men, consulted in regard to the enterprise, drew back from an undertaking fraught with so many and so great dangers. But Mr. Towers's courage was supported by his judgment derived from careful and systematic investigation, and he determined, at the age of seventy-three, to carry out his purpose single-handed. After having acquired title to the lands which contained the ore deposits, and also to a body of land lying upon Lake Superior, known then as Burlington Bay and Agate Bay, which he afterwards called Two Harbors, he formed in 1883 two companies, the Minnesota Iron Company and the Duluth and Iron Range Railroad Company, the former of which owned the latter. He built the railroad from the mines at Lake Vermilion to Two Harbors, on Lake Superior, seventy miles; erected large docks, round-houses, machine shops, and saw-mills, and provided equipment for the transportation of the ore, besides carrying along the development of the mines in order that their product might be ready for shipment at the completion of the railroad. The iron ore lay in veins, tilted into a position almost vertical, extending for more than a mile in a northeasterly and southwesterly direction, and varying in thickness from forty to one hundred and fifty feet. The ore was a hard specular hematite, yielding by analysis sixty-eight per cent of metallic iron, and from one thirty-thousandth to one fifty-thousandth of phosphorus, free from sulphur and all refractory substance.

Mr. Tower carried along this enterprise with vigor and determination until August, 1884, when the railroad was completed and put into operation, and the first shipments of ore were made from Two Harbors to Cleveland. These shipments met with great favor after having been largely distributed among the iron and steel manufacturers of Illinois, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, and almost from its commencement Mr. Tower's enterprise was proved to be successful. The country opened very rapidly, and soon after a considerable town, called Tower, grew up on the shore of Lake Vermilion, and another at Two Harbors; whilst along the line of the railroad lumbering interests, the quarrying of granite, and various industries sprang up with the increase of population. In 1886 the raiload line was constructed along the shore of Lake Superior, twenty-seven miles, to Duluth. The annual shipments of ore from the mines at Tower, which in 1884, at the opening of the railroad, were sixty-eight thousand tons, increased in 1885 to two hundred and twenty-five thousand tons, in 1886 to three hundred thousand tons, and in 1887 to four hundred thousand tons. This industry, planted by the energy and courage of a single man in a remote and difficult country, placed the State of Minnesota, hitherto unknown as a mineral-producing district, in the space of four years among the foremost iron markets of the United States, employed fifteen hundred men in its mines, and gave support, directly and indirectly, to more than five thousand people. It is not too much to say that this was one of the most remarkable developments ever made in the United States. Its value to Minnesota, and indeed to the whole country of the Northwest, in the benefits that are likely to be derived from it, is almost incalculable. Mr. Tower in it erected a proud monument to himself as a man and a benefactor of his fellow-man that will endure and grow greater as time goes on.

In the year 1887 it was found that valuable deposits of iron ore existed throughout a long stretch of country lying to the east and northeast of the Minnesota Iron Company's property at Tower. These were explored after the opening of the railroad, and they had been acquired by various individual owners and companies, who were ready to open new mines upon the extension to them of the railroad by which they might reach a market with their product. Mr. Tower concluded that, having carried out successfully his own undertaking, he did not wish singly to build the road to an unlimited extent in order to supply the demands that naturally arose as the country was more fully explored; neither did he wish to separate his railroad from the mines at Tower by transferring its ownership from the Minnesota Iron Company. He therefore concluded to make a combination with a syndicate formed in New York and Chicago, which already had large interests to the east of him.

These gentlemen bought from him his entire property in May, 1887, which he then transferred to them, retaining, however, an interest considerably smaller than his former holding in the new organization which they formed, called the Minnesota Mining and Railroad Syndicate. This arrangement was highly advantageous in a financial sense to Mr. Tower, who now had the gratification of having proved the wisdom of his foresight, and of having seen his great undertaking carried through to an eminently successful issue, and in a very short time. He retained the presidency of the Minnesota Iron Company, at the request of the syndicate, until October, 1887, when he resigned his office; whereupon the Board of Directors, composed of the new owners, passed the following resolution, which they had handsomely engraved and sent to him:

Resolved, That in thus severing, at his request, the active connection of Mr. Tower with the Company, we desire to place upon the permanent records of the organization our high appreciation of the great service he has performed in developing and rendering successful the enterprise. Mr. Tower came to its support in its infancy, and has been, from the beginning, its promoter and ruling spirit, giving to it always, unselfishly, the benefit of his ripe judgment and business experience, as well as unlimited aid from his own financial resources. During all the years of his connection with it, including years of general financial distress and anxiety, he has never faltered, and the full measure of prosperity which the Company now enjoys is largely due to his personal efforts, and is a sufficient tribute at once to his business capacity and his patient courage. We exceedingly regret that Mr. Tower feels compelled to retire from the service of the Company, but beg to assure him that he carries with him the gratitude and best wishes of the Board and of all interested in the property.

Mr. Tower was a man of cultivated tastes, a lover of books, particularly of those relating to the history of America. He was one of the first to recognize the importance of the comparative study of American colonial law. His unrivalled collection on this subject was begun nearly forty years ago, and was latterly supplemented with many rare and costly works belonging to the general field of Americana. He was a member of the Board of Overseers of Harvard University from 1884 until his death. He died at his summer residence in Waterville, Oneida County, New York, on the 24th of July, 1889, in the eighty-first year of his age.

Mr. Tower's life was one of integrity, patient labor, and of great good to others with whom he has lived. His influence extended very widely throughout the United States. As a citizen, in peace and in war, and as a professional man, in business and in private life, his career made him one of the remarkable men of his country and of his time.

Margaret (Ibrook) Tower, died in Hingham, Mass., May 15, 1700, ag. about 83.

John Tower was born in the parish of Hingham, in the county of Norfolk, in the eastern part of England. An examination of the parish records shows the following entries: —

"Robert Tower and Dorothy Damon were married, Aug. 31, 1607."
"John, child of Robert Tower, was baptized May 14, 1609."
"Dorithe, the wife of Robert Tower, was buried Nov. 10, 1629."
"Robert Tower was buried, May 1, 1634."

This is the whole record of the family of Robert Tower as found in the Hingham parish records, and the name of Tower is nowhere else found in them, and all attempts to find the ancestry of Robert Tower have been unsuccessful.

The name is a significant one, and we find it in other parts of England, in Scotland, Wales, and Ireland; but in most cases the name is spelled with the terminal "s," — "Towers," — and in Scotland we meet with the spelling "Towar." Descendants of the families of these several localities are now to be found in this country; but by far the greater part who bear the name are the descendants of John Tower, and these have preserved the ancestral spelling of the name for more than two hundred and fifty years, with only occasional corruptions in spelling and pronunciation, — as in "Tour" and "Tore."

That the parents of John Tower were in comparatively humble circumstances in life we may infer from the fact that they failed to give their only child so much instruction as would enable him to write his name; or else his omission to write his name to the various instruments he was called upon to execute during his long and somewhat eventful life must have arisen from some physical cause or accident. His contemporaries in emigration, many of whom were born and reared in the same parish, were for the most part instructed in the elements of knowledge; they could write, and some of them with an elegance of penmanship not surpassed at the present day. The earlier records, both of the proprietors and town, bear evidence of this.

The causes which led John Tower to leave a comfortable home in England for the hardships of a life in the wilderness, were probably those which induced so many others to emigrate during the period between 1630 and 1640. The story has been so often told in history that it is only necessary to mention it briefly in a personal narrative.

The long contest both in civil and ecclesiastical affairs in England must reach a result either in suppression or success. The advocates for a change seemed to see their opportunity in emigration, and embraced it. Among the parishes in sympathy with the Puritanic movement was that of Hingham, where Robert Peck had been installed as rector a few years before John Tower was born, and under whose ministry John Tower had passed the whole period of his life.

Robert Peck had become so decided in the expression of his opinions as to call for admonition and reform from his superior, Bishop Wren; and under the more forceful administration of Land, he was reduced to the alternative of submission or flight. He chose the latter, and with many of his parishioners, among whom was John Tower, came to New England in 1637. The chronicler says that many of these sold out their possessions at a great sacrifice. It does not appear from any record what the possessions of John Tower were. In this emigration it was the practice of young men who wished to come, and who were without the means to defray the expense of a passage and to establish themselves, to bind themselves to service to others in better condition for these purposes. The ancestors of some of our now opulent people came into New England as servants.

John Tower, however, seems to have had means sufficient to pay his passage, and to establish himself in the colony.

In a record kept by Daniel Cushing, a town clerk, who made many records of the early settlement of Hingham and of those who came from England, we find the following: —

"1637 — John Tower and Samuel Lincoln came from Old Hingham, and both settled at New Hingham."

A few persons were here as early as 1633, but large accessions were made in 1635 by people from Old Hingham and from neighboring parts of Norfolk county, — when a church was gathered, and the proprietors received from the colony a grant of the land in the limits of the township.

The Rev. Peter Hobart had been called to be the pastor of the church. He was a few years the senior of John Tower, was born in the same parish, educated at, and graduated from, Magdalen College, and seems to have imbibed under the ministrations of his teacher, Robert Peck, the Puritanic sentiment of religious faith and practice.

When John Tower arrived in New England he was not a stranger to the people among whom he came. Some were of his own parish, — among whom all the years of his life had been passed, and among whom he was to live through all the rest of his life, — and the following year many more came, the most of them from Old Hingham.

The land within the township was granted to those designated as proprietors, which included all such as should thereafter be admitted; and these lands were given or granted to the several proprietors by vote, and the vote, being recorded in the proprietors' records, is the evidence of the grant and the title to the land.

These lands were granted for several and distinct purposes, which grew out of their situation and want. They needed a compact settlement for social and religious purposes, — they had been accustomed to village life in Old England for many generations, — and for suitable and mutual aid in protection from the savages they must live near together.

A colonial ordinance limited the granting of house-lots to a distance of half a mile from the meeting-house. In the laying out of the house-lots in Hingham this ordinance received such liberal interpretation as to extend about one mile. John Tower's house-lot was about one fourth of a mile from the meeting-house. These house-lots were limited in size to the supposed wants of the occupants, varying from three to ten acres. John Tower had a lot of three acres, sufficient for a residence and centrally situated, but of little value for agricultural purposes. For this latter and most important purpose, lands of greater extent were granted to all to whom house-lots were granted.

These lots were at a distance varying from one to three miles from the house-lot. As the earlier settlers of Massachusetts brought with them a stock of cattle, the lands which would furnish these cattle with an immediate supply of food were of the greatest value. These lands were the salt meadows bordering upon the many indentations of the sea, and the fresh meadows bordering upon the running streams, and where the industrious beaver had by constructed dams converted wooded swamps into a condition for bearing crops of coarse and luxuriant grass. As these lands were quite limited in area, they were granted in small parcels, that all might be accommodated. There was another value these lands had, in the long and coarse grass which grew upon the immediate banks of the creeks, and which was used for thatching the roofs of the earlier dwellings.

It is to be understood that these lands were granted without any consideration, except the terms as expressed in the several votes of the proprietors, and were to be held in fee-simple, free from conditions of servitude, and subject to the obligations as the proprietors had made by their recorded votes, as follow : —

1635, Sept. 18–28. "It is agreed upon that every man that is admitted to be a townsman and have lots granted them shall bear charges both to church and commonwealth proportionable to their abilities, and in case they shall sell their lots they shall first tender them to the town ; and in case the town shall refuse to give what it shall be worth, or find a chapman to buy it, then it shall be lawful for them to sell it ; always provided it be to an honest man that shall be placed into the said lot or lots."

"It is likewise agreed upon by a joint and general vote of the freemen that all cedar and pine swamps be in common, and preserved to the town's use, although any should fall into any man's lot."

The Proprietors' Records show the following grants of land as made to John Tower (page 68), 1637 : —

"The several parcels of land and meadow legally given unto John Tower by the town of Hingham.

"Given unto John Tower by the town for a house-lot, three acres of land lying on Bachelor Street, bounded with the land of William Ludkin, Northwestward, and with the land of Thomas Shaw, Southeastward, butting upon the street Eastward, and upon the common Westward.

"Given unto John Tower by the town for a great lot, ten acres of land lying upon the great plain in the first furlong to the eastward of the centre, butting upon the highways eastward and westward, bounded with the land of John Tucker Northward, and with the land of Thomas Barnes southward.

"Given unto John Tower by the town for a planting lot, three acres of land lying in the plain neck, and one acre more at the end of the same for an addition, bounded with the land of William Ludkin southwestward, and with the land of Henry Rust northeastward, butting upon the common northward and southward."

"Given unto John Tower by the town, one acre and half of Salt Marsh on the north side of Layford Lyking river, next unto Ralph Woodward."

This last-named grant John Tower lost through the failure of the Hingham proprietors to maintain their title to the same against the Hull proprietors, in an issue before the colonial authorities. He received satisfaction for the loss by the following grant: —

"1647. Given unto John Tower by the town, one acre and half of Salt Marsh at Conyhassett: it is the 29 lot in the first division, bounded with the meadow of James Buck northward, and with the meadow of Daniel Cushing westward, and with the cove, Eastward and Southward, — which meadow was given for satisfaction for meadow given him at Nantascutt.

"1647. Given unto him one acre of Salt Marsh at Conyhassett. It is the 30th lot in the third division, bounded with the meadow of Mr. Bozoon Allen northward, and with the meadow of Matthew Hawke southward; with the river eastward, and with the town's land westward; and he is to have all the abovesaid parcels of land and meadow to him and his heirs forever, be they more or less, as they were measured.

"1649. Given unto John Tower by the town, a small parcel of upland lying between Bachelor Street and the Salt Marsh of Thomas Loring."

John Tower does not appear to have built a house upon the lot granted him for that purpose by the town, as he sold it the next year. We find in the town records the following: —

"1638. Edward Cooper have bo't three acres of upland of John Tower, next to William Ludkin, which was given him by the town for a house-lot."

In this same year, 1638, John Tower made purchase of several parcels of land of Thomas Shaw, who owned the adjoining house-lot, and upon which he had erected a house, but who had removed to Barnstable, in Plymouth Colony. This sale appears upon the Town Records, and it would seem that the sale was satisfactory to the town, and that the provisions of the vote in making the grant of the land had been complied with in obtaining for a purchaser "an honest man." The deed of the several parcels of land was made many years subsequent to the sale, for in the Suffolk Records of Deeds, book 8, page 146, and dated June 30, 1665, is found recorded the deed of Thomas Shaw to John Tower, conveying the several parcels of land as they appear in the town records in 1638. The deed is acknowledged before Thomas Hinckley, assistant in the government of New Plymouth, and recorded May 10, 1673, thirty-five years after the sale. It recites as follows: —

"Thomas Shaw, sometime of Hingham, but now of Barnstable, in the Gov. of New Plymouth, planter, in consideration of a valuable sum of money conveys to John Tower, of Hingham, yeoman, 'All that my dwelling house and house lot adjoining to it, with another parcel of planting ground, and my great lot, as also a parcel of marsh Meadow, all lying and being in Hingham aforesaid, and as it was given and granted to me by the inhabitants of the said Hingham, together with all and singular the profits, common, privileges, and appurtenances to all and every the said premises belonging or any ways appertaining, the said house lot lying or being at the place there commonly called Bachelor's Street, and containing three acres, be it more or less, bounded northwestward by the land of said John Tower, southeastward with the land of Joseph Phippen, southwestward by the common, and northeastward by said Bachelor Street. The other parcel of planting land aforesaid, lying and being at a place called the "Old Planters' Hill," containing three acres, be it more or less, bounded southerly by the land of Joseph Andrews, westerly by the sea, easterly by the land of Thomas Wakely, and northerly by the lands of Thomas Wakely, — my great lot aforesaid, lying and being at the place there commonly called the great plain, and containing twelve acres, be it more or less, bounded easterly, westerly, and southerly by the highway, and northerly by the lands of Thomas Chubbuck, — and the parcels of Marsh meadow aforesaid, lying and being at the place commonly called the home meadow, containing three acres, be it more or be it less, bounded northerly by the cove, westerly by the upland, southerly by the Marsh of Thomas Loring, and easterly by the cove.'"

Other grants and purchases of lands were made to and by John Tower, which will be noticed as we proceed. He also sold lands, though but few of these sales are found in the records.

That John Tower was in sympathy with the whole movement which led to the settlement of New England will appear from the fact that on Dec. 13, 1638, he made application to be made a freeman of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. As none but members of the churches could be admitted as freemen, it would appear that he had qualified himself for admission, as his application was granted on the 13th of March, 1638–9.

He had already taken some part in the business of the town, and had been joined with some of the principal inhabitants in a committee for important business, as the record recites: —

"1638, Dec. 5. By a joint consent and general vote the freemen have chosen and deputed Mr. Joseph Hull, Anthony Eames, Samuel Ward, John Porter, and Joseph Andrews to Join with John Otis and John Tower, as they were measured, to lay out the great lots to the eastward of the river in order with 'convenientsie' as may be, with all expedition."

Pending the petition of John Tower for admission to the freedom of the colony, another petition of more importance to this genealogy had been granted, as appears by Rev. Peter Hobart's record, wherein, under date of Feb. 13, 1638–9, we find: "John Tower and Margaret Ibrook married at Charlestown."

Margaret Ibrook was the daughter of Richard Ibrook, of whom we have but brief account. He was among the early settlers of Hingham, having a grant of a house-lot on what is now Lincoln Street, but known in the earlier records as "Broad Cove." The two lots next to his northward were granted to William Cockram and to William Cockerill, respectively, who appear to be sons-in-law of Richard Ibrook.

Richard Ibrook came to Hingham with his wife — whose name I have been unable to learn — and three unmarried daughters, — Ellen, Margaret, and Rebecca. Ellen married Joshua Hobart, a brother of Rev. Peter Hobart, 1638; Margaret married John Tower, as above; and Rebecca married Rev. Peter Hobart. She was his second wife. There appear to be no means for finding the dates of the births of either Ellen or Margaret. Rev. Nehemiah Hobart, a grandson of Rev. Peter and Rebecca (Ibrook) Hobart, has the following among his records, namely: —

"1693. Sept. 9. Died my Hon^{d} Grandmother, Rebecca Hobart, ae. 73, lived in New England 55 years."

This would give the date of her coming 1638, three years subsequent to the date of the grant of a house-lot to her father.

The following records are found in Rev. Peter Hobart's Diary: —

"1642, Oct. 3 — Brother Cockram sayled for England."

"1651, Nov. 14 — Mr. Ibrook dyed."

"1664, April 4 — Mother Ibrook dyed."

Richard Ibrook left no son, and the name disappears as a surname and has been preserved as a given name among the descendants of his daughters, as Ibrook Tower, Ibrook Hobart, and Ibrook Whipple.

The fact that John Tower made a considerable purchase of land soon after his arrival, and made it for a valuable consideration, would show that he, like many others of the settlers of Hingham, was possessed of property in England, and that he, like them, was compelled to make large sacrifice in the sale of it.

And now, in the year 1639, at the age of thirty years, we find John Tower a member of one of the early towns of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, a member of the church gathered there, and brought by his marriage into relationship to the minister of it, and to his brother, a leader in the affairs of town, church and state, and a member of the chartered corporation to which he has been elected a freeman.

An inventory of his possessions in realty will show a house-lot centrally situated, on which is his dwelling-house, probably of limited dimensions and rude construction, with a thatch-covered roof, to which his bride will bring such household furnishings as maidens of that period were accustomed to prepare from wheel and loom for so reasonably an anticipated contingency. Next is his planting lot in the plain neck of four acres, more than a mile distant from his home, as the way then was. The salt-marsh of one and one-half acres on the north side of the river of quaint name, now known as Wear, or Weir, river, could be reached by land travel only by a circuitous route of some ten miles; but as this soon passed from his possession, it was probably of little use to him. The salt-marsh given to him by the town instead of this, and another piece in the vicinity, were still farther from his home. The salt-marsh of three acres which he bought of Thomas Shaw was near his home, while the lot of three acres at "Old Planter's Hill" was about two miles away.

The great lots granted and purchased, containing together twenty-two acres, were more than two miles from his home. In addition to these he had a common right to the lands not granted. These lands as they became cleared of the forest were made available for the pasturage of cattle and sheep. As the planters brought much stock with them, we may suppose that John Tower had such supply as would enable him to carry on the work of subduing the forest and so cultivating the soil thus cleared as to supply the means of supporting his family.

To the business man of the present day it would appear that in the allotment of lands to the several inhabitants, of which John Tower's is a very good illustration, all the laws of economy, in the expenditure of time and force in their cultivation, were set at defiance. The daily travel to and from these lands consumed no small portion both of time and energy, and became a total loss when these elements for subduing a wilderness were of so much importance. This sacrifice was made, as before stated, in obedience to former habits of life and work in England, the importance the early settlers attached to convenience for social religious worship, and the management of those common affairs which grew out of their new condition, and which taxed their ability to conduct. After the Pequot war of 1636, a year after the settlement of the town, the danger from the savages passed away for the period of more time than is allotted to one generation, and did not appear again until King Philip's war, in 1675; and this war, so devastating to all the colonies of New England, brought but little loss to the town of Hingham.

We can form some picture of the life of John Tower at this period when we think of him as occupying a home about midway in the settlement which extended irregularly about one mile on either side of him, whose inhabitants had common objects and common pursuits in subduing the wilderness and gaining a living from the products of the soil.

It was an aid to the settlers in the clearing of the land of forest that timber had an early value. The business of building vessels sprang into considerable importance in Boston soon after its settlement, and the ready means for transporting timber from Hingham to Boston by water gave the town advantages over other places before roads were constructed. The exception of the cedar and pine swamps in all particular grants shows the value placed upon that species of timber.

That John Tower engaged in this work of preparing timber, and that he and others, probably owing to imperfectly defined boundaries, trespassed upon the common land, would appear from the following order in the first volume of the Town Records: —

"1641, Sept. 4. — These bills be discharged for eight pence a tree, — John Tower, ten trees; Stephen Payne, six trees; George Lane, fifteen trees; Anthony Eames, four trees; Thomas Nichols, four trees; Nicholas Jacob, John Foulsham, thirty trees.

"It is likewise ordered and agreed upon that every tree that is not now brought in and submitted to the fine of eight pence a tree to the town's use, having so lawful a warning of their agreement, upon their tender shall pay ten shillings for every tree so proved according to the former order, although it be now repealed. Further, it is agreed that all those fines of 8 pence a tree are to be paid into the town's use by the 29th of September next, and are to be employed to the buying of a drum.

"All these have tendered themselves to the pleasure of the town of 8 pence a tree as followeth, — John Sutton, Thomas Barnes, Richard Osborne, Thomas Gill, Andrew Lane, for twenty oak-trees, and promise payment as aforesaid."

There had been a previous order passed, Feb. 20, 1640–41, in relation to the preservation of trees, —

"That from the date hereof, thenceforth there shall be no tree or trees cut or felled upon the way, upon the pain of twenty shillings, to be levied to the use of the town, because all good trees are to be preserved for the shading of cattle in the summer time, and for the exercising of the military affairs."

The passage of this order within five or six years of a settlement in the wilderness, together with the later one calling trespassers to account, indicates the value that the timber had reached, and the rapidity with which the work of clearing the land had been carried on.

The value of the price, eight pence, of a tree, and that of the fines imposed, will be seen by comparing these sums with the product of a day's work of a laborer as fixed by a colonial law.

"It is ordered that laborers shall not take above 12^d a day for their work, nor above 6^d and meat and drink."

It would require two thirds of a day's work of a laboring man to pay for a tree; and the severity of a fine of ten shillings will be appreciated when it is seen that it measures the value of ten days' work.

The conditions of the life of John Tower and of his fellow-townsmen may be imagined, by remembering how distant most of their lands, adapted to cultivation, were from their several homes, and the amount of travel involved in their ordinary rounds of daily industry.

On any bright, early morning would be seen emerging from their several homesteads all the able working male members of the family, with such force of teams as they might possess, wending their way to their respective allotments, making the old woods vocal with their varied forms of industry, in felling trees, preparing and hauling such as were suitable for building either houses or ships, to the several landings for transportation, making the land fit for cultivation by burning the brush and the wood worthless for timber, and with narrow and pointed harrows, constructed of logs, scarifying the surface, whereupon they scattered the seeds of rye, barley, and wheat, waiting in hope and patience for their fruition in fields of harvest. Following which came the heavy team-work of removing the stumps into huge heaps, that wind and sun might fit them for a holocaust of flame, leaving the land root-tenantless for the plough, rude in construction, with mould-board thick studded in broad-headed nails and such scraps of iron as their scanty means might furnish; not easy of draught, but turning up the virgin soil to air and sunlight, and making it ready for that best of all New England crops, Indian corn, congenial to soil and climate, and stimulated to its growth by the migratory alewives, so opportune in season and abundant in supply as to warrant an especial grant of privilege by the order that "Thomas Loring, Clement Bates, Nicholas Jacob, and Joseph Andrews shall have the river called Layford's Liking, to build, erect, and set up a wear to take the fish that usually cometh into the said river, called by the name of alewives; . . . to charge the freemen 2/ 6^{d} per thousand for the fish," — with the provision that "the grant shall continue seven years." And that a fair distribution of this lively fertilizer might be enjoyed, the land in the vicinity of this wear was granted in small parcels, varying from one to five acres; John Tower having four acres, so that his transportation of this fertilizer was made convenient, while calling for some ten thousand fish for the suitable dressing of an acre of land at a cost of 25*s.*, to be accounted for in a crop of fifty bushels to the acre, which at the oft-regulated price of 2*s.* per bushel would make a disbursement of the value of one fourth part of the crop for this fertilizing element in its production, — a rule of proportion recognized in New England for more than two centuries in the elements of the cost of a crop of Indian corn; namely, the use of the land, the preparation of the same, the fertilizer, and the labor of cultivation, — each severally representing one quarter part of the cost of the crop whenever disjointed capital and labor made bargain for mutual benefit, — an early recognition of the principle that labor should share in the profits of an undertaking whenever it became one of the instruments of production, and abandoned only when labor increased its demands beyond the power of capital to supply.

There seems to be nothing of importance to note during the five or six years following John Tower's marriage, excepting his giving hostage of good citizenship to the commonwealth in the birth of three sons, who made their appearance with the accustomed regularity of the earlier New England families. We have every reason to suppose that he was improving his condition by his industry, though from the daily travel of so long distances to the place of labor much of that industry was wasted; and it is a matter of curiosity to the historian to note the fact that often in communities and people, habits of work and business which grew out of necessity will continue long after the necessity has passed away, even when the accustomed habit is attended with disadvantage and loss; and so for nearly two centuries the descendants of John Tower and others continued to cultivate the lands of their ancestors after the primitive method, to be abandoned only when the increased facilities for transportation from more fertile regions made these lands valueless for cultivation as formerly conducted.

In the year 1644 John Tower was involved with others of his townsmen in a serious difficulty, to which not only the inhabitants of the town, but the whole colony, became parties, and which raised important questions both in civil and ecclesiastical affairs. The occasion of this difficulty was the election of a person by the military company of the town, to be presented to the colonial authorities for their approval.

It would seem that previous to this time the company had not had a captain, but was under the command of Lieutenant Anthony Eames; but being directed to present one or more persons for the office of captain, an election was held, and Lieutenant Eames was chosen; but before he received approbation or commission there was some occasion of offence taken, whereupon the company chose Bozoon Allen. Both of these were men of influence in the town and church, and such only were deemed worthy to hold a military office of the importance of a captain.

The friends or partisans of both Eames and Allen attended the meeting of the next General Court and presented their respective claims, evidently under much excitement of feeling. The General Court did not make an appointment, and the Hingham people returned home, both parties apparently equally excited and unsatisfied with the result, and bringing with them different and conflicting reports of the opinions of the magistrates and deputies. Some of the magistrates appear to have favored Eames's claims on account of his office and former service, thinking that Allen's knowledge of military affairs was what he had obtained from Eames, under whom he had been trained. The deputies however were not so generally agreed to this, and so the matter was not decided.

After their return home Allen's friends appointed a training-day, — "without the lieutenant's knowledge," — and when they were assembled, the lieutenant made his appearance and claimed the authority to exercise them by virtue of his office. The majority of the company refused to obey him, but recognized Allen as their commander, who exercised them two or three days.

In the dispute between Eames and his opponents, Eames was reminded of the advice given him by the magistrates that he "should go home and honorably lay down his authority." This Eames denied; and the contest waxing warm, the lie was given.

The greater part of the contestants were freemen, and consequently members of the church, and the affair was taken cognizance of by the church. Among those most earnest in their opposition to Eames were Joshua Hobart and his two brothers, and all brothers of the minister, Peter Hobart, of whom Allen was an especial friend. In this hearing John Tower testified that one magistrate did advise Eames to lay down his authority, and at the conclusion of the hearing the minister was disposed to excommunicate Eames. Whereupon Eames made complaint to the magistrates, who sent warrant to the constable to attach the principal offenders, — John Tower, the three Hobarts, and one other, — and to bring them before the said magistrates. This being done, they were ordered to give bonds, with sureties, for their appearance. John Tower denied the authority of the court in the premises, and was accordingly committed and sent to prison.

Rev. Peter Hobart was so indignant at the arrest of his relatives by the magistrates in a matter which he considered purely ecclesiastical and within his own jurisdiction that he appeared before the magistrates' court and protested against the action of the court in sending the summons, and against their jurisdiction in the case, with so much vehemence that "the magistrates told him that were it not for respect to his ministry they would commit him."

Before the return day at the next magistrates' court, a session of the General Court was held, and a petition of Peter Hobart and eighty others of Hingham was presented, asking the court to consider the matter of the complaint of their petition, "to this effect, that whereas some of them had been bound over and others committed by some of the magistrates for words spoken concerning the power of the General Court, and their liberties and the liberties of the church," etc., and requesting the court to hear their case. Under this petition the court proceeded to hear the case, the deputy-governor (Winthrop) being made the defendant or impeached. To the charges of the petition the deputy-governor made answer, when the court proceeded to hear "the whole cause." The result of this hearing at the "meeting house in Boston," in the presence of "diverse of the elders and a great assembly of people," as stated by Winthrop, is as follows: —

"Two of the magistrates and many of the deputies were of opinion that the magistrates exercised too much power, and that the people's liberty was thereby in danger; and other of the deputies (being about half) and all the rest of the magistrates were of a different judgment, and that authority was overmuch slighted, which, if not timely remedied, would endanger the commonwealth and bring us to a mere democracy. By occasion of this difference there was not so orderly carriage at the hearing as was meet, each side striving unseasonably to enforce the evidence, and declaring their judgments thereupon. . . . So the best part of two days was spent in this public agitation and examination of witnesses, etc."

The magistrates and deputies in their several chambers spent much time and debate before they could reach any agreement. The magistrates were for censuring the petitioners and for imposing heavy fines upon "those who were bound over and others that were parties to the disturbance at Hingham," to which the deputies would not consent; but "the deputies being thus hard held to it, and growing weary of the court, for it began on the 14th of May and brake not up (save one week) till the 5" of July, finally compromised the matter, after refusing to join with the magistrates in calling in the help of the elders; "for they knew that many of the elders understood the cause, and were more careful to uphold the honor and power of the magistrates than themselves were liked of."

It would be interesting to the student of history to have a full sketch of the several findings of the magistrates and deputies upon the issues made in the case; but for the purpose of this personal biography it is proposed to present only what is necessary to show how John Tower was affected by them. To the magistrates' findings the deputies return as follows: —

10. "We find that the public charge and accusation of John Folsom and John Tower against the deputy-governor, the premises considered, are causeless and unjust, and that some things in the petition and explanation of it are false and scandalous, for which all the petitioners ought to receive their due censure.

"To the charge by John Folsom of the deputy-governor, 14 deputies assent that it is unjust, and 13 deputies dissent; 6 stand neuter."

"To the charge by John Tower of the deputy-governor 17 deputies vote the negative that his charge is not unjust, and 14 affirm, and 2 stand neuter."

And again the deputies return to the magistrates: —

"We find that Mr. Bellingham did legally give advice to Lieut. Eames, namely, that he, said Lieut. Eames, should go home and go into the field and honorably lay down his place, Capt. Robert Keayne, contrary, dissenting."

To this return of the deputies the magistrates reply: —

"To the 2d we answer, that what advise Mr. Bellingham gave according to his apprehension while the matter was in agitation was not illegal, but how legal or convenient it was to cross the advise of the magistrates and his own also, or whether it were so or no, we rather leave, that have heard it to consider of, than positively to determine it, not being, as we conceive, pertinent to the case as it concerns Mr. Bellingham."

1645, June 28. — The magistrates vote to fine certain of the persons engaged in the Hingham disturbance in several sums, varying from £2 to £20, John Tower being fined £5. They also impose a fine of 20*s.* each upon the petitioners, excepting therefrom three, "Mr. Peter Hobart, John Folsom, and John Tower;" the aggregate of the fines being £155 10*s.*

The deputies do not agree to the magistrates' apportionment of fines, but present a list, wherein the aggregate of fines amounts to £105, John Tower's name not being in the list.

Further correspondence takes place between the magistrates and deputies, and as they fail to agree, arbitration is proposed; but before this is agreed upon, the deputies present a new list, still continuing the fine of £5 to Lieutenant Eames, and "John Tower's censure for his delinquency is, that he should bear his imprisonment, provided he bear no other censure, either as petitioner or otherwise."

"The house of deputies do agree that £53 10*s.* should be laid upon all the petitioners by an equal rate by the poll towards the payment of the charge of the court upon the case, excepting John Tower and the rest of those delinquents that are fined as is above mentioned &c."

"The magistrates agree to these fines above mentioned all but for Lieut. Eames, whom we judge to bear his own charge and have an admonition for laying down his place without consent of authority and other failings."

"The deputies do concur with our honored magistrates' last return concerning Lieut. Eames rather than nothing be imposed upon him."

And thus ended this case by the imposition of fines and the acquittal of the deputy-governor. Something more grew out of it in the process of collecting the fines, but nothing immediately affecting John Tower, only as his sympathy may have been enlisted for his brother-in-law, Rev. Peter Hobart, who continued still to raise questions, as John Tower had done, as to the authority of the court, for which he was arrested and heavily fined.

The questions raised in this trial are of great interest to the student of history, but are not suitable for a discussion here, except as they have a bearing upon John Tower's case and the offence he is charged with committing, with the degree of blame then held to pertain to the offence. He is charged with causing the disturbance by the testimony he gave in the church, and by his contempt of authority in refusing to give bond for his appearance, and for signing the petition bringing charges against the deputy-governor.

To understand the degree of guilt incurred by the commission of these offences in the early period of the history of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, it will be necessary to remember how it was constituted by its charter, which gave authority for the choice of governor and assistants by the freemen of the corporation. These were first chosen in England, and came to New England, bringing their charter with them. The governor, assistants, and freemen were authorized to make rules and regulations for the government of those who should come to inhabit the colony, "for the imposition of lawful fines, mulcts, imprisonments, or other lawful correction according to the course of other corporations in this our realm of England."

"Willing, commanding, and requiring . . . That all such orders, statutes, and ordinances, instructions and directions as shall be so made by the governor, deputy-governor of the said company, and such of the assistants and freemen as aforesaid, and published in writing under the common seal, shall be carefully and duly observed, kept, and performed, and put in execution according to the true intent and meaning of the same."

But from the first the assistants seemed inclined to take to themselves all the authority belonging to themselves and the freemen, without consulting the freemen.

The first court was a court of assistants, and was held at Charlestown, Aug. 23, 1630; and among the orders passed was the following very important one: —

"It was ordered that the governor and deputy-governor shall always be justices of the peace, and that Sir Richard Salstonstall, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Endicot, and Mr. Ludlow shall be justices of the peace for the present time, in all things to have like power that justices of peace hath in England for reformation of abuses and punishing of offenders, and that any justice of the peace may imprison an offender, but not inflict any corporal punishment without the presence and consent of some one of the assistants."

1630, Oct. 19, a General Court was held, whereat, contrary to the charter, power is conferred upon the governor, deputy-governor, and assistants to make laws and choose officers to execute them. The court of assistants soon exercise their conferred authority, and in a number of cases they make the law and punish a breach of it at the same time.

It is evident that the authorities mean to be obeyed and respected, and some of the severest penalties are inflicted upon those who dare to oppose or call in question their authority; as at a court of assistants, May 3, 1631, —

"Thomas Walford of Charlestown is fined 40*s.* and is enjoined he and his wife to depart out of the limits of this patent before the 20th day of October next, under pain of confiscation of his goods for his contempt of authority and confronting of officers."

It must be said to the credit of the impartiality of this court that one of their number, the fiery and pugnacious Endicott, is tried by a jury and assessed in damages of 40*s.* for "battery" on Thomas Dexter.

1631, June 14. — At a court of assistants, "It is ordered that Philip Ratliffe shall be whipped, have his ears cut off, fined £40, and banished out of the limits of this jurisdiction, for uttering malicious and scandalous speeches against the government and church of Salem, as appeareth by a particular thereof proved upon oath."

1631, Sept. 6. — At a court of assistants, "It is ordered that Henry Lyou shall be whipped and banished the plantation, before the 6th day of October next, for writing into England falsely and maliciously against the government and execution of Justice here.

"Thomas Knower was set in the bilbowes for threatening the court that if he should be punished, he would have it tried in England whether he was lawfully punished or not."

1632, Oct. 3. — "Edward Burton is fined £5 for his contempt of authority in refusing to come to court when summoned by the governor, and 40*s.* for drunkenness."

1633, Sept. 3. — "Capt. John Stone, for his outrage in confronting authority, abusing Mr. Ludlow, both in words and behavior, assaulting him and calling him a 'just ass,' is fined £100 and prohibited coming within the patent without leave from the government, under penalty of death."

1634, April 1. — "It is ordered that John Lee shall be whipped and fined for calling Mr. Ludlow false-hearted knave and hard-hearted knave, etc."

So far the court of assistants seems to have carried on the work of government without any code of laws or of procedure, adapting penalties to the several cases as the discretion of the court might see fit, imposing the heavier penalty upon any one who should be impelled by a sense of injustice suffered to give expression to his feelings as to the decision, or to the magistrate who makes the decision.

It is necessary to know the value and power of the money of the times to appreciate what the fines measure. This can be done by comparing them with the value of a laboring man's day's work as fixed by the same authority, which was 12*d.* a day. Therefore a fine of 40*s.* for drunkenness inflicted upon Edward Burton would represent forty days' work; while his fine of £5 for contempt of authority would represent a hundred days' work, — sufficient, one would suppose, effectually to guard the most exacting magistrate from an undue measure of suffering, were it not for the often recurrence of these entries in the earlier records.

What was the exercise of authority by Mr. Ludlow which threw the valiant Captain Stone into so much of manifest disrespect as to result in the fine of £100 — representing nearly seven years of a laboring man's work — and banishment from the colony, does not appear of record; but it does appear that there was a conflict going on between the principal men, including the magistrates and the great body of the freemen. The former seemed to be moving to establish and carry on the new government by and through an aristocracy of talent and wealth, while the great body of the freemen were not content to be shut out from their share in its conduct; and in 1634, at the General Court held in May, several agreements were made, curtailing the power of the magistrates and the exercise of it in the magistrates' courts. It was ordered —

"That none but the General Court hath power to make and establish laws, nor to elect and appoint officers, as governor, deputy-governor, assistants, secretary, captain, lieutenants, ensigns, or any of like moment, or to remove such upon misdemeanor, as also to set out the duties and powers of the said officers.

"That none but the General Court hath power to raise moneys and taxes, to dispose of lands, uses, to give and confirm proprieties."

It would seem that some of the more recent acts of the court of assistants had given occasion for these and some other orders; as —

"It is agreed that there shall be £10 fine set upon the court of assistants and Mr. Mayhew for breach of an order of court against employing Indians to shoot with pieces, the one half to be paid by Mr. Pynchon and Mr. Mayhew, offending therein, the other half by the court of assistants then in being, who gave leave thereunto."

This fine of £10 was remitted by the court.

The severity of Captain Stone's punishment would seem to be the occasion of the order, —

"It is agreed that no trial shall pass upon any for life or banishment but by a jury summoned [or by the General Court]. . . . It is likewise ordered that there shall be four General Courts held yearly, to be summoned by the governor for the time being, and not to be dissolved without the consent of the major part of the court."

This court seems to have resented an indignity offered to the governor; as, —

"It is ordered that John Lee shall be whipped and fined £40 for speaking reproachfully of the governor, saying he was but a lawyer's clerk, and what understanding had he more than himself; also taxing the court for making laws to pick men's purses," etc.

And at a later court, Nov. 7, 1634, mercy was blended with justice in the order, — "There is £30 of John Lee's fines remitted him."

But still the offences against the magistrates continue, and at the next General Court —

"It is ordered that Mr. Israel Stoughton shall be disabled for bearing any public office in the Commonwealth within this jurisdiction, for the space of three years, for affirming the assistants were no magistrates."

It is very evident from the foregoing extracts that the members of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, and those subjected to its authority, were not satisfied with the method of its management, or the seemingly arbitrary rules to which its conduct was subjected, and that there was call for the establishment of some fundamental rules.

In an article written by Francis C. Gray, and published in the Massachusetts Historical Collections, 3d series, vol. viii., this matter is ably presented, showing how these rules, or "Body of Liberties," had their rise, progress, and completion, after several years of agitation and delay. This delay was caused principally by the magistrates, and was occasioned, in part, by doubts whether the provisions of the charter could be construed to warrant the establishment of such rules, and whether an attempt to do this might not cause a revocation thereof, together with the tendency among the magistrates to continue a form of government so largely dependent upon their wisdom.

It was fortunate for the Massachusetts Bay Colony that John Winthrop was governor when the charter, with the attendant large immigration, came to its shores. He had been brought up to a knowledge of law in England, was puritanic in his principles, and mellowed more than usual with a mild and humane spirit. For the good of the colony he made large sacrifices of time and wealth, and of his stores of wisdom and experience he gave freely. He knew the limitations of power given by the charter, and that to frame the ideal government he and his associates dreamed of, would lead to its revocation so soon as authority in England should take notice of it. What they had already done had led to the issue of the warrant by which they were called to show cause in the king's court why it should not be revoked. Nothing but the growing trouble between the king and parliament, and the subsequent condition of civil war, prevented its loss.

Winthrop would have such rules as were necessary grow up by practice as their wants demanded, without embodying them into written laws, trusting to the wisdom and integrity of the administrators that no one should suffer wrong; and in default of their own wisdom they could appeal to the laws of God, and by the help of the learned and pious ministers they had means for their interpretation.

But such a plan for the growth of a people was not to come so easily. Contention for principles and forms would come in, and all the repressing force of fines and punishments could not keep out their expression; and the age was not one to tolerate freedom of expression. Truth in civil and ecclesiastical affairs was a matter not to be tolerated in progress, but to be reached in its end; and being once arrived at and secured, was no further to be questioned.

It has been seen how the suppression of expression had been attended by severe punishments and heavy penalties, imposed by the magistrates without any fixed rules, until the people had become somewhat restless; and at a court, May 6, 1635, —

"The deputies having conceived great danger to our state, in regard that our magistrates for want of positive laws in many cases might proceed according to their discretion, it was agreed that some men should be appointed to frame a body of grounds of laws, in resemblance to a Magna Charta, which being allowed by some of the ministers and the General Court, should be received for fundamental laws."

But such was the opposition of the magistrates that nearly eight years passed before the Body of Liberties, prepared by Rev. Nathaniel Ward, of Ipswich, was finally adopted, and became the fundamental law of the colony under the charter.

In 1644 — the year in which the difficulty at Hingham took place — another important change was made in the colonial government.

The assistants and deputies had formerly sat in the same chamber and voted as one body; but the memorable trial of the claims of Captain Keayne and of the widow Saunders to the same pig caused these two bodies to divide and sit in separate chambers, and to have a negative vote upon each other in case of disagreement.

In considering the Hingham case it is important to keep in mind this disagreement between the deputies, representing the great body of the freemen, and the magistrates, who for the most part were of the wealthy and influential families of the colony, and who by their abilities and character had given direction to all the colonial affairs, and whose heavy fines and severe punishments had repressed opposition to their authority.

As the difficulty at Hingham began in military affairs, and became transferred to the church, it is of importance to know what the rules and regulations were in relation to both. In military affairs, as in all others, the assistants from the first in their court — composed of the governor, deputy-governor, and assistants, and denominated the court of assistants — assumed the whole regulation. But in 1634, as has already been stated, the General Court had resumed the appointment of the military as well as other officers, — though subsequently they delegated this authority to the council for life when the General Court was not in session.

From the beginning there seems to be large demand for military preparation and exercise, —

"1631, April 12. It is ordered that every captain shall train his company on Saturday in every week."

"1631, July 26. — Order for a watch in Boston, and for a monthly training of Capt. Underhill's company in Boston and Roxbury, and also for those in Charlestown and Mystic."

"1631–32, March 6. — Order for the arming of every person under a penalty of a year's service in default."

"1632, Nov. 7. — Several are fined for absence at training or for their men being absent; among them are Mr. Matthew Cradock's men at divers times."

"1633, Nov. 5. — Ensign Morris is discharged of his place, and Mr. Thomas Mootham chosen in his room. Sergeant Stoughton is chosen Ensign to Capt. Mason."

"1633–4, March 4. — Mr. Nathaniel Turner is chosen Captain of the military company at Saugus. . . . Mr. Richard Morris is chosen Lieutenant to Capt. Underhill."

1634, May. — The General Court having resumed the functions belonging to it, —

"Mr. Robert Harding, William Baulston, and Ralph Sprague are chosen Sergeants to Capt. Underhill and John Oliver, chosen Corporal to the said Captain."

"1634, Sept. 3. — Capt. Underhill, Capt. Patrick, Capt. Mason, Capt. Frask, Capt. Turner, Lieutenant Feakes, and Lieut. Morris appointed a committee."

"It is ordered that the captains shall train their bands once every month, giving a week's warning before (except in July and August), and that the captains shall have liberty to train all such unskilful men as are at their own hands so often as they please, provided that they exceed not three days in a week.

"Sergeant Perkins is chosen Ensign to the company at Roxbury.

"It is ordered that every captain shall be maintained by his own company; and where any company consists of two towns or more, the several towns shall contribute to the maintenance of that captain proportionally to the number of soldiers in town."

"1634, Sept. 25. — Mr. Edward Gibbons is chosen Ensign to Capt. Underhill. . . . It is ordered that Lieut. Morris shall train the company at Roxbury."

And that military officers shall be properly submissive and respectful to the authority which has created them, —

"It is ordered that Ensign Jennison shall be fined the sum of £20 for upbraiding the court with injustice, uttering these words: 'I pray God deliver me from this court;' professing he had waited from court to court, and could not have justice done him."

"1634. Nov. 7. — Mr. John Benjamin, William Pancry, and Henry Goldston are (by reason of their age and infirmities) dismissed from training, only they are to have in readiness at all times sufficient arms for themselves, besides for their servants."

"1634–5, March 4. — It is ordered that all forfeitures for want of arms, or not observing training days, shall be distrained by the clerk of the band where the offence is committed, who, together with the captain and other officers, shall have power to buy therewith drum-heads and such arms as poor men want and are not able to provide themselves of.

"It is further ordered that every man of or above the age of sixteen years who hath been or shall hereafter be resident within this jurisdiction by the space of six months (as well servants, as others), and not enfranchised, shall take the oath of residents before the governor, deputy-governor, or two of the next assistants, who shall have power to convent him for that purpose, and upon his refusal, to bind him over to the next court of assistants, and upon his refusal the second time, to be punished at the discretion of the court.

"A committee" was "appointed to have full charge of all military affairs, the order to continue till the end of the next General Court.

"It is ordered, from this day forward the captains shall receive maintenance out of the treasury, and not from their companies."

"1635, Sept. 2. The order whereby" military officers are to have their maintenance out of the treasury "is repealed. It is ordered that every company shall maintain their own officers.

"Further it was agreed that Charlestown and Watertown shall be two distinct companies, and to have officers of their own."

"1636, Sept. 28. The commission for military affairs is committed to the standing council till the court in May next, and so forward until the General Court shall take other orders."

"1636, Dec. 7. It is ordered that all military men in this Jurisdiction shall be ranked into three regiments; viz., Boston, Roxbury, Dorchester, Weymouth, Hingham, to be one regiment, whereof John Winthrop, senior, Esq., shall be colonel, and Thomas Dudley, Esq., lieutenant-colonel, etc., and the governor for the time being shall be chief general. And each several regiment shall make choice of such men as they shall think most fit and safe for the service and trust of those places of colonel and lieutenant-colonel, and present them by their deputies to the next session of this court; and for the captains and lieutenants of the several companies the several towns shall make choice of some principal man, or two or three in each town, and present them to the council, who shall appoint one of them to the said office in each company."

"1636–7, March 9. All persons of any trained band, both freemen and others, who have taken the oath of residents, or shall take the same, and being no covenant servant in household with any other, shall have their votes in nomination of those persons who are to be appointed captains or other inferior officers of the same band, provided they nominate none but such as shall be freemen; for it is the intent and order of the court that no person shall henceforth be chosen to any office in the commonwealth but such as is a freeman. Any one magistrate may administer the said oath.

"Order for watches to be kept in every town on account of danger from the Indians, to which every person above the age of 18 years is subject (except magistrates and elders of churches)."

"1637, Apr. 18. Apportionment of 160 soldiers for the Pequot war among the several towns — Capt. Traske and Lieut. Davenport to have command.

"Mr. John Spencer is discharged from being captain at Newbury, and Edward Woodman is chosen lieutenant at Newbury. Several orders in relation to the conduct of the expedition against the Pequots, and commanders chosen."

"1637, Nov. 2. The court did discharge Capt. Underhill for any further service, and gave him a quarter's pay for a gratuity.

"Capt. Underhill, being convented for having his hand to the seditious writing, is disfranchised, and put off the captain's place."

"1637, Nov. 20. Fifty-nine persons in Boston, and seventeen in other towns, disarmed, on account of the dangerous errors into which they were supposed to be led, etc."

"1638, June 8. The military company of Boston may present two or three to the council to choose a captain out of them, if the council like them."

"1640, July 30. John Tower for his disturbance of the peace, and the offence thereby against the Commonwealth, is fined five pounds."

This was at a "quarter court," or court of assistants. The record does not show any particular act of John Tower by which the peace was disturbed.

"1640, Oct. 7." Ordering the number of trainings in the year to be ten, and following to the year 1644, there are several orders of the court, regulating the duty of the companies, providing fines for neglect of trainings and failure in equipments, and allowing the companies to select such times for training, as shall best suit their convenience, and give as little loss of time in their agricultural pursuits as may be consistent with a proper performance of the military duty.

"1643, May 10. It is ordered that warrants should be sent to the towns to send the number of males from 16 years old to 60."

This continued to be the limit of age for military service for many years.

The foregoing extracts from the records in relation to military affairs in the earlier years of the colony will the better enable us to perceive the character and extent of offence given by the military company in Hingham, of which John Tower was a member. This unfortunate affair came to have in its progress another and fully as important a cause of offence, which brought the minister and the church of which John Tower was a member, and from his marriage connection with the minister, Peter Hobart, undoubtedly a sympathizer, into relations of offence with the authorities.

Just what the civil and ecclesiastical relations were in the colony it would be difficult to determine: the charter made no recognition of them; and yet the establishment of churches and the institution of religious worship, according to doctrines and forms generally recognized, were paramount even to the ideal commonwealth they wished to found. The emigrants were mostly of that body of the church denominated Independents in England, recognizing every church gathered to be free to manage its own affairs, without any outside controlling ecclesiastical power. Anything from outside must come in the form of advice, and not in that of direction from other churches.

The civil power seems to have been exercised to protect the churches in what they generally agreed to recognize as fundamental truths, and to aid them in keeping these unimpaired by heretical opinions and practices.

All the freemen must be members of some of the churches, but all the members of the churches did not become freemen, and in consequence had no voice in the civil government and no vote in the choice of civil officers. So many of the church members failed to become freemen that the civil authorities made complaint to the churches, urging measures for its correction.

As the churches held and exercised the right of excommunicating any member for fault of doctrine or practice, and without any appeal, it raised the perplexing question whether a person excommunicated from the church was any longer a freeman, and if holding either civil or military office, whether his expulsion from the church must of necessity determine the tenure of his office.

That this or some other occasion did cause this question to be raised, will be seen by reference to the earlier colonial laws.

"Every church hath also free liberty of admission, recommendation, dismission, and expulsion or disposal of their officers and members upon due cause, with free exercise of the discipline and censures of Christ, according to the rules of the word."

This law was subsequently modified by this provision: —

"But no church censure shall degrade or depose any man from any civil dignity, office, or authority he shall have in the commonwealth."

This was a very grave question, and probably the moving cause of feeling and action on the part of the magistrates, making it of more consequence than the military part of the matter. There is nothing of record of any particular act of John Tower in the military proceedings; but we may infer that he was in sympathy with his brother-in-law, Joshua Hobart, the principal offender, and upon whom the heaviest fine was imposed. But he seems to have been censured for the testimony he gave in the church and, in common with the others, for being a petitioner.

Under the orderly proceedings of courts as they are now constituted for the trial of offences it seems somewhat difficult to understand the proceedings of the General Court in the Hingham case. Under the petition, Winthrop, the deputy-governor, was put upon trial, he claiming that he might have pleaded to the petition and demurred in law, yet consented to the trial, and was acquitted. One would suppose that that would be the end of the proceedings, and that the court of assistants would proceed to hear the case against John Tower and others who were before that court on complaint. Nothing, however, of this kind was done, but the General Court proceeded to pass upon the guilt or innocence of the petitioners, and to determine who should be convicted. But just what offence was found, does not appear from the record. A brief review of the military trouble will show that the company in Hingham, composed of all the male members of the town between the ages of sixteen and sixty, had so grown in numbers as to be a full company, independent of any other town, and entitled to be commanded by a captain, — an officer of great dignity and importance to those whom he should be called upon to command and instruct. It is seen that formerly the military officers had been chosen and appointed by the General Court ; but in 1636 a law was passed empowering the several companies to choose their own officers and present them to the General Court, or such committee as the General Court should appoint for their commissions. The companies were authorized to choose one, two, or three persons to be thus presented. The Hingham company first presented the name of Lieutenant Eames, who had held that office for several years ; but becoming dissatisfied with that nomination, they sent another name, Bozoon Allen, which would seem to be in compliance with the law. Moreover, the law says that "the council shall appoint one of them." This the Council and the General Court neglected to do. It seems that the people of Hingham had become greatly excited in the matter of their proposed captain, and numbers of both parties attended the session of the General Court to urge the claims of their respective candidates. The magistrates and deputies were at variance. The former thought it would be a slight to Eames to have him passed over; while the latter, seeing so large an expression of feeling and so many in numbers for Allen, believed it for the best that this expression should be regarded ; and so nothing was done. The parties came home, bringing different reports of what the magistrates and deputies had said in the case; and acting upon these, much irregularity and tumult took place in the training of the company and in matters of speech, so unworthy of members of the same church as to call for such action as churches were authorized to take by law.

It would be difficult to show, under any provision of law then existing, that the court of assistants had jurisdiction in church matters ; but the law did give the church full and exclusive jurisdiction therein. The testimony which John Tower gave in the church that "authority did advise Lieut. Eames to lay down his place, and that one magistrate did advise him to do so," is fully confirmed by the finding of the deputies, with only one dissenting vote. It will be seen that the magistrates evade this finding and refuse to consider it, and yet they propose to fine John Tower £5 for bearing testimony to it. To this the deputies will not agree, and so the fine is not imposed. In the imposition of the costs of the court upon the petitioners, three being excepted, of whom John Tower is one, the General Court evidently do not intend to encourage the making of complaints against the exercise of authority. In the great contest which John Quincy Adams carried on in the House of Representatives at Washington, vindicating the right of petition, this effectual way of suppressing such petitions, by assessing the cost of entertaining them upon the petitioners, never seemed to occur to his opponents, and Mr. Adams did not probably enlighten them as to this early case in the history of his State.

It is a little remarkable in this very singular trial before the General Court that while Winthrop is fully acquitted, John Tower is exempt from all imposition of fine and costs, to which the rest are subjected and to which he was similarly liable. Because he had suffered imprisonment, he is allowed to offset so much of fine and cost by so much of imprisonment, thus showing that the imprisonment was unwarranted; at the same time the magistrate who inflicted it is sustained for the act.

In bringing the already lengthy presentation of this case to a close, it may be proper to say that the military company in Hingham was still further proceeded against by a denial of its right to a captain; neither was Lieutenant Eames vindicated by the continuance of his authority as lieutenant, but the company was put under the charge of Lieutenant Torrey, of Weymouth. This continued about one year, when Major Gibbons was ordered to take charge of the company. He commanded it for a few years, when the company was once more restored to favor, and permitted to elect its officers, which it proceeded to do by the choice of the same Bozoon Allen for captain, and the heavily fined Joshua Hobart as lieutenant, soon after to succeed Allen as captain.

The early settlers in the several towns on the coast of Massachusetts Bay do not seem to have remained wholly satisfied with their situation, but were often looking into the great wilderness beyond for more favorable places for settlement, where they could find upon the streams wide expanse of meadow, prolific of food for their cattle. It is true these settlements were exposed to danger from the savages, and did suffer severely; but the more adventurous colonists took this risk for the advantages which they afforded. In 1653 Lancaster was incorporated. A number of the early settlers were from Hingham, Scituate, and Weymouth, and in 1654 John Tower's name is found among them. He was probably there then, but did not remain. The following agreement is found upon the Lancaster records: —

"That such of them as were not inhabitants, and who were not yet come up to build, improve, and inhabit, would by the will of God come up to build, plant, and inhabit within a year, otherwise to forfeit all they had expended, forfeit also their land, and pay five pounds for the use of the plantation."

This was signed by "John Towers," April 18, 1654. He does not seem to have proceeded any further in this matter. We next find him engaged in an enterprise of some importance as an undertaking, though in its results it did not bring any pecuniary advantage to him, but rather entailed loss. This was the purchase of a tract of land from the Indians in what is now the State of Rhode Island. A copy of the first deed is here given. There are four other deeds, and the quantity of land embraced within the descriptions in the several deeds is about twenty-four square miles. This land would appear to be within what are now the towns of Cranston, Scituate, and Johnston.

RI. BELLINGHAM, Dep. Gov^r

Entered and recorded in the 375 & 376 pages of the third book of Records of the Notary Publicke of the Massachusetts Colonie of New England the 12th of March, 1662.

p. ROBERT HOWARD, Not: publ. colonia p'd.

It appears that the lands conveyed to John Tower by the Indians had other claimants, who rested their title upon prior deeds from the Indians. The earliest deed was that of "Canonicus" and "Miantonomi" to Roger Williams. His associates, William Harris and others, claimed that Mr. Williams obtained this deed for them as well as for himself, he acting as their agent. After the description of the land there is this additional clause, —

"We do freely give unto him all that land from those rivers reaching to Pawtuxet river, as also the grass and meadows upon the said Pawtuxet river."

In 1659 the brother of Miantonomi, who was killed by Uncas in 1643, gave a confirmatory deed to the men of Providence and Pawtuxet; namely, —

"All the lands between Pawtucket river and Pawtuxet river up the streams, without limit, for the use of cattle; and I also do for summer and winter feeding of their cattle and ploughing, and all other necessary improvements, as for farms, and all manner of plantations whatsoever."

In the same year other Indians, describing themselves as chief sachems of the Indians of those parts, made a confirmatory deed to the same grantees of the same lands.

The Narragansetts, of whom these Indians were chiefs, were more advanced in the work of agriculture than any of the other Indian tribes in New England; and it seems that upon some parts of these lands granted by the chiefs there were individuals of the tribe residing who had cultivated the same. It was one of the theories of Roger Williams and his associates that the Indians had full title to the land, and that any title by patent from any European power was invalid unless confirmed by a deed from the Indians themselves, which could alone give good title to the purchasers. Whether all these Indians who granted lands to John Tower by their several deeds were chiefs of the tribe, does not appear. They are not the same who convey apparently the same lands to the men of Providence and Pawtuxet. Pumham, who signs one of John Tower's deeds, was a noted chief.

As a result of these conflicting claims, a controversy took place, and William Harris, representing the original proprietors, —

"In June, 1677, undertook a voyage to England to petition the King for the appointment of a special commission to hear and determine these claims. . . .

"In his petition he gives a summary of the difficulties and dangers that surrounded the Pawtuxet purchase. He states that he and his twelve partners had purchased the land about forty years before; that their purchase or parts of it were claimed by the town of Providence, the town of Warwick, the colony of New Plymouth, and two parties of the province of Massachusetts Bay. . . . All these various claims depended upon the extent of the original purchase of Providence. . . . The prayer of this petition was granted, and the governors of the four New England colonies were directed to appoint commissioners to hear the matter in dispute. The gentlemen appointed upon this commission were Thomas Hinckley and James Cudworth, of Plymouth; Simon Lynde and Daniel Henchman, of Massachusetts; George Dennison and Daniel Wetherel, of Connecticut; and John Coggeshall and Peleg Sanford, of Rhode Island. They met in Boston on the third of October, 1677, and empannelled a jury, — four of whom belonged to Massachusetts, two to Plymouth, three to Connecticut, and three to Rhode Island. They then adjourned to Providence, where they met on the 17th of November.

"Five cases were there entered and tried before the jury. William Harris, Thomas Field, and Nathaniel Waterman were the plaintiffs. The defendants were John Tours, of Hingham; the town of Warwick; John Harrod and partners; Edmund Caverly, Gregory Dexter, Arthur Fenner, and the town of Providence." *

* Staple's Annals of Providence.

Judgment was given for the plaintiff in all these cases, and execution issued for possession and costs. An appeal was taken by the defendants in the second case, and another commission appointed to hear the case, by which the former judgment was affirmed.

As William Harris had difficulty in obtaining possession of the lands according to the verdict, he again went to England; but was taken by pirates and carried to Algiers, where he remained some time, but was finally redeemed. He then went to England, and to London a few days after reaching there. Some thirty years after, his heirs petition for execution of the decree, reciting that the authorities have neglected to give them possession of the land. There is no evidence that they were kept out of possession by any act of John Tower, though it is doubtful whether he paid the costs awarded in the judgment. In the inventory of the estate of William Harris, recorded in the probate office in Providence, is entered as due from John Tower the sum of £18. There is no evidence of its payment, and it is here presented as a matter of consideration to some of his descendants who have strong impressions of the existence of a large fortune held in abeyance in England, and waiting only the presentation of the family claim for its payment, whether this ancient debt, with its accumulated interest, does not present an obligation of duty running as concurrently strong as the promise of fortune.

The judgment in this matter, so adverse to John Tower, must have caused him loss, both in time and in the means necessary to obtain the deeds from the Indians. Tradition has preserved the story that he had large acquaintance and much influence with the Indians.

In the years intervening from the time John Tower received grants of land from the town, near the time of the first settlement, he continued to receive other grants, and also to obtain additional land by purchase, as under date of Jan. 1, 1650–1,—

"By a general vote of the town, John Tower hath that great lot given him which was formerly given unto Thomas Gill."

1657, March 25, William Cockram, of Southhold, in the county of Suffolk, mariner, gives power of attorney to his son, William Cockram, Jr., to convey land; and Sept. 27, 1657, William Cockram, Jr., conveys land and marsh in Hingham to John Tower. William Cockram was brother-in-law to John Tower.

In the year 1664 John Tower made purchase of a considerable tract of land in Hingham, as appears by deed of Edward Wilder and Elizabeth, his wife, recorded in Suffolk Deeds, book viii. page 147, with the following description : —

"All that said dwelling-house situate in Hingham aforesaid, with all houses, out-houses, barns, buildings, stables, cowhouses, orchards, gardens, foldyards, with the lands thereunto adjoining, containing five acres, be it more or less, which was given by the inhabitants of the town of Hingham unto Martha Wilder, my mother, for a house-lot, and is bounded with the highway that leadeth from the plain to the common northward, and with the land of Michael Pearse eastward, and with the land that was formerly John Benson's westward, and the land that was formerly Edward Gilman's, southward ; and another house-lot, containing three acres of land, be it more or less, lately purchased of John Benson, and is bounded with the aforesaid house-lot of five acres eastward, and with the common westward, and with the aforesaid highway northward, and with a parcel of land lately given by the town to the said Edward Wilder southward ; and another parcel of land containing four acres, be it more or less, lately purchased of Edward Gilman, and is bounded with the land of Michael Pearse, formerly the land of Stephen Paine, eastward, and with the aforesaid house-lot of five acres northward, and with the aforesaid parcel of land lately given by the town to the said Edward Wilder westward, and with a little brook southward, which runneth between the said four acres of land and the land of Edward Wilder, which he purchased of Samuel Ward ; and another parcel of land lying to the westward of the aforesaid four acres, which was given me by the town of Hingham ; and it is bounded with the aforesaid house-lot that was John Benson's northward, and the common land westward ; and three acres of salt marsh, lying and being in the township of Hingham, aforesaid, in Cohasset Marshes ; being the first lot in the 2nd division, which was given me by the town of Hingham, and is bounded with the meadow of Henry Chamberlain and the Cove northward, and with the town's land southward and westward, and with the meadow of John Page eastward ; with all the privileges . . . (always excepting the privilege of commons of the aforesaid house-lot of three acres, that was formerly John Benson's)."

This deed is dated May 16, 1664, and acknowledged before Eleazer Lusher, May 17, 1664, and recorded May 10, 1673.

The tract of land described in the foregoing deed extended from what is now Main Street, at Cole's Corner, to the brook at Tower's Bridge, and, allowing for the large area of an acre, as seems to be given in the allotment of house-lots, as we find by those which can now be identified, must have contained about thirty acres, all of which was capable of cultivation. These house-lots of Martha Wilder and John Benson were the extreme house-lots granted by the town, under the law limiting the distance from the meeting-house to which house-lots could be granted, and were about one mile from John Tower's residence. He seems to have come into possession of considerable tracts of other lands, as appears by subsequent conveyances, though the deeds of purchase, like many of the deeds of that period, fail to be recorded.

At the time of this purchase John Tower's ten children were all born, the eldest three sons had attained their majority, though none were then married, and he was well equipped with a force of labor sufficient for the clearing and cultivation of his extensive lands. He soon after built a dwelling-house at the southern boundary of his recent purchase, where he lived during the remainder of his days. Three of his sons had their dwelling-houses upon this land, where they spent their lives, and a portion of the same, including the lot where he built his house, is now owned by Lucy A. Tower, the widow of a descendant, and is now occupied by her. The house built by John Tower was taken down about the beginning of the present century. There does not appear upon the records any deed of conveyance of his original lot, the birthplace of all his children; but as there is no subsequent recognition of ownership of it by him, it may be inferred that he sold it.

During these years John Tower appears to have done service to the town in several offices of labor and trust, to which he was chosen; and he also had several controversies with the town, growing out of alleged encroachments, incident to imperfectly defined boundaries and to the clearing of the lands of wood and timber. He also had complaints against the town for loss and damage suffered in his lands needed and taken for public uses.

In 1657 he was one of the way-wardens; in 1659 he was one of the constables.

In 1665 a committee having large powers was chosen, as appears by the following vote: —

"By a joint consent and general vote of the town, Daniel Cushing, Matthew Cushing, John Jacob, John Tower, and Edmund Hobart are chosen to get the best evidence they can concerning highways formerly laid out, or about land formerly left for highways; and they are impowered by the town to lay out highways accordingly where they see it most convenient for the use of the town."

In 1684 "the town renewed and continued the power of the above said committee for laying out highways in Hingham till the town shall see cause to call in their power."

At about this time John Tower seems to have been compelled to a summary process to maintain or enforce some claim, as the following record shows: —

"The town hath fined John Tower and John Magoon twenty shillings apiece, for the use of the town, for quarrelling and striking one another in a public town meeting."

What the occasion of this fierce encounter was, does not appear, but from some other transactions which can be incidentally learned, it would seem to have arisen from a claim of a right of way by one, through the lands of the other.

Edmund Pitts, aged fifty-one years or thereabouts, and John Tucker, aged twenty-nine years or thereabouts, these deponents testifieth, and saith that they being present when Simon Peck bought of John Tower that house and land, whereupon John Magoon now dwelleth, these deponents did then hear the said John Tower and said Simon Peck agree and conclude that he, the said John Tower, should have a way through the said land unto the said John Tower's salt-marsh meadow, both to cart and carry hay, to drive and fetch cattle for egress and regress, he the said Tower and his heirs and assigns forever, without molestation or denial; and this we are ready to testify upon oath when legally called thereunto.

Dated this 20th of June, 1665.

"Em" Pitt.
John Tucker.

The said Edmund Pitts and John Tucker were sworn in Hingham to the truth of what is above written on the nineteenth day of May, Anno Dom. sixteen hundred and eighty-four, before me, Daniel Cushing, Commissioner.

In the same year John Tower brings a claim before the town for compensation for loss sustained and damage suffered by default and action of the town, as the following from the Town Records will show: —

At a town meeting, John Tower, Sen., of Hingham, desired of the town satisfaction for a small parcel of upland, taken of the westward end of his great lot of land lying on the great plain in said Hingham, near the digged way, for the enlarging the country road; also he desired satisfaction for salt-marsh, that, he said, was granted by the said town at "Nantascut" to William Cockerill; and he then said that the said William Cockerill had given or sold his said marsh to him, and the town left that matter to the selectmen to be issued with the said John Tower; and on the eighteenth day of March, 1666, the selectmen of the town and the said John Tower viewed some brushy meadow lying in the woods in Hingham, near to Ridge Hills, but did not lay out any while they were there, but as they were coming home proposed to the said Tower what they thought to allow of said brushy meadow in satisfaction for said upland and marsh, and he seemed to be content therewith; but some of the selectmen went after to lay out what the selectmen agreed with him, and the said John Tower denied their agreement, and claimed more than was agreed upon; and the persons that went to lay it out returned and did nothing, but concluded that what had been formerly done was nothing in reference to that matter. And at a town meeting in said Hingham on the 24th day of January, 1670, the said John Tower renewed his motion to the town for satisfaction for said upland and marsh-land, and the town hearing how said selectmen had acted about it, the town then chose Lieut. John Smith, John Jacob, John Leavitt, Thomas Lincoln, husbandman, and Daniel Cushing, to measure or set out to John Tower, Sen., a parcel of brushy meadow at a place called "Ridge Hills," according to their agreement with the said Tower on the town's behalf, on the aforesaid eighteenth of March, they at that time being selectmen of the town. The said five men above named, or the major part of them, have, since they were chosen, laid out a piece of brushy meadow which contained by estimation about six acres of land or thereabont, and it is bounded with the Ridge Hill and with the meadow of John Prince, toward the northeast, and with the main brook toward the northwest, and with the town's land toward the southeast and also toward the southwest, which said piece of brushy meadow is laid out in full satisfaction for the said John Tower's upland, and also for the said marsh-land that the said John Tower said was granted to the said William Cockerill.

Entered and recorded by

DANIEL CUSHING, Town Clerk.

It would seem that other causes of disagreement, leading to litigation then pending, were existing between the town and John Tower, as we find under date of Oct. 16, 1668: —

"By a joint consent of the town, John Tower, Sen., is released from the four actions that are now depending in the Commissioners' Courts, provided that he pay all the charges that the town hath been out about them which he did promise to pay."

Just what the causes of these actions may have been, does not appear by any especial statement of the same. It may be inferred that the following agreement by the town may have had an office in the settlement of the same.

"It was agreed upon by the town that John Tower, Sen., should have the wood which he hath cut upon the common at the end of his wood lot, at Straits Pond, for six pence the cord, but he is to be at the charge of measuring his lot, and satisfy Edmund Hobart and John Jacob, who were appointed by the town to bound out those wood lots. He was charged with cutting 25 cords of wood upon the common."

The trespass here made by John Tower upon the town's common seems to have been accidental rather than intentional, and grew out of imperfectly defined boundaries. The merely nominal price of sixpence a cord for the wood would seem also to show the town meant that John Tower should get benefit enough to compensate him for his payment of costs in the actions. The large quantity of wood allowed tends to confirm this.

It does not appear of record that this particular lot was granted to John Tower by the town, and he probably acquired it by purchase, by a deed which failed to be recorded. The failure to record deeds in the early settlement of Massachusetts was quite common, and instances can be found in the registry of deeds where a deed has been recorded more than a century after it was given.

1671, Dec. 11, John Tower, Sen., of Hingham, etc., planter, and Margaret his wife, in consideration of £50, convey to Stephen French, of Weymouth, —

Three lots of land; that is to say, one lot containing six acres of land, which was given by the inhabitants of the town of Hingham to Mr. Richard Ibrook for a planting lot; and another lot, containing six acres of land, which was given by the inhabitants of the town of Hingham to Wm. Cockerum, for a planting lot; and another lot, containing six acres of land, which was given to Wm. Cockerill for a planting lot: the said three lots lieth all in one piece of land in Hingham, and is bounded by the line that runneth between Hingham and Weymouth westward, and with the common land eastward and southward, and with the land of John Fearing and with the common lands northward.

JOHN TOWER (Seal)
his T mark
MARGARET TOWER (Seal)

This deed was recorded April 30, 1685.

The land probably came to Margaret Tower either by gift or inheritance from her father and brothers-in-law.

Attention is called to the consideration named in this deed, — namely, £50, — remembering that the wages of a laboring man is by regulation 2*s*. a day, and that £50 at that rate will represent five hundred days' work, which at their present value of one dollar and fifty cents a day will amount to seven hundred and fifty dollars, — a price far in excess of the value of the lands at the present day.

It will be remembered that John Tower was to pay the costs in certain actions commenced by the town, and the sum demanded for certain wood; and May 3, 1669, —

"At a publick town meeting Deacon Leavitt, in the behalf of the town, did demand of John Tower, Sen., two pounds ten shillings and four-pence, which was the charge of the courts about the actions the town sued him in, and twelve shillings and sixpence for 25 cords of wood, which he cut upon the common, which he promised and engaged to pay, as appears by his agreement with the town upon the 16th day of Octob^{r} 1668; and this pay being demanded of him, he promised to pay it if the town did appoint any to receive it. The town then upon the second day of February did appoint the selectmen to receive it for the use of the town."

It would seem that John Tower had learned some caution in his controversies with the town and those pretending to represent it, and he meant to be sure that full and explicit authority was granted them before he would treat with them; and as the town did not give such authority to Deacon Leavitt, it would seem that John Tower was using proper discretion in refusing to make payment to him.

A matter of much importance to all the inhabitants of Hingham had been under agitation for some time, and that was the disposition of the lands within the limits of the town which had not already been granted. It will be remembered that few new settlers came after 1640; while many left and were engaged in forming new settlements.

The result of this agitation was a conclusion to draw a line around and at some distance from the grants already made, and to divide the remaining land among the proprietors as their several claims could be determined or adjusted. Much difficulty was found in this work. Some, in addition to their own grants, had purchased in whole or in part of those who had left, and those remaining had purchased or exchanged with others. It was finally determined to make seven hundred shares, and to distribute them among the proprietors. The greatest number of shares allotted to any one was thirty-five, and this number was given to Daniel Cushing; and the smallest number was two shares. Several persons had that number by inheritance and by the division of estates. To John Tower were allotted eight shares.

There was dissatisfaction with the allotments, and probably no allotment could have been made giving complete contentment. John Tower was one of the complainants, as will hereafter be seen.

The territory divided was made in four distinct parcels or lots, which were designated first, second, third divisions, and second part of the third division. The most of this land is within the limits of the present town of Cohasset, and makes the greater part of that town.

The first and most important of the divisions commenced at Bound Brook, which made the boundary between Hingham and Scituate; then on a line extending from said Bound Brook, in a northerly direction, about two and one fourth miles, being nearly identical with the present Main Street of Cohasset. The several lots were laid out at right angles with said line, and were about one mile in length. There were eighty-three lots, several of the smaller shares being put in one lot.

At a town meeting held Jan. 24, 1669–70, —

"It was voted that no man shall sell his land that shall fall to him by the division of the commons to any person or persons living out of town, unless he shall sell with it his whole seat of land which he has in the town, and the vote passed in the affirmative; but three men dissented from the vote; as namely, Humphrey Johnson, John Tower, and William Woodcock."

Dec. 6, 1670, the lots in the several divisions were drawn in numbers. John Tower drew the sixty-sixth lot in the first division, containing fifteen acres, two roods, and thirty-two rods; and if the lot was just one mile in depth, it would call for a frontage upon the street of nearly one hundred and twenty-nine and one half feet.

On the same day the lots in the second division were drawn, and John Tower's was the forty-second lot, and contained twenty-three acres and sixteen rods.

March 10, 1670–71, the lots in the third division and in the second part of the third division were drawn, and John Tower drew the seventieth lot, containing seventeen acres and two roods. This lot is in the present limits of Hingham, and is bounded southerly by the patent line formerly separating the colonies of Plymouth and Massachusetts Bay. His lot in the second part of the third division contained sixteen acres, one rood, and twenty-eight rods.

The whole quantity of land embraced in these divisions, including the land left for roads, was about ten square miles; and the whole quantity drawn by John Tower was seventy-two acres, two roods, and thirty-six rods. His lots were from three to five miles from his residence.

John Tower was much dissatisfied with his share of the lands, as the following petition will show: —

1673, May 9. — Honored General Court now sitting in Boston. The of John Tower, Sen., of Hingham,

Humbly Sheweth — That whereas your petitioner has been an inhabitant and freeman of the town of Hingham about 35 years, and in and about the years 68 and 69 the said town had several meetings, and the major part of the said town's people did amply agree of and settle a division of the common that belonged to the said town, excepting some part of the said common that was to lie common property for the use of the proprietors, and some exceptions made about the wood, and the same day it was also agreed upon the manner of the division of the aforesaid common, which was that the land, wood, and timber was to be divided according to the house lots, heads, and estates of the proprietors or inhabitants aforesaid;

And at another town meeting after it was agreed how they should be valued or rated as by the town's book or records thereof may appear, and yet notwithstanding all what before said to be legally and amply done by the town in the premises, your petitioner has nor cannot receive any benefit or allowance according to the aforesaid town acts as to heads and estates, and on nothing was his just proportion as to house-lots.

Although your petitioner has used all fair means and profert as far as he was capable for the obtaining the same, it is positively denied him. And further, your petitioner is denied by the clerk any copy authenticated of the town's book records, the said clerk being prohibited to give me any that is authentic, so that I cannot sue at common law, nor any other way proceed for want of the copies of the town records as before said, and am wholly left destitute of being able to do anything for myself excepting what this Honorable General Court shall please to grant me, to whom I make this humble supplication for that favor to be granted me, that I may but have a hearing of my just complaint wherein I am so great a sufferer.

And if the Honored Court shall appoint any other persons to examine the premises, I humbly crave that there may be the respect had that the matter be committed or left unto unconcerned persons no ways interested as to persons or case; in which I shall be happy and ever bound to pray for the prosperity of this Honored General Court, and subscribe myself your poor petitioner for my redress.

Hingham, May 9th, 1673.

John T Tower, Sen., his mark.

In answer to this petition the magistrates —

Refer the petitioner to a due course of law against the town or clerk, their brethren.

Consented to. The Deputies.

It does not appear that John Tower availed himself of the means of redress to which his attention was called by the action of the General Court upon his petition, and he probably rested in his dissatisfaction with the several votes of the town by which the common lands were distributed, instead of engaging in dilatory and expensive litigation.

In 1675 came on the cruel and devastating war of King Philip, involving so many of the towns and settlements of New England in partial or complete destruction, and causing a loss of life unparalleled in its history. Hingham, from its situation on the seaboard, suffered but small loss of property in this war, but gave freely of the lives and services of her sons in defence of the colony.

John Tower's home was on the extreme outskirt of the town, and in any inroad of the savages would be the most exposed to attacks. It would seem that it was considered by the town authorities to be so unsafe and untenable that he had been ordered to remove his family into one of the forts near the more compactly settled portion of the town. He was not inclined to yield ready obedience to the order, and once more addressed the colonial authorities, in the following petition: —

March 10, 1675–76. John Tower, Sen., of Hingham, is bold to inform your Honors that he hath at his own proper charge fortified his house, and to beg your favor that his four sons and one or two persons more, that he may hire at his own cost, may be allowed him for the garrisoning his house, and may not be called off by the committee of the town for to come into any other garrison, my sons having deserted their own dwellings and brought their goods into my fortification. I shall then acknowledge your Honors' favor herein, and be thereby further obliged to pray for a blessing on your councils.

Your humble servant,

Jn T Tower, Sen.

It would seem that this favor was granted, and that John Tower remained in his fortified house. Only one irruption of the Indians is known to have taken place in the vicinity of his house, and John Jacob was slain within one half of a mile of it, — the only person killed in town by the Indians in this war, and within three quarters of a mile of his own house. The houses of Joseph Jones and Anthony Sprague were burned, they having probably been vacated by their owners.

The number belonging to John Tower's family and sheltered within his fortified house appears to be as follows: himself and wife and seven children (his son Jonathan probably having died before this time, though no record of his death appears), including his oldest son John[2], with wife Sarah and infant son Benjamin[3]; son Ibrook[2], with wife Margaret and children, Richard[3], Daniel[3], John[3], Rachel[3]; son Jeremiah[2], with wife Elizabeth and children, Jeremiah [3] and Mary [3]; daughter Hannah [2], with son Joseph Cowell [3]; and his unmarried children, Benjamin [2], Jemima [2], and Samuel [2], — making twenty persons in all, of whom eight are children of tender years, and one, Samuel [2], a lad of fourteen years. All of these were to be accommodated in one house of moderate dimensions, and defended by John Tower, then sixty-seven years of age, his four sons, and one or two hired men. It will be seen by turning to the history of King Philip's war that the Indians at this particular time had become savagely aggressive, and were attacking the settlements all through the colonies, with a last desperate effort for their destruction, as the only hope of their own salvation.

Tradition in the family has preserved something of this time of peril, showing also that previously John Tower had been in a position of influence and intercourse with the Indians. When occasion required some one to go outside of the fortification, the duty was assigned to "old John Tower;" as they would all say: "You go, old John Tower; the Indians all know you, and they won't hurt you."

It is probable that John Tower's sons, besides the garrison service for the protection of their own and their father's family, did service in the field. In the journal kept by the especial colonial treasurer for the war, there is an account with Benjamin Tower, showing a payment made to him for specified service. Jeremiah Tower probably died in the service, as there is no record of his death in the town records of deaths, or in the diary of his uncle, Rev. Peter Hobart. The omission of the record would indicate that he died away from home, and that the time and place were unknown. Administration was granted upon his estate January 30, 1676–77, and the following abstract from a deed shows a conveyance of land by John Tower. It is dated January 31, 1676–77: —

Whereas Jeremiah Tower, of Hingham, in New England, weaver, have lately built a dwelling house upon part of the land of John Tower, Sen., of Hingham, aforesaid, lately purchased of Edward Wilder, and was formerly the land of John Benson. Know all men by these presents that I, the said John Tower and Margaret my wife, as well for and in consideration of the fatherly love and good will and affection which we have and bear unto the aforesaid Jeremiah Tower, our well-beloved son, as also for divers other good causes and considerations unto us at this present especially moving, have given, etc. . . . unto our said son, Jeremiah Tower, his heirs and assigns forever, the land on which the said dwelling house now standeth, and so much more adjoining to it as shall make up the land on which the said dwelling house now standeth, two acres of land, which two acres of land lieth in the township of Hingham aforesaid, and is part of a lot formerly John Benson's, and part of a lot formerly Edward Wilder's, and the said two acres of land is bounded with the land of the said John Tower, northward and southward, and with the land of Edmund Pitts, lately purchased of Michael Pearse, eastward, and with the common land westward.

In 1674 John Tower conveys his land in the "plain neck" to Daniel Cushing.

In 1677 another division of the common lands in Hingham was made among the proprietors, and John Tower received twelve acres. This was called the "fourth" division. It lies next to the Weymouth line. This is the last division of the common lands in which John Tower had part. The other divisions were made subsequent to his death.

1680, Oct. 9. John Tower was taxed with the other inhabitants of Hingham in a rate for the building of a new meeting-house, — an event of some importance when the cost is considered, and the impoverished condition of the country so near the close of King Philip's war, the cost and devastation of which lay so heavily upon the colonies.

The sum raised by this rate was £436 14*s.* 11*d.* This was imposed upon one hundred and forty-three different persons, making an average tax of £3 1*s.* 1*d.* John Tower's tax was £2 17*s.* 6*d.*, — a little less than the average. The whole tax, measured by the wages of laboring men at 2*s.* 6*d.* a day, would call for three thousand four hundred and fifty-four days work nearly; and estimating this work at the price for the same at the present time, — namely, one dollar and a half a day, — it would require nearly five thousand one hundred and eighty-one dollars. John Tower's part would call for twenty-three days' work, at a present value of thirty-four and one half dollars. On the completion of the meeting-house, as there was no private ownership within the walls, the people had their seats assigned them by a committee appointed for that purpose. A record of the seating on the day it was first occupied for religious services, Jan. 8, 1682, new style, has been preserved. Respect appears to have been paid to age and station in this assignment, and John Tower, with four other aged men, had the seat directly under the pulpit. The old meetinghouse still gathers within its walls the descendants of its builders, and though no one of the name of Tower is a constant attendant, yet on any bright Sunday morning some fifty of his descendants may be found where he came to worship more than two hundred years ago. The oldest of these are in the seventh generation, and among the youngest may be found those in the eleventh.

And now, having passed the threescore and ten years of his life in a sphere of activity attendant upon a new settlement and amid the formation of a new government taxing the powers of the wisest properly to provide for, he appears to have passed the remaining years of his long life in comparative quiet and rest. He lived long enough to witness the abrogation of the charter under whose constructive provisions he had wrestled with authority and had suffered, and now found himself, with the others, subjected to a tyranny claiming a right and power to divest him of all title to his hard-earned possessions.

This, however, did not wholly prevent him from having transactions in real estate, both in buying and selling, some of which are made matter of record.

He seems to have continued in making provision for his children in deeds of gift of lands; as in May 26, 1684, he conveys to his youngest son, Samuel, "in consideration of the natural love and affection that I have and do bear unto my loving son Samuel, . . . one acre of my salt-marsh meadow lying on the westward part of my salt-marsh meadow which I formerly purchased of Thomas Shaw."

At the same date he conveys to his son Benjamin, for a similar consideration, "my two acres of land . . . which I had of Mr. Joseph Peck, . . . and is bounded with the street sometimes called Bachelor Street."

Dec. 28, 1686. Theodore Atkinson and Mary his wife, in consideration of £37, convey to John Tower "all that his piece or parcel of land situate in Boston, containing fifty foot square, bounded Westerly by land of John Atkinson, Northeasterly by land of Theodore Atkinson, Southerly by a highway fourteen feet wide, that is to be laid out on the south side of said land."

July 1, 1691. John Tower, Sen., and Margaret his wife convey to their son Benjamin Tower, in consideration of £10 10s., "one acre and a quarter of upland and a piece of salt-marsh meadow" in Hingham. "The upland is bounded westerly with the orchard of the said John and Margaret Tower, northerly with the land of Matthew Whiting and land of the grantors, southerly with the land of Samuel Tower, and easterly with the land of John Stodder. . . . The said salt-marsh meadow is bounded southerly with the salt-marsh meadow of the grantors, northerly with the meadow of Eyebrook Tower, easterly with the low-water mark in the pond, westerly with the upland of Jeremiah Bate."

Among the papers belonging to John Tower which have been preserved is the following: —

> Some time in the year 1691, I being present as a witness to the deed of sale that John Tower, Sen., made to his son Samuel Tower, I then and there heard John Tower, Sen., object against the signing of this deed, because that his son Benjamin had a way to his land that he had sold him that lay at the east side of his orchard, whereupon Samuel Tower said, let not that hinder, for if his Brother Benjamin would get a written made, he would sign it.
> JOHN STODDER, Jun.

John Tower lived long enough to witness the union of the two colonies of Plymouth and Massachusetts Bay under one charter government, and the advent of a royal governor, in 1692, with whom and with whose several successors his descendants were to wrestle in questions of rights, liberty, and governmental policy, as he had already often contended with authority under the old charter for the same things. That sturdy hold upon the possibility of an independent commonwealth which Winthrop and his associates brought with them never relinquished its grasp until attainment and security came to reward their tenacity and fidelity.

It will be noticed that John Tower invariably made his mark when his signature was required to deeds or other instruments of writing, while his wife always signed her name; and specimens of her written name have been preserved, made a few years only before her death.

John Tower left no will, nor is there any settlement of his estate in the Probate Court. It would seem that he gave his property to his children before he died, a few of the deeds of gift being recorded; but from the extent of his possessions it appears that the greater part failed to be put on record.

At the time of the death of John Tower three of his children had deceased; namely, John [2], Jonathan [2], and Jeremiah [2]. The other seven children were probably living. There had been born to his John [2] six children, of whom three were living. To his son Ibrook [2] twelve children; ten appear to be living. To his son Jeremiah [2], three children, two of whom were living. To his son Benjamin [2], twelve children, ten of whom were living. To his son Samuel [2], five children, all of whom were living. To his daughter Elizabeth [2] Roberts, the baptism of one son is recorded, and there is no record of his death. To his daughter Sarah [2] Curtis there appears to be one daughter who is living. To his daughter Hannah [2] Whipple, eight children, seven of whom were living. The whole number of the children living at his death was seven, grandchildren thirty-nine, and great-grandchildren thirteen. As it is not proposed to follow the daughters in the line of their descendants in this work, a brief description of them will be given under the heads of the several families to which they belong. Elizabeth [2], the eldest daughter of John Tower, married William Roberts, who is supposed to be the son of Robert Roberts, of Boston. They appear to have had only one son, Thomas, baptized June 20, 1669. William Roberts served as a soldier in King Philip's war. Sarah [2], the second daughter, married a Curtis. The only evidence of the marriage or of any issue is derived from the following deed, recorded in Suffolk Registry of Deeds, book 27, page 60, and dated Sept. 16, 1708, which recites that "Eyebrook Tower, Cooper, Benjamin Tower, Weaver, and Samuel Tower, Cooper, in consideration of the natural love and affection which they have and do bear unto Militiah, the wife of Joseph Maudesly, of Dorchester, in the county aforesaid, yeoman, their kinswoman, do convey unto her a piece of land situate in Boston, which John Tower bo't of Theodore Atkinson, all of which said land and premises were heretofore the estate and inheritance of their father, John Tower, late of Hingham, aforesaid, yeoman, who in his lifetime gave the same to his daughter, Sarah Curtis, mother of the said Militiah, by word only, without deed."

In the same Registry of Deeds, book 28, page 149, is the record of a deed from Joseph Maudesly and Militiah, his wife, to Theodore Atkinson, dated Sept. 8, 1714.

In the History of Dorchester published by Ebenezer Clapp, 1859, on page 293, is the following: —

"1725, Sept. 26. About a fortnight ago Joseph Maudsly, Mr. John Preston, Mr. Soper, and Mrs. Butts's son, on a fishing voyage, turned into a cove to the eastward in their vessel, with Joseph Maudsly's servant boy; also Mr. Hunnewell, of Boston, went in with them, also Mr. Cox strove to go in; but the fog hindered him, and the Indians barbarously murdered all that went in but the boy. [The boy was rdeemed in 1728.]"

Joseph Maudesly was the son of Thomas and Mary (Lawrence) Maudesly, and was born in Dorchester April 17, 1681. His will is dated April 20, 1707, and allowed by the Probate Court Oct. 8, 1725. There appears to be no issue of this marriage. The name Maudesly is variously spelled, and is now written Moseley. Militiah Maudesly married, second, Charles King, of Dorchester, March 29, 1727. He died, and administration upon his estate was granted to his widow Jan 20, 1728–9. She married, third, Henry Freeborn, of Dorchester, Jan. 29, 1729–30.

The records afford but little knowledge of Jemima, the youngest daughter of John Tower. When the people of the town had their seats assigned them on the opening of the new meeting-house, she had a seat among the maids. She was then nearly twenty-three years old. It is conjectured that she is the person intended in the following record of marriage, found in the first volume of the Town Records: —

"1705, Dec. 17. Mar. Thomas Garnet & Judith Tower, by Mr. John Norton."

The name of Judith does not appear among the children of John Tower or of his sons, nor was there a widow of that name. At the date of this marriage Jemima Tower was forty-six years old, and Thomas Garnet was forty-one. Neither birth nor baptism of children of Thomas Garnet are found in the Hingham Records, nor is there any record of his death or that of his wife.

John Tower [2], the oldest son of John Tower [1], lived in Hingham some fourteen years after his marriage, when he removed to Braintree, where he died a few years before his father's death. In Dec. 27, 1682, at a town meeting in Hingham, it was voted to sell the wood at a place called "Couper's Islands" to such of the proprietors of the adjoining meadows as "will have a part of it, . . . they paying ten pounds in money." This money the town gave to John Tower, Jr., "toward the paying of his purchase of land he bought in Plymouth Colony." It does not appear that he settled upon this land, but soon after went to Braintree.

Margaret (Harding) Tower died in Hingham (Cohasset), Nov. 19, 1705. Ibrook Tower[2] mar. 2d, Patience, widow of Daniel Hobart, and previously the widow of Benjamin Jones, Aug. 6, 1712.

Ibrook Tower[2] died in Cohasset Nov. 22, 1732, ag. 88 y. 9 m.

Patience ( ) (Jones) (Hobart) Tower died Dec. 22, 1747.

Ibrook Tower[2], the third son of John Tower, had the land which his father drew in the first division of land made by the proprietors in 1670. The deed is not recorded. Ibrook Tower probably went upon this land and built himself a house soon after the termination of King Philip's war, and was among the earlier settlers of what was then the village, and has since 1770 been the district and town of Cohasset.

He was frequently called upon to fill various municipal offices, and in 1699 he was one of the selectmen of the town. In addition to the agricultural pursuits common to all the people he was also a cooper, — an occupation for which the people of Hingham early became noted.

The raising of sheep early became an object of importance. This industry suffered loss from the depredations of wolves, and the records of the town show disbursements made for their destruction. In a list of debts due from the town in 1670–71 is one to "John Stodder and Ibrook Tower for killing a wolf, £1;" and again the same year is the entry, "Paid to John Stodder, Ibrook Tower, and Purden Varlow for killing of a wolf, 9*s*." In 1672, "Paid Ibrook Tower, about killing a wolf, 2*s*. 10*d*."

In making his home at Cohasset, Ibrook Tower and the others, who began the settlement there, were some four or five miles removed from the school and meeting-house, — those desirable adjuncts to a New England town. For some thirty years this young settlement went on without any better facilities for the education of the children and for their own attendance upon the Sunday services of the sanctuary. And yet under these disadvantages the sons and grandsons of Ibrook Tower obtained so much of the rudiments of learning as to be able to write, for they invariably sign their names to all instruments requiring their signature. The daughters and granddaughters were not so fortunate; and when the occasion calls for their signature it is often made with the mark, — a matter of frequent occurrence at this period of New England history among the females.

In the years 1717–21 a precinct was formed of Cohasset, a meeting-house was built and a minister ordained, and soon after a school-house was built, and the people were relieved of their long and wearisome journeys over the imperfectly formed roads through the woods which separated their newer village from the parent town.

The first minister of the newly formed parish was Rev. Nehemiah Hobart, a grandson of Rev. Peter Hobart, and a relative of Ibrook Tower, who early became a member of the church gathered there.

In 1720, at the age of seventy-six years, Ibrook Tower makes his will, of which the following are extracts: —

"Gives to his wife Patience all the personal estate she brought in marriage," etc. Gives her "eight pounds per annum every year she remains my widow, £3 10*s*. to be paid by my son Hezekiah, £4 10*s*. by my son Daniel."

He sets apart certain pieces of land as security for the payment, with directions for the sale of the same in the event of the failure of said payment.

"And further 't is my will that my said wife, in lieu of the west end of my former dwelling-house and leanto, cellar and oven liberty, shall have the use and improvement of my now dwelling-house and a spot for a garden, with apples for her own use, with liberty of ingress, egress, and regress, during her being my widow. . . ."

Gives "to son Hezekiah . . . all my part and parcels of lands in the third division and second division, and all that part of the lots whereon my dwelling-house now stands, beginning at the fence standing upon Deer Hill, and thence running to the highway dividing between the first and second divisions, which is the end of said lot, together with an acre of my tillage land adjoining to said lot; also one half part of my salt-marsh at Cooper's island. . . ."

Gives "to son Daniel all the rest of my housing and lands not hereby otherwise disposed of. . . ." Gives to Hezekiah and Daniel "all my cooper's tools."

Gives to his "six daughters, — Rachel Bates, Mary Whiton, Elizabeth Merritt, Content Souther, Patience James, and Lydia Franklin seven pounds apiece; £15 to be paid by Hezekiah, and £27 by Daniel." Gives "to two grandsons, John Tower and Elisha Tower, £5 apiece in bills of credit or current money." Discharges his daughter Esther from all book debts. Nominates sons Hezekiah and Daniel to be executors.

In explanation of the provisions of Ibrook Tower's will, it should be stated that as a preliminary arrangement to his marriage with the widow Patience Hobart a deed of trust was made by Ibrook Tower, with the following provisions; namely, she is to have her own personal property for her own disposal, and if she survive him and continue his widow —

"She shall have the use, benefit, and improvement of the west end of the house wherein the said Ibrook Tower dwells, and the leanto contiguous thereto, and the cellar under the same, with liberty to bake in the oven in a low room of the said house, with free egress and regress to the said house, and the use and privilege of the well, and of a yard for the convenient putting of Firewood for the use of said house; and also a small spot of ground for a garden, and what apples she shall want for her own use out of the orchard."

Eight pounds were to be paid to her annually, in addition; and this is made a charge upon the following lands: —

"Eight acres near 'Cooper's Island;' three acres bounded with land of Richard Tower, deceased, southeast, southwest on land of Lazarus Beal; eight acres bounded southeast on 'Scituate Pond;' west on land of Aaron Pratt, east and northwest on the highway; two acres bounded southeast on the 'Ironworks,' northwest upon said Pratt's land, south on Mordecai Lincoln's land, and eastward upon land of Thomas Andrews." Dated July 9, 1712.

Schedule of Patience Hobart's Personal Property.

"Money, £40. One Bed, Bedstead and Curtains, One pr. of Bed Blankets, Eight pr. of Sheets, Four Coverlets, Three pr. of Pillowbeers, Ten Napkins, Two Table Cloths, Six Towels, Three Chests, One Trunk, One Box, Two Iron Kettles, One Iron Pot, Three Chairs, Three Pewter Basins, One Quart Pot, One Pint Pot, One Baker Cup, One Candle Stick, One Frying Pan, One Warming Pan, A Box Iron & Heaters, A Washing Tub, Brewing Tub, One Meat Tub, One Spring Wheel, Two Beer Vessels."

In the condition of household furnishings at the present time the foregoing schedule of this widow would indicate destitution rather than comfort. It is only by a comparison of the cost of its production then that its real value can be seen. £40 in money at the rate of labor at 2*s.* a day would call for four hundred days' labor, which at the present prices would yield $600; and the household utensils at a similar value would give an outfit of elegance and abundance which few laboring-men of the present day can afford.

This will was allowed Dec. 31, 1731, and on this day an inventory was returned, showing lands, swamps, and meadows in Hingham, about seventy-four acres, valued at £988, and personal property to the amount of £45 2*s.*

As there will be repeated occasion to mention values of estates and commodities, it seems necessary to state that these values vary from year to year, owing to a constant and continued depreciation of the currency as compared to specie; and the specie currency of New England was in comparison to that of England as 3 to 4. That is, the Spanish piece of eight reals, or the dollar, was rated in New England at 6*s.*, while in England it was 4*s.* 6*d.*, making a pound sterling $4.44\frac{4}{9}$, while a pound in New England currency was $3.33\frac{1}{3}$, — a rate it retained so long as values were reckoned in the denomination of pounds, etc. The ratio between gold and silver was 15 to 1, which ratio it retained in the United States until near the middle of the present century, when by statute it was changed so as to be 16 to 1.

The emission of bills of credit in all the New England colonies under the delusion that the increase of money would bring increasing prosperity was attended all along the years of the first half of the eighteenth century with a continued depreciation. Reckoning was generally made in this currency, which was called "old tenor." Massachusetts redeemed its bills in specie, paying 6*s.* in specie for 45*s.* in currency. She was enabled to do this with the specie paid to her by Great Britain in remuneration for the expenses she incurred in the reduction of Louisburg in 1745. Though this currency was redeemed, yet business transactions continued to be reckoned and stated in it for several years afterwards, even to the time of the Revolution, when a currency created by the exigency of the times was made both by State and the United States, which depreciated to a much greater extent than the "old tenor" did.

It is not always certain whether values are stated in specie or currency, but it may generally be found that these values are given in "old tenor," reckoned at its comparative worth, when the contrary is not stated.

When Ibrook Tower made his will, in 1720, the comparative value of "old tenor" to specie was about 6 to 8. When the will was allowed, the ratio was about 6 to 17, — making a loss to the legatees of more than one half of the provision made for them.

At the time Ibrook Tower made his will four of his children had died, — Daniel [3] of small-pox in the ill-fated Canada expedition under Phips, at the age of nineteen years; Richard [3] in 1702; John [3] in 1711; and the date of Nehemiah's death is not known. Richard [3] and John [3] left issue, and provision is made for a son of each in the will.

The other children of Richard and John seem to be dissatisfied with the neglect of their grandfather to make provision for them, and claim a legal right to some part of the estate, as will appear from a petition to the Probate Court, from which the following extracts are made: — 1732, June 15. Petition of Rachel Stephenson, daughter of Richard Tower, son of Ibrook Tower, Esther Marbel, Cornelius Tower, Martha Tower, Elizabeth Tower, Ann Tower, children of John Tower, son of Ibrook Tower, deceased, humbly showeth . . . that no provision was made for them by Ibrook Tower in his will . . . refers to a law of the Province, passed in the 12th year of William the 3rd, and to a resolve of the General Court, passed in 1718, May 28th. Ask that their share of said estate may be set out to them.

The following indorsement is written upon the petition : —

"Jan'y 9, 1732–3, This matter continued to this day six weeks."

There being no other paper on file in the case, it does not appear what disposition was made of it.

The law referred to is as follows : —

"Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid that any child or children not having a legacy given them in the will of their father or mother, every such child shall have a proportion of the estate of their parents given and set out unto them, as the law directs, for the distribution of the estates of intestates.

"Provided such child or children have not had an equal proportion of his estate bestowed on them by the father in his lifetime.

"At a great and general court begun and held at Boston on the 28th day of May, 1718, a petition being moved upon the second section or paragraph in the act providing for posthumous children, and such as have no legacy given them by will, made in the twelfth year of King William, viz. : Whether the said act doth as well extend to the grandchildren, in case of the death of the father or mother, as to the child himself, if living,

"Resolved in the affirmative, and that the law is so to be understood and practised, any usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding."

The homestead of Ibrook Tower has remained in the possession of his descendants to the present time. Memorial-stones in the Cohasset Cemetery mark the place of his burial and that of his first wife, with the following inscriptions : —

Here Lyes Ye
Body of Mr.
Ibrook Tower who

Here Lyes the Body of Mrs.

Ibrook Tower attained a greater age than any of the other children of John Tower, and he is the only one of the number whose place of burial is marked by a stone.

Jeremiah Tower[3] died ab. 1676, ag. 30 yrs.

Elizabeth ( ) (Rowland) Tower died in Providence, R. I., Aug. 9, 1723.

The date of Jeremiah Tower's death is not recorded. It took place some time in 1676, and it is very probable that it occurred while in the service of the country during King Philip's war. He was the first of the descendants of John Tower to die. Administration upon his estate was granted to his widow, Elizabeth Tower, by the County Court at Boston, Jan. 30, 1676–7.

His estate was appraised at Hingham by John Smith and John Jacob, Jan. 22, 1676, a copy of which is here given for the purpose of showing the possessions of a householder and their value at that time. It should be remembered that Jeremiah Tower had been married six years only, and died at the early age of thirty years. In estimating values at this early period, and before any depreciation of the currency had taken place, it should be kept in mind, as has been before stated, that the value of a day's wages of a laboring-man was 2*s*.

This apparently small value of Jeremiah Tower's property at the time of his decease will be better understood and enhanced when we see that, measured by the value of a day's labor, it will represent nearly 547 days, which, reckoned at the present rate of $1.50 per day, will amount to $820\frac{50}{100}$ nearly. This would be considered a very respectable property at the present day for a laboring-man to save from his earnings, which were encumbered with the support of a family. It would seem that Jeremiah Tower was a weaver by occupation, and that more than one seventh part of the value of all his possessions was invested in the implements of his trade.

Hannah (Tower) (Cowell) Whipple [2] d. 1722, ag. 70 y.

As it is not proposed to continue the record of the descendants in the female line, a brief description will be given of some of those in these lines who by their abilities and virtues have been of service to the communities in which they have lived.

Hannah Tower is the only daughter of John Tower whose descendants can be traced to the present time. After her marriage to David Whipple she went with her husband to reside in what is now Cumberland, R. I., but formerly a part of Attleborough Gore. David Whipple bought the land on which William Blackstone had built his residence when he felt compelled to leave the "Lords Brethren" of Boston as he had left the "Lords Bishops" of England. Here, on the beautiful height on the banks of the river bearing the name of its earliest settler, came Hannah (Tower) Whipple to dwell, and here she lived until her death in 1722. The place where she lived is now the flourishing manufacturing village of Lonsdale, — one of the many places where the waters of the river are arrested for available power, from its source, until it loses itself in the tide-waters.

In her will, dated May 28, 1720, Hannah Tower names her children then living, and gives them severally certain legacies. Joseph Cowell, the son of her first union, removed to that part of Dorchester which afterwards was made a part of Wrentham, where he died in 1761, at the age of eighty-seven years. His son David graduated from Harvard College in 1732. He is the earliest descendant of John Tower who graduated from a college, preceding by sixty-eight years the graduation of any descendant bearing the name of Tower. He was settled as the minister of the Presbyterian Church of Trenton, N. J., where he was ordained in 1736, and where he remained in the ministry until his death, which took place in 1760. He was an overseer of Princeton College, and did efficient service in that capacity, and in an interregnum he filled the office of president for a short time. He did not marry.

Ebenezer Cowell [4], son of Joseph [3], removed to Trenton, where he was during the Revolutionary War. He was a gunsmith by trade, and early in the war made a contract, for the manufacture of arms, with a committee of Congress. He was largely engaged in the repair of guns during the war, and on the capture of the Hessians at Trenton in 1776 the thousand stand taken there passed under his inspection for necessary repairs.

Some of his descendants have filled the learned professions, while others in the line of mercantile pursuits in Philadelphia and elsewhere have acquired wealth and distinction. His daughter Lois gave personal service and contributed of her ample means to help the sick of Philadelphia during the scourge of yellow fever which afflicted that city in 1793, and died that year, a victim to the disease.

John M. Cowell, a great-grandson of Ebenezer, now a resident of Philadelphia, has compiled a genealogy of the family, comprising biographical notices of many members of it, — a work of much labor and research, and valuable not only as a memorial of private worth, but of interest to our general history. It is hoped that it may receive publication.

Joseph Cowell [4], son of Joseph [3], lived in Massachusetts and had two children, — Samuel [5] and Olive [5], who married Benjamin Hawes. Olive was a woman of much ability. That able scholar, Rev. Dr. Emmons, of Franklin, Mass., said that "she was the ablest female theologian he ever met." In an interview with Mrs. Ide — the daughter of Dr. Emmons and wife of Rev. Dr. Ide, of Medway, Mass., who at the advanced age of eighty-nine years remembered Olive Hawes and related many of the sayings of her father in illustration of the esteem in which he held her — was seen the evidence of impression made in early life by this able woman.

Benjamin Cowell [6], the grandson of Joseph [4], was a graduate of Brown University. He was for many years clerk of the United States District Court for Rhode Island, and subsequently was Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas for that State. He wrote and published several works, among which were, "The Deity of Christ," and "The Spirit of Seventy-Six." Of his sons, Rev. Samuel [7] has been a life-long minister of the Episcopal Church, and his grandson, Dr. Joseph H. [8], is a graduate of Brown University and a practising physician in East Saginaw, Mich.

Of the descendants through Olive Hawes [5] was her grandson, Oliver H. Kollock [7], a graduate of Brown University and a practising lawyer at the South, whose son Cornelius [8] is also a graduate of Brown University, and is now a physician in South Carolina. Many other descendants of Hannah Tower, both through the Cowell and Whipple alliance, who are now living, might be named, to show how well they have improved their advantages, making themselves a power and use to both church and state.

Deborah (Garnet) Tower died in Hingham 1728 or 9, ag. 71 or 72 y.

Among the papers of Benjamin Tower which have been preserved are several unrecorded deeds. One of these, bearing date April 8, 1692, recites that John Stodder, of Hingham, etc., —

"In consideration of about . . . [torn] and three quarters of one acre of land lying between the house of Benjamin Tower, weaver, of said Hingham, and the house of Samuel Tower, which said land the said Benjamin Tower grant and confirm unto the said John Stodder, as may fully appear by a deed under the hand and seal of said Benjamin Tower, it beareth date with these presents, wherewith the said John Stodder is fully satisfied . . . have granted, etc., unto the said Benjamin Tower . . . all that his about one acre and half of land being in said Hingham, and lying on the south end of his land, that he bought of Michael Pearse, and was formerly the land of Stephen Paine, and the said acre and half of land is bounded with the land of said Tower west, and with a small brook between the said land and Wilder's land south, and with the land of said Stodder east and north, and stones set in the ground for standing bounds."

Another deed, bearing date Dec. 7, 1713, recites, —

"Whereas Benjamin Tower and Benjamin Garnet, both of Hingham," etc., "be the owners of the eleventh lot of land on the great plain in said Hingham, in the first furlong eastward from the centre or country road, said Tower is owner of the north half, and said Garnet is owner of the south half, . . . the said Benjamin Garnet for and in consideration of ten pounds" conveys to "Benjamin Tower all the south side of said lot."

Benjamin Tower's will is dated July 2, 1717. He died March 24, 1721–2. It was proved and allowed April 28, 1722.

He gives "unto Deborah Tower, my well-beloved wife, the use and benefit of all my estate, both real and personal, during her natural life, except that I hereafter dispose of; and in case she stand in need in the time of her widowhood for her maintenance, I do hereby give her full power to sell any part of my estate not disposed of."

"I do give to my son Peter Tower all the tackling that I use in my trade of weaving, and the loom, he paying to every one of his brothers and sisters five shillings apiece in one year after my decease."

He names his children Benjamin, Thomas, Peter, and Ambrose, sons; and Abigail Hollis, Deborah Corthell, Christian Pratt, Sarah Whiton, Jael Stubs, Hannah Tower, daughters; and makes them equally residuary devisees and legatees. Inventory, dated April 16, 1722: —

Subjecting the foregoing sum to the tests of depreciation and the comparative value of labor, it would represent at the present day $1,642\frac{50}{100}$.

There does not appear of record any division of the real estate of Benjamin Tower[2]. His will gave his widow power to sell. There is only one deed on record showing that she availed herself of that power. In book xxx., page 193, Suffolk Registry of Deeds, dated Oct. 12, 1726, is recorded a deed reciting that —

"Deborah Tower, widow and relict of Benjamin Tower, late of Hingham, deceased," in consideration of £30 "paid by my son, Peter Tower, of Hingham, aforesaid, weaver," conveys "a piece or part of the home lot of land where I now dwell, in the township of Hingham, abovesaid, containing by estimation two acres, be it more or less, bounded as followeth: northerly and easterly with the land of Jacob Stodder, southerly with the other part of the said home lot, and the southeast corner bounds is a white oak tree, and the line runs from said white oak tree to the southeast corner of the dwelling-house of the said Deborah Tower, and westerly partly with said dwelling-house, and partly with the town's common land or highway."

The dwelling-house mentioned here is undoubtedly the dwelling-house that John Tower built about the year 1664, and which he fortified in King Philip's war. On this site one or more dwelling-houses have succeeded the original, and the one standing there at the present time was built near the commencement of the present century. It is now owned and occupied by the widow of William Tower[6], to whom it came by devise successively from former generations.

Deborah (Hayward) Tower died in Hingham Jan. 30, 1742, ag. 69 y. 2 m. 6d.

Samuel Tower[2] was several times chosen by his fellow-townsmen to fill various town offices. In 1694, May 16, at a town meeting appears the following vote of the town in answer to his request: —

"Samuel Tower, having sown some tobacco seed in a small piece of the town's land, desired that he might have the use of the said piece of land till his tobacco be ripe, and he would give to the town one pound of good tobacco ready cut; and upon that condition the town granted him his request."

1706, May 1. "The town passed a vote to allow Corporal Samuel Tower forty shillings out of the town treasury for money the said Tower lost in the country rate when he was constable, by money being then brought from tale to weight."

1707-8, March 18. Samuel Tower was chosen one of the selectmen.

1715-16, March 12. He is again chosen one of the selectmen.

Among the papers preserved are several copies of the rates assessed upon polls and estates.

He seems to have been a considerable land-owner, though there are but few conveyances on record wherein he appears as grantor or grantee. He probably received from his father by gift the greater part of his lands. He and his brother Benjamin had the home lands of their father, except what was given to Jeremiah.

His will is dated March 14, 1723–4, and proved and allowed April 21, 1724. He is called a "cooper." He gives to his "eldest son Samuel two acres of land adjoining to his dwelling-house as it is now fenced in." Gives to his "son Daniel one acre and half of land bounded northerly on the land I gave to my son Samuel." Gives to his "sons Joshua and Joseph the sum of ten pounds, to be paid by my executors when they shall arrive at the age of twenty-one years." Gives to each of his "daughters, Sarah Tower, Ann Tower, and Deborah Tower, the sum of ten pounds, to be paid . . . upon marriage, or when they shall arrive at the age of twenty-one years." Gives to each of his "grandchildren, Elijah and Abigail Whiton, the sum of five shillings."

Give to his "beloved wife Deborah Tower all my household stuff for her own forever, with the benefit and improvement of the residue and remainder of my estate, both real and personal . . . for the maintenance of my children during the time she remains my widow; and if she marry she shall have one hundred pounds paid out of my estate. I do also empower her to sell land for the maintenance of the children if necessity calls for it.

"My mind and will is that what of my estate as shall be left at her marriage or decease, the one half thereof shall be equally divided 'between' my four sons, . . . and the other half equally divided 'between' my six daughters and granddaughter, Martha Whiton, only with the reserve that my sons . . . shall have liberty to keep the lands, they paying to my daughters and granddaughter their proportion of the same."

Nominates his wife and "cousin," Peter Tower, to be executors.

Peter Tower was his nephew, and he afterwards married Anna, the daughter of his uncle Samuel.

On the third Tuesday of August, 1742, a warrant was issued from the Superior Court for the County of Suffolk for the division and partition of the estate of Samuel Tower, late of Hingham, cooper, deceased. The commissioners proceed to divide the same "into two equal parts;" viz.: —

"For his four sons' half we have bounded out about ten acres and a half on the south side of his homestead, with the dwelling-house thereon, by a line running from the highway at the west end of said land, near fourteen feet north of the middle of the breadth; as far eastward as between Jacob Sprague's northeast corner of his fence and Isaac Whiton's land, and from thence to Ripley's meadow, at nine rods of a brook; also, the south part of his Salt Meadow by the Mill Pond, containing about one acre and three quarters; also, his half of the second lot in the north division of the small 'Sheers,' so-called, at the west side thereof; also, four elevenths parts of all his right in the land in said Hingham, lately called the undivided commons. And for the other half of the deceased estate for his six daughters and granddaughter we have set out the rest of the home land on the north side of the line above described, containing about nine acres and a half; also, the north part of the Salt Marsh abovesaid, containing about one acre, one quarter, and twenty-two rods; also, his half of the fifth lot in the south division of said small shares on the east side thereof; also, seven elevenths parts of his shares in the said undivided common land, as so lately called; also, all his land in the first part of the 'third division,' southwestward of 'Prospect Hill,' so called, being about ten acres and half in partnership with the heirs of Joshua Hersey, deceased.

"And then his four sons' half we have divided as followeth: To the heirs of his eldest son, Samuel Tower, deceased, a part of the small shares, etc. . . . Also two acres and twenty rods of swamp land, more or less, at the east end of the southward half of the homestead, bounded westerly with the land now set to Joshua Tower by a north and south line, at 12⅘ rods eastward of Jacob Sprague's northeast corner.

"To his son Daniel Tower a part of the small shares.

"To his son Joshua Tower about six acres, one quarter, and twenty rods, more or less, in the south side, or half of the homestead, bounded easterly with the swamp of Samuel Tower's heirs, . . . and westerly with two acres, being twenty-one rods and two thirds in length eastward from the highway, now set to Joseph Tower, by a line north and south. . . .

"To his son Joseph Tower the two acres of land at the west end of the south side of the homestead as aforesaid, with the dwelling-house standing thereon. . . ."

The north part of the homestead, which was assigned to his daughter and granddaughter, was set off to the heirs of three deceased daughters; the heirs of Ruth Garnet having three acres, one quarter, and ten rods at the east end, the heirs of Margaret Whiton, deceased, having three and one half acres and thirty rods in the middle part, and the heirs of Sarah Tower, deceased, having about two and one half acres and twenty rods at the west end, bounding upon the highway.

At the date of this division the currency was so depreciated as to be worth a little less than one fourth of its nominal value.

By the foregoing division it will be seen that Samuel Tower had about twenty acres of land in his homestead, with a frontage of about four hundred and sixty feet upon the street. This land was probably his portion of his father's land, purchased of Edward Wilder. Of this gift from John Tower to his son no deed either of preservation or record remains. The warrant for the division from which the foregoing extracts have been made, is probably a copy of the original warrant made before the return to the court from which it issued, as it bears no indorsement of action of the court either for its acceptance or rejection. It is dated Dec. 5, 1743, and signed by Abel Cushing, Jacob Beal, Thomas Andrews, Jo^{s}. Lincoln, Thep^{s} Cushing.

In the description of the lands of Samuel Tower as they are set out to the devisees under his will, by the foregoing commission, mention is made of certain "small shares," without naming where they are situated. As there are no such lands designated in the division of Hingham lands, the following lengthy recital in an old deed, not recorded, but found among the papers which have come down from Samuel Tower, has some historical as well as local interest.

Whereas the Court of Plymouth in New England, in America, heretofore granted to Timothy Hatherly, late of Scituate, in the County of Plymouth, now in his Majesties province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England, a tract of land containing three miles square, lying and being in said Plymouth Colony, as it was then called, near to the pond of fresh water commonly called "Accord Pond," which said tract of land is commonly called by the name of the shares, having been formerly cast into forty shares, and have lately been divided into four parts by the proprietors of the whole tract of land;

The first part of the said tract of land as it is now divided into four parts is the eastward part, and lieth next to the line of Scituate township. The first, third, and fourth parts of the said tract of land as it was divided by the proprietors of the whole tract of land belonged to, and was then in the possession of, Captain John Jacob and his partners. The second part of the said tract of land as it is now divided, is in the possession of divers other persons, in which said second part of the said tract of land Michael Peerse, of Scituate, having a single share, which amounts to as much as a forty part of the whole tract of land of three miles square, which single share of the aforesaid tract of land of three miles square, containing one fortieth part of the said whole tract of land, and lieth in the second part of said tract of land as it is now divided into four parts by the proprietors.

The aforesaid Michael Peerse heretofore sold to Ephraim Wilder and Isaac Wilder, as appears by deed of sale under the hand and seal of Michael Peerse, bearing date the first day of November, 1675, which said single share of the said tract of land of three miles square, sold by the said Michael Peerse to the said Ephraim and Isaac Wilder, do now belong to Jabez Wilder and Thomas Wilder, son of the said Isaac Wilder,(viz. :) Ephraim's part of said share to Jabez Wilder, and Isaac Wilder's part of said share to the said Thomas Wilder.

And the proprietors of the said second part of the said tract of land of three miles square, judging it not to be convenient to have their shares to run at such a length, they divided their second part of the said tract of land with a cross line about the middle of the length of their shares of their said second part of their said tract of land, and so every proprietor have his share in the said second part of the said tract of land of three miles square, lying in two parts, which they have divided by lot amongst themselves ; every man drew but one lot for both parts of his share in the said second part of the said tract of land.

And by a mutual agreement of the proprietors, because the land was not timbered alike, that such persons as had the north lot in the first part of their division should have a better lot in the second part of the division, and by that means the second lot in the first part of their division, and the fifth lot in their second part of their division, were to go together for one man's share of the second part of the said tract of land, and do amount to the fortieth part of the whole tract of land of three miles square, which said second and fifth lots in their said division of their land fell to be the share of the said Ephraim Wilder and Isaac Wilder, which they have by their purchasing of a share of the abovesaid Michael Peerse.

The first part of the second lot in their said division of their land which fell to Ephraim and Isaac Wilder is bounded with the "Patent Line" northward, and with the land of Josiah Loring and Thomas Lincoln, carpenter, Eastward, and with the land of James Whiton, Senior, westward, and with the cross line (that divide between the two parts of their division of their said lots now made of their second part of the said tract of land) southward, the said fifth lot in their second part of the division of their land now made, and fell to Ephraim and Isaac Wilder, is bounded with the land that fell to Captain John Smith and John Ripley eastward, and with the land of Josiah Loring and Thomas Lincoln, carpenter, westward, and with the lands late in the possession of Robert Stutson southward, and with the said cross line that divide between the two parts of their said division northward.

And all persons proprietors of the said second part of said tract of land have mutually agreed among themselves that they shall have the liberty for themselves, their heirs and assigns, each of them, to pass through one another's shares with carts or otherwise without molestation. . . .

Now know all men by these presents that Jabez Wilder, of Hingham, in the County of Suffolk, in New England, yeoman, and Mary Wilder, his wife, for and in consideration of the sum of twelve pounds and ten shillings in current money of New England, to them in hand at and before the sealing hereof, well and truly paid by Samuel Tower, of said Hingham, cooper, the receipt whereof they the said Jabez Wilder and Mary his wife doth hereby acknowledge, and themselves therewith fully satisfied, contented, and paid, and thereof, and of every part and parcel thereof, doth clearly acquit, exonerate, and discharge the said Samuel Tower, his heirs, executors, and administrators forever, by these presents, have given, granted, bargained, sold, aliened, enfeoffed, and confirmed, and by these presents do fully, clearly, and absolutely give, grant, bargain, sell, alien, enfeoff, and confirm unto the said Samuel Tower, his heirs and assigns forever, the moiety or one half part of the above-said single share (viz.): the one half of that their brother, Ephraim and Isaac Wilder, purchased of the above-said Michael Peerse (to wit) that moiety or one half of said single share that did belong to the said Ephraim Wilder, according as it is now lotted and laid by the above-said proprietors in two parts and lots (to wit) the one half of the above-said second lot of land in the first part of their division, and the one half of the above-said fifth lot in the second part of their division, which said two lots, being counted together, make one single share of the second part of the said tract of land, each of the said lots being bounded as aforesaid, etc.

The foregoing comprises about one half part of the deed, the covenants being omitted. The land granted by this deed lies in what was afterwards the township of Abington, and by the subdivision of this town it is now in the town of Rockland, which contains the greater part of the tract of three miles square. Many of the deseendants of Samuel Tower have continued here, and today some of them are living upon this tract of land, in a flourishing town of nearly five thousand inhabitants.

It will be seen that the quantity of land belonging to one share was one hundred and forty-four acres, and Samuel Tower buying one half a share would, on the division of it, be entitled to seventy-two acres.

It will also be noticed that the share was originally granted to Michael Peerse, known in his time by his prowess as the fighting Michael Peerse. The year following the date of his deed to the Wilders, he and his whole company fell into an ambush and were slain by the Indians.

Samuel Tower seems to have come into possession of other lands in the former Plymouth Colony probably through his second marriage, as among his papers is found a lease under date of Feb. 20, 1712, whereby he leases for a term of ten years to Thomas Hathaway, of Dartmouth, in the county of Bristol, —

All that his messuage or tenement lying in the township of Dartmouth; . . . and the leased premises are the moiety or one half part of all the lands, housing, orchards, meadow, and marsh that Daniel Howard, late of Hingham, dec^{d}, had in right of his father, John Howard, of Dartmouth, aforesaid, dec^{d}, etc.

By an unrecorded deed, dated April 14, 1716, John Lewis, of Hingham, blacksmith, conveys to Samuel Tower, —

"All that my piece or parcel of swamp lying and being at a place called 'olives' swamp, on the south side of the training-field in Hingham, . . . and contains by estimation six acres . . . and is butted and bounded northerly with the land or meadow of Matthew Cushing, dec^{d}, Easterly with the meadow of John Smith and Peter Ripley, Southerly with a brook that bounds the said swamp from the land of John Wilder, and westerly partly with the land of Jacob Stodder, and partly with the land of Samuel Tower." The consideration named in the deed is "forty-three pounds of the current money of New England."

This price, allowing for depreciation of New England currency, and subjected to the comparative value of days' work, would represent at the present time $$415\frac{25}{100}$.

By another unrecorded deed, dated Sept. 1, 1719, John Norton, son of Rev. John Norton, deceased, in consideration of £25 lawful money of New England, conveys to Samuel Tower —

All my salt-marsh lying in the home meadows in the township of Hingham, which salt-marsh my father Norton, late deceased, purchased of Thomas Jewell, and contains by estimation one acre.

The consideration named in this deed, £25, allowing for depreciation, and subjected as before-mentioned, would represent at the present time $214, — which is probably more than four times the value of this identical piece of land.

Deborah Tower, widow of Samuel Tower, who died Jan. 30, 1741–2, by her last will gives to her "three sons, namely, Daniel, Joshua, and Joseph, in pewter, twenty shillings apiece;" to her "daughter Anna Tower, wife of Peter Tower, one bed and the furniture belonging to the same;" to her "daughter Deborah Tower, my best bed and furniture belonging to the same, also my cow; and further my mind and will is that all the remainder of my estate, both household stuff and movables, shall be, equally with my quick stock, divided between my two daughters abovementioned, Anna and Deborah. . . ." She names her son-in-law, Peter Tower, executor. The will is dated Jan. 14, 1741–2. Among the papers preserved is a bond of Deborah Tower to Peter Tower, dated Sept. 13, 1742, the condition being the payment by Deborah Tower of one half part of the funeral charges and one half part of the debts of "Deborah Tower, late of Hingham, deceased."

Benjamin Tower died about 1743, ag. about 69.
Deborah (Whipple) Tower died about 1755, ag. about 74.

Having given so extended an account of the several members of the family in the first two generations, a brief account only can be given of the many following in the succeeding ones. Benjamin Tower[3], who was born in Hingham, went in early life with his parents to the neighboring town of Braintree. He married his cousin, Deborah Whipple, who resided in that part of the old town of Rehoboth known subsequently as Attleborough Gore, and on the adjustment of the boundary line between Massachusetts and Rhode Island it became the town of Cumberland in the latter State.

He seems to have resided in the northern part of the town, in the vicinity of what is known as "Tower" Hill. His lands are described in the records of the Attleborough proprietors as "one quarter of a whole share purchased of Benjamin Robinson," as by "deed bearing date Feb. 10, 1713." Then follow several grants,— "6½ acres, . . . being his first lot granted in 1714. . . . Likewise 6¼ acres of land, being his second lot adjoining his house-lot, and laid out March 4, 1717–18, and six acres of land drawn on division, 1735." He seems also to have acquired other land in the neighborhood by purchase,— as in 1720 from his brother-in-law, William Whipple; and in 1724 Job Whipple, of Providence, conveys to Benjamin Tower lands in Attleborough, namely, "three small lots, . . . 6 acres adjoining land of said Tower, on the southeast part of his homestead, and eight acres lying at the end of said Tower's on the east side of a highway by 'Abbott's Run,' and four acres lying on the northeast part of said Tower's lot."

In 1731 John Wilkinson, of Smithfield, conveys to Benjamin Tower "one acre of 'Fresh Meadow,' being on the run commonly called 'Abbott's Run;' also two acres adjoining the above meadow." He appears to have had other lands: and in 1729 he gives to his son Gideon by deed "my four lots in Wrentham, . . . adjoining each other . . . 'at Hoop Pole Hill,' and containing 42 acres." This deed is signed "Benjamin X Tower, his mark."

In 1734 he grants land in Wrentham to his son Gideon Tower, and his son-in-law, William Hancock, both of Wrentham. He also gives land to his sons John and Benjamin, and other land to Gideon.

Benjamin Tower died in 1743. His will is dated Dec. 27, 1742, and proved and allowed Aug. 16, 1743. No memorial-stone marks his grave or that of his wife. The burial-ground nearest to his old homestead is known as the "Ballou" Cemetery, situated opposite to the ancient meeting-house known as the "Ballou" meeting-house. This meeting-house is probably the most ancient of the meeting-houses in Rhode Island; and though the exact date of the building of it is not known, yet tradition carries it back to the early part of the eighteenth century, and it was probably built in the lifetime of Benjamin Tower, and by his aid and contribution. It is now remote from any village, and is only occasionally used for religious services. A descendant of Benjamin Tower has conducted religious services in this meeting-house, as will be seen by the following extract from a letter of the Rev. Adin Ballou: —

"Hopedale, Mass., June 16, 1884.

"Concerning the ancient Meeting House, we have striven in vain to ascertain the exact date of its erection. We are certain of one important fact, — the date of the deed donating the site by my great grandfather, James Ballou [8]. This was March 22, 1749. But that deed says the house had already been built on the site with his consent. We conjecture that it was built between 1740 and 1749. Obadiah Ballou, brother of James, gave the burial-ground also in 1749. The church structure was first called the 'Elder Cook' meeting-house, because two 'Elder Cooks,' Josiah and Nathaniel, were the first pastors who preached in it successively. After their death 'Elder Abner Ballou' preached in it through a long pastorate of between thirty and forty years. This gave it the title it has long borne. It derives its title, not from me at all, though I preached my first discourse in it about the middle of July, 1821, and have preached in it occasionally many times since.

"It has been repeatedly repaired, from generation to generation; and though at least 140 years old, promises to outlast the present century."

Rev. Adin Ballou is a descendant of Benjamin Tower [3], as will be seen by this Genealogy.

This old meeting-house is worthy of preservation as a specimen of the rude structures our fathers were wont to build for religious purposes; and it was probably in keeping with their circumstances and surroundings, as they lived in a sparsely settled agricultural community.

The external appearance of the building suggests rather a two-story dwelling-house than a public building. It has entrances on two sides. The interior shows the frame of oaken timber as it was put in place on the day it was built. There are galleries on three sides, supported by the same oaken timbers, whose roughness is unrelieved by any plastered or finished ceiling. The preacher's desk occupies nearly all the space on the other side of the house, projecting about two feet from the same, showing a frontage of plain pine boards in a vertical parallelogram of about fifteen by six feet, and the fronts of the galleries are finished in the same manner. All the wood-work is guiltless of paint, exhibiting the original color of the wood, except as time has darkened it.

The seating accommodation of the house is by the old oaken benches, with upright backs and somewhat narrow seats, which are placed so near together as to suggest the question of a smaller size of people than the present generation, did not tradition contradict it by the tales of their feats of strength and endurance.

Benjamin Tower, by his will, gives his wife one half of his personal property and the improvement of his homestead lot, and six acres of land.

He gives to his son Gideon "one shilling; and that, with what I formerly gave him, shall be his full part of my estate." To his son John a quarter right in the undivided land in Attleborough, "with what I have formerly given him, shall be his full share."

He gives to his son Joseph "the whole of my home-lot, together with a six-acre lot," etc., conditioned on his paying his five sisters five pounds each; to his grandson, Nathan Carpenter, "that lives with me, . . . my gun, sword, cartouch-box, and chest."

He directs his "son Gideon to sell all his interest in land eastward at a place called 'Sheepsent,' . . . the proceeds to be divided equally among my children."

His widow Deborah died in 1755. In the record of deeds for Cumberland, R. I., is a "plat" of land, containing between forty and fifty acres, divided into four parts, and marked respectively, Gideon, John, Benjamin, and Joseph, with the following recital: "Land formerly a part of the homestead of Benjamin Tower, late of Cumberland, deceased, . . . given to us by our honored mother, Deborah Tower, deceased, by her last will and testament. . . . Division according to a plan made by Thomas Wilmarth, surveyor." Dated May 24, 1755.

54.	VII.	JOSEPH [4]
55.	VIII.	MARY [4]

Ruth (Thayer) Tower died in Braintree March 28, 1752.

Joseph Tower [3] mar., 2d, Elizabeth Arnold, in Braintree, int. pub. March 27, 1756; and mar., 3d, widow Hannah Jones, in Braintree. Int. pub. September, 1759.

Joseph Tower [3] lived in Braintree, where he probably died. His wife, Ruth (Thayer) Tower, died in Braintree March 28, 1752. In the Braintree records of marriage intentions are the following: Joseph Tower and Elizabeth Arnold, March 27, 1756, and Joseph Tower and widow Hannah Jones, September, 1759. No record of his death or of these later wives appears in the Braintree records. There appears to be neither will nor administration upon his estate. He probably lived in that part of Braintree which is now included in the town of Randolph.

A few transactions in real estate to which he was a party are found in the Suffolk Registry of Deeds. Oct. 27, 1742, Joseph Tower conveys to Richard and Stanley Sylvester, laborers, for the consideration of "£25 lawful money of the Province," forty-two acres of woodland lying in the southernmost precinct of Braintree.

July 16, 1743, Richard and Stanley Sylvester re-convey the same land to Joseph Tower, of Braintree, set-work cooper.

April 6, 1742, Joseph Tower, of Braintree, conveys to Samuel Allen, of Braintree, blacksmith, consideration £25, ten acres of land in "Moor's Farm," so-called, reserving a right of way to the "Great Meadow."

Feb. 2, 1731–2, Christopher Dyer, of Braintree, conveys to Joseph Tower, of Braintree, consideration £180, "one messuage or tenement, containing fifty acres, lying and being in Braintree, aforesaid, bounded northerly by land of Isaac Royal and John Kinsley, east by lands of Deacon Samuel White, south by land of Joshua Hayward, and west by the fifteenth lot in the sixth division, together with one single share of land and one third part of a single share, both lying in the fore-mentioned fifteenth lot, which lots are known by the name of the 'Great Pond lots.'"

May 15, 1744. "Joseph Tower and John Tower, both of Braintree, husbandmen," convey to Josiah Thayer and Caleb Thayer, both of said Braintree, husbandmen, consideration £10, two acres of land in Braintree. Ruth Tower and Rachel Tower release dower.

Feb. 19, 1749–50. Joseph Tower, of Braintree, set-work cooper, conveys to David Holbrook et als., of Braintree, consideration £100, twenty acres, chiefly pasture land, at "Moor's Farm."

Jan. 28, 1761. Joseph Tower, of Braintree, yeoman, conveys to Benjamin Hayden, consideration £14 11*s.* 4*d.*, four acres of meadow and swamp land in Braintree, near "Monekquot" river. This deed is acknowledged Aug. 29, 1761. This is the latest transaction of Joseph Tower which appears of record. At the date of the acknowledgment he was in the seventy-sixth year of his age, and probably the date of his death was not far from this time.

Joshua Bates died in Hingham (Cohasset) April, 1757, ag. 85 y. 8 m.

Rachel (Tower) Bates died

Of Ibrook Tower's children, Richard and John died in early manhood. His daughter Rachel[3] mar. Joshua Bates[3], a descendant of Clement Bates, one of the earlier settlers of Hingham. Joshua Bates resided in that part of Hingham which is now the town of Cohasset. The descendants of Joshua and Rachel (Tower) Bates have been and are now numerous in Cohasset and the neighboring towns. Some of them by intermarriage have again taken the name of Tower; some have gone out in the many different lines of emigration which at times have gone from older seaboard towns to subdue the wilderness of western New England, and in continuation, borne by the ever-increasing wave, the later descendants have been swept through all the States to the Pacific ocean.

In the old French and Indian war Massachusetts largely supplied the forces for carrying on the yearly expeditions against the French at Ticonderoga and Crown Point. The men engaged in these expeditions became familiar with the various parts of the wilderness through which their route lay; and at the close of the war, emigration for the settlement of portions of this region commenced. The hill-towns in Massachusetts west of the Connecticut river, and portions of Vermont, received early attention, calling for hardy enterprise and persevering industry.

The War of the Revolution found the same field for action in the first years of its progress as in the French war; and Ticonderoga and Crown Point were again the objective points of attack and defence, and again the tramp of the New England militia resounded through the woods until the time of the capture of Burgoyne.

At the close of the war many of the men of the seaboard towns found their old occupations in commercial and fishing pursuits gone; and the lands in the older settlements having been all appropriated, there seemed to be nothing left for them to do but to seek new fields for their work and enterprise. Those who held small allotments of land sold them for the most they could get; and the younger men, who had nothing of property, put into the common stock their contribution of energy and hope.

And again the Western movement begins, — not this time in martial array, but the patient ox is harnessed to the heavy wagon, laden with the household utensils and implements of anticipated labor, covered with the folds of amply protecting canvas, under which the women and children find protection from the weather, until after many days they find rest for their weariness in the forest solitude of their new home.

Abner Bates[5], James Bates, and Nehemiah Bates, grandsons of Joshua and Rachel (Tower) went to Chesterfield, Mass., which from the nativity of many of its early settlers was at first called New Hingham. Levi Bates, Theophilus Bates, and Phineas Bates, brothers, and Josiah Bates, a cousin of the former named, all great-grandsons of Joshua[3] and Rachel[3] (Tower), went to Springfield, Vt., in the early settlement of that town. They had obtained a knowledge of the locality through the many marches and countermarches, during the War of the Revolution, which they made from the seaboard to Ticonderoga and Crown Point. Fort No. 4, now Charlestown, N. H., was an objective point of rendezvous; thence directly across the Connecticut, the trail ran over the high hills and through the wilderness, now converted by the labors of these pioneers into the productive and beautiful farms of the mountain town. Their descendants made closer the connection with the Tower family by frequent intermarriages.

Some of the descendants are remembered by their ability and sacrifices in the line of their calling. The names of Rev. Dexter Bates and his brother, Rev. Lewis Bates, will readily occur. Both of them were early workers in the Methodist Episcopal Church in the period of frontier life, when the minister required large physical endowments as well as mental equipment to meet the demands made upon him. In all respects these brothers were well prepared, and wrought with great efficiency in their Master's service. The following anecdote in the life of Father Taylor, the sailor preacher, will show to what unusual service these frontier preachers were sometimes called: —

"It was on the occasion of the camp-meeting, some sixty years ago. Just after the meeting had commenced, rumors of war had reached the camp. A gang of dissolute fellows, headed by a notorious bully, had signified their intention of breaking up the camp-meeting. The brethren, however, paid but little heed to these threats, and proceeded with their exercises. One morning, just as the forenoon services were to commence, an excited and almost breathless brother rushed up to the preacher's stand with the news that the gang of roughs were on the march for the camp-ground. Some confusion ensued, when up sprang Father Taylor, shouting in stentorian tones: 'Who will go with me and fight these Philistines?' The first man to respond was Rev. Lewis Bates. He was a man of large stature and herculean strength. Father Taylor was then in his prime, and very tough, wiry, and muscular. Several stalwart brethren at once volunteered, and in less than five minutes' time were on the way to meet the foe. When just on the outskirts of the grounds they encountered the band of ruffians, headed by their leader, a huge, wicked-looking fellow. 'Now,' says Brother Bates, 'I will tackle that leader myself; and the rest of you make the best use of your fists and cudgels.' The two giants approached and clinched. In an instant the bully was thrown to the ground with great violence, and the heavy foot of Brother Bates was placed upon his throat. In the mean time Father Taylor and his aids made such a vigorous assault upon the rest of the gang that they fled for dear life. Brother Bates now addressed the prostrate bully, who was writhing and choking under the heavy pressure, 'Beg for mercy, you scoundrel!' And he did beg, and solemnly promised never to disturb another camp-meeting; upon which he was released."

Rev. Lewis Bates continued in the ministry, in contests with other and not so easily defeated foes, until a late period in life, dying at the ripe age of eighty-five years. His sons — Rev. George W. Bates and Rev. Lewis B. Bates — are worthy sons of so distinguished a father.

In this connection, it is proper to name Rev. Joshua Bates [7], D.D., late president of Middlebury College, of Vermont, and his son so well remembered in educational work, the late Joshua Bates [8], the life-long teacher and master of the Brimmer School, of Boston.

Thomas James died in Hingham (Cohasset) July 31, 1724, ag. 54 y. 7 m. 22 d.

Patience (Tower) (Farrar) James died subsequent to 1750.

Of the descendants of Patience [3], a daughter of Ibrook Tower, may be named Ruth James [5], who married Joseph Loring, of Hingham. Her sons, Josiah [6] and Benjamin [6], twins, and bachelors through their lives, were noted stationers in Boston, and Colonel Benjamin made a gift to the people of his native town, who have built a memorial hall nearly opposite to his birthplace, which bears his family name. Two other sons, Elijah [6] and George [6] were largely engaged in the fruit trade of Southern Europe. Elijah conducted the business in Boston, while George lived in Spain, and died there in 1843 at the age of seventy-one. He married a Spanish lady of gentle birth, and his descendants have allied themselves with the distinguished families of Spain. A grandson, George Loring [8], has been entitled to the distinction of "The Marquis de Casa Loring, member of the Cortes, deputy from the province of Malaga."

V. Ruth [4] " Oct. 28, 1717; died March 23, 1770, ag. 52 y. 4 m. 23 d.

Elizabeth (Whiton) Tower died

Hezekiah Tower [3] died in Hingham (Cohasset) subsequent to 1765.

Hezekiah Tower [3] lived in that part of Hingham which is now Cohasset. He owned lands and probably resided near "Scituate Pond," — so called, the old record says, "not because it lieth within the town of Scituate, but because the way leading thereto passes this pond." For many years afterwards it colloquially bore the name of "Kiah Tore's Pond," "Tore" being a corrupt pronunciation of Tower, which at one time was quite prevalent. The written name, however, seldom followed that pronunciation.

The date of the death of Hezekiah Tower and that of his wife does not appear of record. There is neither will nor administration upon his estate.

In 1754, at the age of seventy-three, he conveys to his son David Tower "a certain piece of land, being my homestead, lying nigh to a pond called Scituate Pond, . . . and is part of the first lot in the second part of the third division, on the northwest side of the pond aforesaid, and contains by estimation seven acres, be it more or less, . . . reserving to myself one acre in the westerly corner of the land aforesaid, whereon the dwelling-house of John Burbank now standeth." In this deed Hezekiah Tower and his son David are called "coopers."

In 1747–8, January 7, he made a conveyance to his son David of about fourteen acres of land in the eightieth lot of the second division. This lot is situated near the former lot.

In 1758, March 15, he made another conveyance to his son David of three acres of land, near the last-named lot.

In 1765, March 4, he conveys to his grandson, Abner Tower, three acres of land in the second division, "lying northwest on the land of David Tower, which he purchased of me. . . . Also that my piece or parcel of meadow which I purchased of my father, Ibrook Tower, in the township of Scituate, . . . being a part of that which is called the threescore acres."

In 1765, Oct. 1, he conveys to Lydia Tower, widow of Abner Tower, and to her two sons, Ephraim and Elijah, about twelve acres of land in the second division. This land is "bounded southeast with land of me, the said Hezekiah Tower. . . ." This deed was acknowledged Nov. 24, 1766. He was then in his eighty-sixth year.

Much of the land and many of the dwellings are now owned and occupied by the descendants of Ibrook Tower through the female lines.

Joseph Souther died in Cohasset July 22, 1740.

Content Tower[3], daughter of Ibrook[2], married Joseph Souther. He is the first of the name found in the Hingham records, and those who have since resided in Hingham and its vicinity bearing the name are his descendants, many of whom continued to follow his business of a ship-builder until that business was abandoned here.

A descendant, Francis Lincoln Souther, was shot at the battle of Big Bethel, and died of his wounds at Fortress Monroe June 9, 1861. He was probably the first Massachusetts soldier killed in battle in the War of the Rebellion. The longevity of one family in this line of descent may be worthy of preservation. The record is as follows. Childr. of John and Deborah (Leavitt) Souther.

In Daniel Cushing's record of the early immigration to Hingham we find the following: —

"1637. John Tower and Samuel Lincoln came from Old Hingham, and both settled in New Hingham."

Daniel Tower[3] was the grandson of the first, and his wife Sarah was the granddaughter of the last named. Her mother was Sarah Jones, of Hull, the daughter of Abraham Jones. The name Abraham in the Tower and Lincoln families among those descending from Abraham Jones has been handed down through successive generations to the present time. Our late martyred President, we have ample evidence to believe, was one of the descendants.

Daniel Tower[3] came by inheritance into the possession of a part of his father's homestead, which we have already noticed was upon land allotted to John Tower in the first division of the Cohasset lands in 1670. It has been handed down through successive generations, and is now owned and occupied by Abraham H. Tower and his brothers Henry C. and Newcomb B. Tower.

Daniel Tower's will is dated Aug. 1, 1771, in which he names his wife Persis, and to whom he gives —

"All the movables she brought at our marriage . . ." and other personal property, on the condition that she shall relinquish dower in his real estate. He gives to his son Daniel "my dwelling-house, barn, and all my homestead adjoining in the first division of Cohasset uplands. . . ." Gives to his son Job "my dwelling-house and barn which he now lives in, with all my land there adjoining. . . ." He gives the rest of his lands in equal parts to his sons Daniel and Job. He mentions his daughter Sarah Whitcomb.

He gives "my negro woman Philis her freedom at my decease; also my son Daniel shall support her out of the estate I have given him, if she should come to want; also that she shall dwell with which of my sons she shall be pleased to dwell with; also at Philis' decease my son Daniel shall be at the charge to bury her."

4. Mary[3], Jeremiah[2], John[1].

Mary[3], dau. of Jeremiah[2], and Elizabeth (Rowlands) Tower, born Nov. 3, 1672; mar. William Sprague, of Providence, R. I. Int. pub. Nov. 5, 1709. He was born in Hingham July 2, 1650, and was son of William and Millesant Sprague. Childr. born in Providence.

I.	Rowland[4]	born
II.	Peter[4]	"
III.	Mary[4]	"
IV.	Judah[4]	"

William Sprague died in Providence, R. I., 1723, ag. 73.

Mary (Tower) Sprague was the second wife of William Sprague, who removed from Hingham to Providence, R. I., where he died in 1723. He names several children by his former marriage, his wife Mary and her children, Rowland, Peter, Mary, and Judah. To his sons Rowland and Peter, he gives his homestead when they come to the age of twenty-one years; and to his daughters Mary and Judah he gives one hundred acres of land without the seven-mile limit when they come to the age of eighteen years.

The homestead given to Rowland and Peter was situated mostly in Cranston. Rowland sold his portion to Peter, who by his will, after making provision for his wife, his daughter Amey, and grandson Abner, gives all the rest and residue of his property to his son William. The inventory of his personal property, made in 1790, shows the extent of his business as a farmer, while the prices of the products of the farm may be interesting and instructive by way of comparison with the prices of the same products at the present time. The following are selected for this purpose:

12 bu. of potatoes, 12*s.*; that is 16⅔ cents per bu.
630 lbs. of pork, £10 10*s.*; about 5½ cents per lb.
55 lbs. of salt beef, 11*s.* 6*d.*; about 3½ cents per lb.
80 lbs. of new milk cheese, £1 10*s.*; about 6¼ cents per lb.
61 lbs. of hog's lard, £1 5*s.* 5*d.*; about 7 cents per lb.
6 lbs. of butter, 3*s.* 6*d.*; nearly 10 cents per lb.
44 bu. of corn, £6 12*s.*; 50 cents per bu.
7 bu. of barley, 18*s.* 8*d.*; about 44 cents per bu.
3½ bu. of rye, 15*s.* 9*d.*; 75 cents per bu.
½ ton of English hay, 24*s.*; eight dollars per ton.

It will be seen that the price of Indian corn, then the great staple for bread, is about the same as at the present time; while all the other products of the farm, which then, as now, were necessary for the support of a family, were held at a greatly reduced rate.

William Sprague[5], the son of Peter[4] and the residuary devisee under his father's will, died April 1, 1795, and by his will, after making provision for his wife and children, Sarah and Peter, gives all the rest and residue of his property to his sons Abner[6] and William[6].

William Sprague[6] died in Cranston in 1836. In addition to his work as a farmer on the old homestead, he was one of the pioneer manufacturers who have made the State of Rhode Island so noted and prosperous. He is remembered as a man of great capacity for labor, of indomitable energy and persevering industry, united with business qualifications in an eminent degree. The result of these valuable equipments is seen in the provisions of his will, wherein he makes liberal provision for his children and grandchildren, and gives all the rest and residue of his estate, "including mills and machinery, bleaching and printing-works, to his sons William[7] and Amasa[7]."

With what success these sons conducted the business coming to them by this devise has already become a part of the history of Rhode Island, in the great wealth accumulated, and the high and honorable distinction attained by the capacity which these brothers evinced in the management of the great interests committed to them. William was elected to several offices of public trust, and became the Governor of the State and a Member of Congress.

They were men of large stature and well proportioned. Amasa is remembered as a man of inflexible determination. He had the direct management of the printing-mills in Cranston; and being much annoyed by the rumsellers in the neighborhood in the effects of their business upon the operatives in the mills, he determined to break them up, and followed up this determination so closely as exceedingly to anger the men engaged therein. On his way home one night he was waylaid and brutally murdered. The murderers were arrested and tried. One was executed, and one was sentenced to State prison for life, where he died. The sons of Amasa[7], Amasa[8] and William[8], succeeded to the business and wealth of their father, and William followed closely the career of his uncle in the offices to which he has been elected. At the commencement of the War of the Rebellion he was Governor of Rhode Island. He rendered the government efficient aid by the promptness with which he organized troops and early sent them forward, going himself as their commander.

It would be pleasant could this brief sketch of enterprise, industry, and thrift stop here. But the sequel to the story is the old one so often found in the history of wealth gained in our country. The great fortune of this family, gained by the industry and enterprise of a few generations, and amounting in its accumulations to millions, has within the last twenty-five years passed from the possession of these brothers.

Some portions of it probably remain among other descendants. One thing worthy of notice is that the real estate coming from Peter Sprague[4] must, from its situation, lie, in part at least, in the very land which his ancestor, John Tower, bought of the Indians.

8. Deborah[3], Benjamin[2], John[1].

Deborah[3], dau. of Benjamin[2] and Deborah (Garnet) Tower, b. Feb. 4, 1684–5; mar. Robert Corthell in Hingham, Oct. 13, 1708, by Rev. John Norton. R. Corthell born in Scotland. Childr. born in Hingham.

VII.	Hannah[4]	"	Feb. 28, 1724.

Robert Corthell died March 5, 1737–8, ag. 51.

Robert Corthell was the first of the name whom we find in Hingham. Tradition loves to dwell upon the story of his abduction from Scotland in childhood. The name is not often found in our early history, and those of this vicinity and in Maine can generally trace their descent from Robert and Deborah (Tower) Corthell.

Of those who have interested themselves in this genealogy may be named John K. Corthell[8], of Hingham, whose son, Charles Loring[9], graduated from West Point in 1884, and is now a lieutenant in the 4th Regt. U. S. Artillery. He is the second in descent from John Tower[1], among the graduates from this military academy.

William P. Corthell[7], born 1814, of Whitman, in this commonwealth, a town recently formed from the south part of Abington, was a representative from Abington to the Massachusetts legislature in 1850 and 1853. He was one of the selectmen of Abington from 1850 to 1856, was a special commissioner for the county of Plymouth in 1860 and 1861, and one of the county commissioners for the same county from 1862 to 1877, inclusive, — a period of fifteen years. He was one of the selectmen of South Abington, now Whitman, for ten years.

William J. Corthell[7], born 1826, resides in Gorham, Me. He graduated from Waterville College in 1857. He has been engaged in teaching the greater part of his life. He was county superintendent of schools for three years, and State superintendent for a like period. He has been municipal judge for the city of Calais, Me., and he also was representative from that city for six years, and senator from Washington county for two years, in the legislature of Maine.

Benjamin Tower[3] mar., 3d, Rebecca Whiton, in Hingham. Int. pub. Sept. 21, 1744. She was born in Hingham Dec. 6, 1691, and was dau. of James and Abigail Whiton.

Benjamin Tower[3] lived in Weymouth and Scituate, dying in the latter place. There does not appear to be record either of his death or of his place of burial. He received grants of lands in Weymouth, as will be seen from papers presented to the Weymouth Historical Society by Mrs. Orcutt.

Dec. 22, 1769, John Shaw, of Weymouth, conveys to Jonathan Derby, Jun., "a piece of swamp containing half a share, originally granted to Benjamin Tower."

The descendants of Benjamin Tower[3], many of them, continue to reside in that part of Scituate where he lived, now the town of Norwell. Other descendants are to be found in the neighboring town of Hanover, formerly a part of Scituate.

The name of John Tower, of Hanover, Mass., is found on the rolls of soldiers doing duty in the War of the Revolution, but there does not appear on the records, either of Scituate or Hanover, the birth or baptism of one of this name. The records of baptism of Rev. David Barnes, of the second parish of Scituate, are missing. Rev. Mr. Deane, a successor of Dr. Barnes in the ministerial office, and the compiler of the History of Scituate, was unable to find them. This John Tower was undoubtedly a grandson of Benjamin.[3]

In a roll of the soldiers enlisted for three years, preserved in the Massachusetts Archives, is the name of John Tower, of Hanover. On a pay-roll for six months' service his name appears in Col. John Bailey's regiment as engaged during the war, and again in another roll his name appears as entitled to a credit of forty-five months and eighteen days. His subsequent history is unknown.

Richard Stubbs, the husband of Jael [3] (Tower), removed to Hull, where he appears to have been engaged in seafaring pursuits, which his descendants followed. Some of them made their homes on Cape Cod, and others removed to Falmouth, now Portland, Me.

The following letter was written by Richard Stubbs to his wife's parents on the occasion of his reported death. It is the earliest written letter found among the family papers. It shows the dangers to which he was exposed in the calling he followed, and in which many of the men of New England were early engaged :

Peter[3], son of Benjamin[2] and Deborah (Garnet) Tower, born July 17, 1697; mar. Ann Tower, in Hingham, Feb. 1, 1727–8, by Rev. E. Gay. She was born in Hingham 1708, and was dau. of Samuel[2] and Deborah (Howard) Tower. Childr. born in Hingham.

Peter Tower[3] died in Hingham April 19, 1781, ag. 83 y. 9 m. 2 d.

Ann (Tower) Tower[3] died in Hingham Sept. 6, 1801, ag. 94 y.

Peter Tower[2] and his wife Anna Tower[3] came into possession of the old homestead of John Tower[1], their grandfather, on which they lived and died. They carefully preserved the papers of their grandfather and those of their parents. These papers embrace many deeds of lands; and as these were not recorded, it is through this preservation that the business of the two earlier generations is known.

The following deed of Deborah, widow of Benjamin Tower[2], to her son Peter[3] conveys a portion of the John Tower homestead:

Oct. 13, 1726. "Deborah Tower, widow and relict of Benjamin Tower, late of Hingham, deceased, in consideration of £30 paid by my son, Peter Tower, of Hingham, aforesaid, weaver, . . ." conveys "a piece or part of the home-lot where I now dwell, in the township of Hingham, abovesaid, containing by estimation two acres, be it more or less, bounded as followeth: Northerly and Easterly with the land of Jacob Stodder, Southerly with the other part of the said home-lot, and the Southeast corner bounds is a White Oak Tree; and the line runs from said White Oak Tree to the Southeast corner of the dwelling-house of the said Deborah Tower, and Westerly partly with the said dwelling-house, and partly with the town's common land or highway."

It will be noticed that Peter Tower is called weaver, — following the occupation of his father. He would seem to have added to this also that of cooper, — a business which early acquired prominence in Hingham, and gained for it the name of "Bucket Town." This appellation, though sometimes used in disparagement of the people, was in reality a tribute to their skill and industry. They were all more or less husbandmen, and drew from the soil their food and clothing. But when snow and ice covered the fields, making labor therein unprofitable, they found employment in the small shop or the vacant room in the house, where they converted the cedars of the swamps and the pines of the forests into various utensils of domestic use, in the work of which there was found place and occasion for the available force of the several families, all of which during the winter season were hives of industry.

The distribution of the products of this industry gave employment to traders both on land and sea. The small schooner, laden with wooden-ware, was well known in all the ports along the coast from Maine to Georgia, and the West India ports were not strangers to their sails.

Although the times were not rife with inventions, yet there was one labor-saving machine, the product of their skill, which deserves notice. This was a washing-machine, constructed wholly of wood and known by the name of the "Dumb Betty." It had a local habitation, and was hardly known outside of the town and its immediate vicinity. But among the townspeople it was held to be essential to the proper performance of the week's washing; and a household would be considered deficient in its equipments were it wanting in one of these implements, whereby the strength of the man or the large boy could come in to relieve the oft-burdened and weaker force of the woman.

In the present day of the professional in this important household work and the abounding laundries the "Dumb Betty" has become extinct, or if preserved at all, it is relegated to the lumber-room of the garret, among the discarded spinning-wheels and antiquated hand-looms.

Many of the descendants of John Tower are called coopers for some two centuries; but the introduction of machinery operated by power has completely superseded the old method of individual hand-work, and one after another those little shops, formerly so common as adjuncts to the dwelling-house, have disappeared, and at the present time the only man in town plying this ancient vocation is Nelson Corthell, now seventy-five years old. He is a lineal descendant of Robert and Deborah[3] (Tower) Corthell.

Peter Tower[3], with his varied occupations of weaver, cooper, and husbandman, added thereto that of trader, as an old memorandum-book preserved among his papers will show.

The following, copied from an indenture found among his papers, will show how instruction was given in the trades, and how much of time and labor was required to pay for that instruction: —

"This indenture, made this twelfth day of March, one thousand seven hundred & thirty & three or four, Witnesseth that I, Samuel Tower, of Hingham, cooper, in the county of Suffolk, in the province of Massachusetts Bay, in New England, have placed and bound my son, Matthew Tower, as an apprentice to Peter Tower, weaver, of the same town, county, & province abovesaid, and Ann, his wife, to serve them in their lawful business (viz.: in any out-door work), from the day of the date hereof until July the twelfth, one thousand seven hundred & forty & three, during which said term of time he the said apprentice is to behave himself well towards his said master and mistress, their lawful commands gladly to do. He shall not waste the estate of his said master and mistress, or suffer it to be wasted by others, but shall in all things as a good and faithful apprentice demean himself towards his said master and mistress during the said term of time.

"And in consideration whereof the said Peter Tower and Ann his wife do promise for themselves, their heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns, in manner following; that is to say, that they or their heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns will provide for the said apprentice both in sickness and health, and provide meat, drink, apparel, washing, and lodging fitting for such an apprentice during the said term of time. And the said

Peter Tower doth promise to teach and instruct him in the art & mystery of a weaver, and to teach and instruct or cause him to be taught or instructed in the art or mystery of a set-work cooper; and also to practice him in his reading and wrighting, and learn or cause him to be learned to cypher as far as the rule of three, or golden rule.

"And at the expiration of the said term of time to give the said apprentice two suits of apparel, one of them a new one, suitable for all parts of his body, both linen and woollen. But if the said Peter Tower shall be taken away before the expiration of the said term of time, then the said apprentice is to learn but one of the abovesaid trades, and that is to be which he shall choose."

Peter Tower's will is dated Oct. 19, 1769, and was allowed in the Probate Court for Suffolk County, April 25, 1781.

He gives to "wife, Anna, the use and improvement of all my estate, . . . except what I shall give unto Deborah Tower. . . . Gives to his son Isaiah the whole of the land where he now lives, eastward of the burying-yard; to his sister Deborah a living in the old part of his house during the widowhood of his wife. Gives to his four sons, Samuel, Isaiah, Joshua, and Laban, all the remainder of his estate, to be divided equally between them, deducting the value of Isaiah's former devise."

By the division of Peter Tower's real estate Joshua and Laban came into possession of the old John Tower homestead. Samuel, the oldest son, removed to Worthington, Mass., in the early settlement of that town, and Isaiah had a specific devise of real estate, the greater part of which remains in the ownership of his descendants and those connected with them by marriage.

It will be noticed that Peter Tower's nine children were all sons.

Ambrose Tower[3] removed from Hingham quite early. There appears to be no record of either of his marriages. He was in Hull when his oldest son was born. He afterwards removed to Concord, Mass., and resided in that part of the town which was set off and made the town of Lincoln. There appear to be no conveyances of real estate to or from him, and at his death there was neither will nor administration upon his estate. The following will show that he was at one time somewhat embarrassed in his circumstances. The first paper is a summons from the "Inferior Court of Common Pleas, to be holden at Boston on the first Tuesday of July next, then and there to answer unto Peter Tower, of Hingham, etc., weaver, in an action of debt" of £58. The summons is dated June 18, 1733. On the 20th of June, 1733, Ambrose Tower signs a bond in the penal sum of £44 to secure the payment of £22 "in good bills of credit, or current lawful silver money, on or before the 30th day of this instant June." On the back of the bond the receipt of two payments is indorsed, April 21, 1736, £3, and July 1, 1736, £3 19*s.* 5*d.*

Most of those bearing the name of Tower now residing in Middlesex County are the descendants of Ambrose. Others of his descendants have gone out into all parts of the country, and are to-day filling positions of honor and trust.

Daniel Tower [3] also was a cooper, and appears to have lived upon the part of the homestead set off to him in the division of his father's estate. He was a soldier in the old French war of 1756–63. He was in Capt. Ebenezer Beal's company, which marched to the relief of Fort William Henry in 1757. In the following year he was in Captain Ward's company, serving therein five months and fourteen days, for the reduction of Canada, and receiving for pay £9 18*s*. 3*d*. The next year he was in Capt. Jotham Gay's company, and served thirty weeks and four days, continuing in the same company the next year from January 1st to June 21st.

There appears to be neither will nor settlement of his estate; but March 18, 1791, several months previous to his death, he conveyed to his grandson, Bela Tower, cooper, "a piece of land lying in the South Parish, in Hingham, containing one quarter of an acre, with my dwelling-house standing thereon."

Joshua Tower[3] and his father-in-law, James Sprague, removed to Rehoboth previous to 1740, as in this year James Sprague conveys to Joshua Tower, his son-in-law, "my new dwelling-house," adjoining land of said Tower.

1786, July 18, Elisha Bliss makes a conveyance to Ezra Tower, minor, "son of my loving daughter, Huldah Tower, widow."

Nov. 7, 1792, Huldah Tower, of Rehoboth, widow, and Ezra Tower, of "Skohary," county of Montgomery, State of New York, make a conveyance of land.

No further trace of the descendants of Joshua Tower has been found. We find, however, that his son James[4] was a soldier in the old French war, serving in Colonel Carpenter's regiment at Lake George in 1755.

Deborah (Taylor) Tower died in Hingham Feb. 12, 1806, ag. 85.

Joseph Tower[3] was a cooper, and seems to have led a quiet and uneventful life, living upon the estate set off to him in the division of his father's estate. A valuation of estates in Hingham in 1751 for the assessment of taxes has been preserved among the Tower papers. Joseph Tower's real estate is valued at £10, and his personal estate at £2.

In 1782, a few months before his death, he conveys to his son-in-law, Amos Dunbar, cordwainer, —

"A piece of land lying in Hingham, containing half an acre, . . . with the house standing thereon."

There appears to be neither will nor settlement of his estate. He had previously, in 1773 and in 1774, made three several conveyances of portions of his homestead.

In the old French war he served in Captain Ward's company, where he is credited with 24 days' travel and 6 months and 16 days' service, with wages earned of £11 16*s.* 7*d.*, and stands charged with a gun, not returned, of the value of £3.

Bethiah (Nichols) Tower died in Cohasset, April 27, 1813, ag. 88 y. 11 m. 15 d.

Daniel Tower's [4] will is dated October, 1799, and allowed April 1, 1800. He gives his wife Bethiah the improvement of all his estate both real and personal, with some exceptions, during her natural life. He names his daughters, Sarah Cushing, Persis Hall, Bethiah Lothrop, and Mary Bates, to whom he gives legacies. He gives to his son-in-law, James Cushing, " all the real estate I purchased of him lying in the township of Scituate."

He names his sons Abraham, Isaac, Samuel, and Levi, and his grandson Daniel Nichols Tower, and makes them residuary devisees of his estate, and makes a contingent gift to his said grandson.

The inventory of his estate shows sixty-seven acres of homestead, which indicates the purchase of land in addition to the original grant to his great-grandfather, John Tower, on which his grandfather, Jbrook, settled. The valuation of his whole estate is $4,787.

David Tower [5] does not appear to have left descendants, or at least no record of them has been discovered; neither is there found any record of his marriage or death. At the commencement of the Revolutionary War he was thirty-two years old, and appears at that time to be a resident of Abington. His name is on the roll of Capt. Wm. Reed's company, with thirty others, on the 19th of April, 1775, with a record of one month and one day's service, and a marching distance of ninety-five miles. And again we find him doing duty in the same company in October, 1775, at Roxbury. As we do not meet with his name again in any of the records, we may reasonably infer that he died without issue during the war.

James Tower[4] was a soldier in the old French war. He was in Captain Parker's company. The following certificate is found in the Massachusetts Archives: —

SUFFOLK COUNTY, May 25th, 1758.

These are to certify that James Tower, aged thirty-seven years, born at Scituate, came before me, one of his Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the said county, and acknowledged to have voluntarily enlisted himself to serve his Majesty, King George the Second, in the abovesaid service; and that he also acknowledged he had heard read unto him the second and sixth sections of the articles of war against mutiny and desertion, and took the oath of fidelity mentioned in the articles of war.

JOS WILLIAMS.

James Tower[4] served also in the War of the Revolution. He was in Capt. Jotham Loring's company of Hingham on the 19th of April, 1775, and did thirteen days' duty. He was in Capt. Seth Stower's company, on duty in Hull from May 22 to Aug. 1, 1776, and is credited with one month and twenty-seven days' time. In a pay-roll of Capt. Jabez Wilder's half company, James Tower is credited with six days in February, 1778, doing duty at Hull.

In the muster-roll of the independent company stationed at Hingham, commanded by Capt. James Lincoln, from May 5, 1775, to Jan. 1, 1776, is the name of James Tower, with a credit for seven months and four days, and thirty-six miles of travel, with a payment of £16 5*s.* 8½*d.*

He was in Capt. Job Cushing's company at Tiverton, R. I., July, 1779, and is credited with thirty-nine days' service. In 1781 he was in Capt. Elijah Baker's company in Rhode Island, and served three months and twenty-four days. On the 4th of March, 1776, he was in Capt. Pyam Cushing's company for four days' service at Dorchester, marching thirty-six miles. In 1778 he was in Capt. Elias Whiton's company, doing guard duty in Boston one month and twenty days, for which service he received £3 6*s.* 8*d.* In 1779 he was on the same duty in Capt. Caleb Champney's company for two months and twenty-six days.

It will be seen by referring to the date of his birth that he was fifty-two years old when hostilities began, and fifty-eight years old when his last term of duty was performed.

Hannah (Collamore) Tower died in Worthington, July 3, 1818, ag. 78.

Samuel Tower's[4] name is found on the roll of Capt. Pyam Cushing's company, "assembled to guard the shores from March 11 to March 29, 1776;" and again at two different times in the same company in the month of June of the same year he was doing duty at Hull. He removed from Hingham to Worthington, Mass., during the War of the Revolution, and became one of the early settlers of that town. His farm was situated on the highest part of that elevated region, and here, where he built his dwelling-house and farm-buildings, nothing now remains but the cellar and the remnant of the stone chimney fallen therein. A tree has taken root in the deserted cellar, and has already attained considerable dimensions. No sound of industry breaks the solitude, and the farm bids fair in a few years to relapse into its condition of forest from which Samuel Tower and his helping sons reclaimed it scarcely a century ago. His children and grandchildren went out of Worthington into other fields, to repeat the lesson of subduing the wilderness for which their early experience so well fitted them. The earliest record in Worthington of Samuel Tower's family is the baptism of his youngest son, May 21, 1780, and under the date of Nov. 4, 1780, is found "admitted to the church in Worthington, wife of Samuel Tower." Memorial-stones in the cemetery record the death of Samuel Tower and his wife Hannah Tower. His will, dated July 6, 1806, makes provision for his wife, and especial provision for his infirm son Jesse[5]. He names his surviving sons, Samuel, Shubael, and Peter, and his daughters, Anna Alford and Hannah Hall.

The inventory of his estate, taken Oct. 6, 1812, shows the area of his farm, 139 acres, which, with the buildings thereon, has a value of $973. This, and the farm-stock, products, and household furniture, of a value of 198\frac{21}{100}$, make the sum total of a life of industry prolonged to more than fourscore years in the more primitive pursuits of life. And yet, modest as this sum appears, it is questionable whether it does not compare favorably with the average result of a wage-earner of the present day, amid all the advantages of science and invention as applied to human labor.

Isaiah Tower [4] was a private in Capt. Isaiah Tower [4] was a weaver by trade, as were his father and grandfather before him. He lived at the corner of Main and High Streets in Hingham, where he built a house about the year 1752, according to tradition in the family. The lot on which the house stands became by descent and division of property the estate of his grandson, Leavitt Tower [6], who occupied it during his life, which closed in 1882; and by his will it passed to the wife of his nephew. The house has been added to since it was built, and is well preserved.

Joshua Tower [4] was a soldier in the War of the Revolution. He was a private in Capt. Jotham Loring's company, called into service on the 19th of April, 1775, and credited with thirteen days service.

In 1776 Joshua Tower was chosen and commissioned as second lieutenant of the third company in the second Suffolk regiment, of which company Pyam Cushing was the captain. He marched with his company on the 4th of March to Dorchester to relieve that part of the army which left their lines in Roxbury to take possession of Dorchester Heights, causing the British troops to evacuate Boston. After the evacuation the company returned to Hingham, having completed four days service and thirty-six miles travel. From the 11th to the 29th of March of the same year he was on duty at intervals guarding the shores. The roll of the company contains seventy-eight names, including the officers, and eight of these are the names of Tower. In June of the same year he was twice called to Hull with his company. In 1777 he went from Hingham with a lieutenant's command to join the company of Capt. Moses French, at Providence, R. I., in General Spencer's expedition.

Among his papers is preserved a roll of the forty-two men under his command, and, including himself, six are of the name of Tower, — all his neighbors and relatives. On this paper are several indorsements: "Marched from Hingham May 17th; arrived at Providence the 19th, about 10 o'clock. . . . July 8, at Providence at night, a mighty rain. . . . July 11, General Prescott taken prisoner, brought off Rhode Island by Col. Barton, of Providence." Two other papers, containing reports of the main guard at two different times, are signed by Captain Grant, officer of the day.

Among his papers are many deeds of land which he purchased, and in some of which he is a grantee with his brother Samuel; and in 1803 the brothers, Isaiah, Joshua, and Laban, make partition of lands which they held in common, by a deed in which they all join. None of these deeds have been recorded, though much of the land has been since subdivided and passed by many successive conveyances.

Joshua Tower's will is dated March 12, 1810, and proved and allowed Nov. 6, 1810. In this he gives "to my youngest brother, Laban Tower, all my homestead and buildings thereon, together with all my other freehold estate whatsoever;" and he makes him his residuary legatee. By the devise under this will Laban Tower [4] becomes the sole owner of the homestead of John Tower [1].

Laban Tower[4], the youngest of Peter[3] and Anna[3] (Tower) Tower's nine sons, was a soldier in the War of the Revolution, and the following is something of the record of his service. On the 19th of April, 1775, under Capt. Jotham Loring, he is credited with thirteen days service. He served in Capt. James Lincoln's company of guards in Hingham in 1776, and was with Capt. Pyam Cushing at Hull in June of that year. In the same year his name appears on a roll of men drafted from Hingham, Braintree, and other towns, under Lieut. Theophilus Wilder, of Hingham. In the months of December, 1776, and January and February, 1777, he was a sergeant doing duty in Capt. Theophilus Wilder's company, and from May to July, 1777, he was with his brother's command in Rhode Island, and in 1778 he was with Capt. Jabez Wilder's half company, doing duty at Hull, and in the same year he was in Capt. Elias Whiton's company doing guard duty. Laban Tower was a cooper by trade, and pursued his calling upon the old homestead, where he lived, and which by the will of his brother Joshua became his sole property. By his will, dated July 28, 1824, and proved and allowed September 7 of the same year, he gave his homestead and all his other lands to his wife for and during her life, with remainder to his grandson William Tower[6]. The homestead remained in the possession of William Tower until his death, April 12, 1879, and the dwelling-house and a portion of the land are now owned and occupied by his widow, Lucy A. Tower.

Hepzibah (Gibbs) Tower died in Waterville, N. Y., Jan. 16, 1816, ag. 85 y. 10 m. 22 d.

Joseph Tower [4] in the early part of his manhood resided in Weston, Mass., and was a member of the church there. He removed to Sudbury in 1748, and resided there nearly twenty years. He afterwards removed to and resided in the towns of Princeton, Lancaster, Shrewsbury, and Rutland. He was a millwright by occupation, and the demand for experience and skill in providing the progressive settlements with saw and grist mills explains his frequent removals. At the time of his death he was the owner of a mill in Rutland. It will be noticed that the names of all his nine sons begin with the same letter of the alphabet, the I and J then having the same visible representative, though distinguished by difference of sound.

He was a landholder, owning lands in both Middlesex and Worcester counties; but previous to his death he seems to have conveyed his real estate to his sons, making one conveyance to Silas in 1783, and in 1787 he conveys his homestead to Abel. In the administration upon his estate in 1788 the inventory shows only personal property.

Gideon Tower [5] died in Dillsborough, Dearborn County, Ind., 1847, ag. 94.
Abigail (Perkins) Tower died in Dillsborough, Dearborn County, Ind., 1845, ag. 91.

Gideon Tower[5] was son of John[4]. He too served in the War of the Revolution, and in an affidavit made to secure a pension under the Act of 1832 he gives a brief account of service: —

"In 1775 as a private in a company of Connecticut Militia, commanded by Captain Cleft, of Parsons' regiment; in 1776 as a private in a company of Rhode Island troops, commanded by Captain Wilcox, of Dyer's regiment; in 1778, as a substitute for Mr. Barber, in a company commanded by the same captain in the same regiment; in 1779 as a private in a company of Vermont Militia commanded by Captain Noble, in Herrick's regiment; in 1780 as an orderly-sergeant in a company of Vermont Militia commanded by Captain Hutchins, of Herrick's Regiment."

After the battle of Bunker Hill the regiment to which he belonged was called to Roxbury, Mass., where it was stationed during the siege of Boston.

It will be seen that he also removed from Cumberland to Vermont during the war, and that there he was again called into service. He afterwards removed to the State of New York, then to Kentucky, and subsequently to Indiana, where he purchased land in Dearborn County. The following account of him was written by his grandson, John Tower Lemon, and published in the Lawrenceburg "Register," March, 1843: —

"He joined the army of the Revolution in April, 1775, and served from three to seven months every year while the war lasted. His wife was born the 28th of November, 1754, and they are both now living in Cæsar Creek Township, in this [Dearborn] county, and enjoying good health for persons of their age. They had thirteen children, fifty-nine grandchildren, seventy-nine great-grandchildren, and six great-great-grandchildren. They had two sons out in the last war, — John Tower and Gideon Tower. The former was massacred on the 23d of January, 1813, at the River Raisin. They had one grandson, Henry Millard, who had the honor of commanding the right wing of the Texan forces on the memorable 21st of April, 1836, when the Mexicans were defeated and Santa Anna made prisoner by the Texans.

"It is seldom that husband and wife live together sixty-eight years, and live to see their descendants multiply to one hundred and fifty-seven, and six of the fifth generation; and what is yet stranger, that these generations should all be of one political opinion. All of these, so far as my knowledge extends, who were voters in 1840, voted for General Harrison."

On the 26th of April, 1833, Gideon Tower was granted a pension of $96 per annum, to commence on the 4th of March, 1831. This pension was paid to March, 1847.

In a letter written by the same grandson, April 7, 1885, he says, writing of his grandfather: —

"The old gentleman was poor when he came to my father. He was a carpenter by trade, and knew nothing about farming, and never owned any real estate that I ever heard of. He was too old to work, and was coming near to want when he agreed to come and live with father."

There are two conveyances of real estate on record in Dearborn County in which the name of Gideon Tower appears, in one of which he is grantee, and in the other he is the grantor. The former is dated Jan. 28, 1833, and the latter Feb. 20, 1833, when he was nearly eighty years old.

Nathaniel Tower[5], son of Joseph[4], also removed to Vermont during the Revolutionary War, and served as a soldier during that war. In an affidavit for a pension made in 1832 he says that he joined a company in Taunton, Mass., where he resided, in April, 1775, on the alarm occasioned by the battle of Lexington, and marched to Roxbury, where he remained three weeks. He then enlisted in the month of May in Capt. Francis Liscomb's company, in Col. Timothy Walker's regiment, and marched to Roxbury, where he served alternately with James Stacy, each serving one month at a time, until the expiration of the period of enlistment, January, 1776.

He further says that he removed from Taunton to the town of Rupert, Vt., and that he enlisted in May, 1780, in the Vermont troops for four months, under Captain Brown, in Col. Ebenezer Allen's regiment. His name appears in Col. Ira Allen's regiment in March, 1780, and in October the same year, when the regiment was called out on alarms. He removed to Willsborough, Essex County, N. Y., where he was again called out on an alarm. He subsequently removed to Lenox, Susquehanna County, Pa., where and in the vicinity his descendants are now living, and filling positions of usefulness and responsibility in the community. Two grandsons and one great-grandson are preachers, and one grandson died while filling the office of pastor of a society. In 1836 his widow, Lucy Tower, of Lenox, applied for a pension, and one of $$36\frac{76}{100}$ per annum was granted.

Richard Tower [5] died in Goshen, Mass., 1813, ag. nearly 80.

Hannah (Tower) Tower was living in Hatfield in 1816.

Richard Tower [5] seems to have removed from Cohasset to Chesterfield, Mass., and afterwards to Hatfield, in the same State. His will, dated Oct. 8, 1812, and proved and allowed July 6, 1813, names his wife, Hannah, and five daughters; namely, Eunice Morton, Rebecca Smith, Susanna Brown, Hannah Tower, and Silence Tower. He gives "unto Richard T. Morton, of Hatfield, . . . all my real estate, lands, and tenements . . . in Hatfield," and his farm-stock and farming utensils. He gives to his wife "indoor movables, wearing apparel, and household furniture;" to his five daughters "eighty-four cents each."

The inventory of his estate gives: "The home farm, containing about fifty acres of land, with the dwelling-house, the old part of the barn, and the corn-house, in value $1,500; farm-stock $50; one pew in the Goshen meeting-house, $20; household furniture, etc., 104\frac{42}{100}$.

Richard Tower was a soldier in the old French war and in the War of the Revolution. He was in Lieut. Obadiah Beal's company of guards stationed at Hull beach from Dec. 12, 1775, to April 3, 1776. Again in the same company in Colonel Lovell's regiment, he was on duty at Hull in June, 1776. He was in Capt. Christopher Bannister's company from Chesterfield in an expedition to Stillwater and Saratoga, marching one hundred miles and having twenty-one days service. In 1778 he was in Capt. Benjamin Lapham's company, doing duty in Cambridge for three months and two days; and in 1779 he was in Capt. Abner Crane's company, on duty in Boston, three months and two days.

Mary (Sprague) Tower died in Chesterfield, Mass., April 27, 1826, ag. 73 y. 10 m. 13 d.

Isaac Tower[5], son of Cornelius[4], removed from Cohasset during the War of the Revolution. He appears to have settled in that part of Chesterfield called the "Gore," — now the town of Goshen. Tradition in the family is that Isaac's matrimonial proposals were not favorably entertained by the parents of his intended wife, and the record of publishments confirms this statement; for we find in the Hingham records of marriage intentions the following: "Isaac Tower and Mary Sprague. . . . The BANS forbidden by John Sprague, who underwrote the publishment as the law directs." This was dated Oct. 1, 1768. Tradition further says that this impediment did not prevent continued proceedings, as we find from the same records, under date "Dec. 23, 1769," that "Isaac Tower and Mary Sprague intend marriage;" and this second intention was carried into effect. But as the marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Brown instead of the minister of the parish where the bride's parents resided, according to the custom of the times, the Rev. J. Brown being the minister of Cohasset, where Isaac Tower resided, we may infer that the opposing father was not fully placated; but, like many another father, he probably found that parental guidance in matters of the affection has its limitations.

Isaac Tower[5] did service as a soldier in the War of the Revolution, and was a sergeant in Capt. Obadiah Beal's company, which marched to Dorchester on the 4th of March, 1776. He had previously served in Capt. Job Cushing's company, in Colonel Greaton's regiment. The following order is found among the military records: —

Cambridge Camp, Dec. 18, 1775.

Please to pay Capt. Job Cushing, in Col. John Greaton's regiment, the sum of twenty-five shillings to each of us, in lieu of the coats promised to us (Inlisted Soldiers) by the Provincial Congress.

This is signed by Isaac Tower, Jesse Tower, Abraham Tower, Levi Tower, and fifty-two others.

From the Hampshire Record of Deeds, Isaac Tower is found to be the purchaser of several pieces and tracts of land in Goshen and in adjoining towns.

Abraham Tower [5] inherited the homestead of his father, thus continuing it in the direct line of descent from John Tower [1], to whom the land was set off in the first division of lands made by the proprietors of the common lands to be held in severalty. Tradition assigns him a place among the members of the "Tea-party" in Boston in 1773. In 1775 he was a member of Capt. Job Cushing's company, at the siege of Boston, serving as a corporal.

He resided in Cohasset upon the old homestead, and in addition to the cultivation of his lands he was quite extensively engaged in navigation and the commercial pursuits attendant thereon.

In his will, proved Oct. 27, 1832, he gives to his son, Abraham Hobart Tower, "all my homestead farm on which I now live, and the buildings standing thereon; also my store and wharf at the Cove," etc. He makes provision for his daughters, Elizabeth Souther and Hannah Kent Lawrence, and makes his son, Abraham H., the residuary legatee.

In an application for a pension, made Aug. 28, 1832, Abraham Tower says that he was in the Continental service from about the 1st of May, 1775, to the 1st of January, 1776.

Isaac Tower[5], son of Daniel[4], removed from Cohasset to Springfield, Vt., where went a number of others from Cohasset and its vicinity. Many of these were relatives of Isaac Tower, through a common line of descent. They went to Springfield in the early settlement of that town. This region became known to their fathers and to some of them as they marched through the wilderness to Ticonderoga and Crown Point in the old French war and in the War of the Revolution. It lies directly opposite Charlestown, N. H., across the Connecticut River. Charlestown was then Fort No. 4, and was a station for stores and a rendezvous for the soldiers in their various expeditions to and return from the lakes. They thus became acquainted with the country and the advantages it offered for a settlement. Mrs. Theoda (Tower) Gill, his daughter, says: —

"My father lived on a farm about two miles east of the village, where he built a house. He was a carpenter by trade and an ingenious mechanic, and as the necessities of a new settlement required the exercise of various employments, he often made shoes. At the time of his death he was the owner of some five hundred acres of land in Springfield. . . . He was a member of the Congregational Society in Springfield, and was a constant attendant upon the services of the church."

Levi Tower [5], another son of Daniel Tower [4], was a soldier in the War of the Revolution. He was the drummer in Capt. Job Cushing's company at the siege of Boston, as appears from a roll entitled a "Muster Roll of Capt. Job Cushing's Co. in the 36 Reg't of Foot in the Continental Army in Fort No. 2, Oct. 5, 1775." Again he was the drummer in Capt. Obadiah Beal's company, which marched from Cohasset to Dorchester on the 4th of March, 1776. He was a private in Capt. Job Cushing's company in Col. Solomon Lovell's regiment from Dec. 28, 1776, to April 1, 1777, and pre-vions to the last-named service he was the drummer in Capt. Peter Cushing's company, called into service at Hull.

Levi Tower resided in Cohasset, where, like his brother Abraham, he not only attended to the cultivation of the soil, but he was largely engaged in navigation and commercial business. From the situation of the town and its rocky character, — the name, derived from the Indian language, being significant of this character, — navigation to and from Boston Harbor has always been imperilled by the partially submerged rocks extending from the shore into the line of passage. Many wrecks of vessels have been the consequence of this condition, valuable cargoes destroyed, and many lives have been lost. The people of Cohasset are often called upon for deeds of daring and courage in the rescue of the imperilled and in the saving of valuables, and for the exercise of kindness to those whose lives have been saved. The following account, written by the Rev. Jacob Flint, the minister of Cohasset in 1821, describes one of the many of these events. It is given here, as Levi Tower [5] received a token of esteem in recognition of his services.

"Among the many instances of distress by shipwreck in which the kindest assistance and relief have been given, one only will be here noticed; the circumstances do equal credit to those who gave, and to those who received relief. On February 12th, 1793, the ship 'Gertrude Maria,' of 400 tons, bound from Copenhagen to Boston with a cargo estimated at $40,000, and commanded by Hans Peter Clien, was wrecked on a small island among Cohasset rocks called Brush Island. . . . The ship was first thrown upon a small ledge, where she suffered but partial injury, then on the island just named, whose sides are covered with pointed ledges; . . . and here she was broken asunder. . . . A trial was made by two men to reach the shore in a boat; but the boat was dashed to pieces, and one man was drowned, while the other recovered the wreck. At length, by extending a spar from the stern of the wreck, the survivors all got upon the island out of the reach of the waves. Here they tarried in the tempest, chilled with wet and frost, without fire or house to shelter them, till discovered early the next morning by the inhabitants of the town. . . . A boat was quickly brought to the beach, a mile over land. She was manned without delay, . . . reached the island, and brought off three of the sufferers. Another attempt was immediately made, but resulted in the destruction of the boat. Two other boats were brought from a distance, and the dauntless exertions of the boatmen were renewed till the sufferers, twenty-one in number, were all safely landed on the shore. . . . In the mean time due attention was paid to their property. . . . An account of articles of the smallest as well as of greater value was given to the master of the ship, insomuch that when all was collected that could be saved and sold at auction, the amount was $12,000.

"When leaving, the captain told his benefactors that they should hear from him again. He sailed from Boston, and touching at St. Croix, he published there an account of the hospitality he had experienced from the people of Cohasset.

"When he arrived in Denmark he gave to the king such a representation of the people here as induced his Majesty to order the College of Commerce to send in his Majesty's name four large medals of gold and ten of silver, with the likeness of himself impressed on one side, with the Danish words on the other, importing, 'Reward of Merit — Noble Deeds.'

"With the medals of gold came directions: one for Rev. Josiah C. Shaw, one for Elisha Doane, Esq., one for Capt. John Lewis, and one for Capt. Levi Tower."

Levi Tower's will is dated Sept. 2, 1819, and allowed Sept. 2, 1823. In this will he makes provision for his wife in accordance with an ante-nuptial agreement; and as a matter of curiosity and in illustration of such agreements, which were prevalent in the olden times, a copy is hereby given, namely: —

"Six cords of hard wood and two cords of pine wood cut and put down cellar, twelve bushels of corn-meal, six bushels of rye-meal, eight bushels of potatoes, three bushels of turnips, three half barrels of flour, one hundred and twelve pounds of sugar, twelve gallons of molasses, eight pounds of good Souchong tea, seven pounds of coffee, two hundred and fifty pounds of beef and tallow, one hundred and fifty pounds of pork, ten pounds of sheep's wool, twenty pounds of flax, eight pounds of cotton-wool, seventy-five dollars in cash each year. The improvement of one half of my dwelling-house as long as she shall remain my widow; also the improvement of my clock and all my household furniture, except four feather-beds, that I hereafter give to my four daughters; and the improvement of two good cows, well kept winter and summer, and the use of my horse and chaise, and two seats in my pew in the meeting-house, and the use of two feather-beds during her natural life. This includes all that she was to receive by our marriage agreement. I also give her the improvement of one half of my garden."

The widow certifies her acceptance of the provision made for her in the will, Oct. 6, 1823.

Levi Tower's estate, as appears by the appraisal, was considerable for the times, showing satisfactory results of a business life of activity and industry. The amount of the real estate was $14,187, including five thousand feet of "Salt Works," at Simon Farm Beach, $4,000, — showing a large interest in a manufacture once flourishing and profitable in the maritime towns of Massachusetts, but from changed conditions the profit from them has disappeared, and these works becoming worthless, were destroyed.

It will be noticed that nearly the whole of the service performed by Levi Tower in the War of the Revolution was that of drummer. The drum and fife at that period were all the instruments by which talent and culture in music were able to give public expression to the attainments of those gifted in this direction. And from these drummers and fifers we are not surprised to find, through inheritance, these marked qualities among their descendants at the present day, enabling them to take advanced position in culture and attainments among the most gifted in musical science and performance.

Peter Tower[5] died in Cummington, Aug. 4, 1814, ag. 85 y. 6 m. 16 d.

Peter Tower[5], though more than forty-five years old when the War of the Revolution began, performed military service. He was in Capt. Pyam Cushing's company, employed in guarding the shores while the British ships were lying at the outer harbor of Boston subsequent to its evacuation, March, 1776, and before they sailed for Halifax. Again he served in Capt. Job Cushing's company from Dec. 18, 1776, to April 1, 1777, when he is credited with three and one-half months' service. In 1778 he was in Capt. Elias Whiton's company, doing guard duty in Boston.

Peter Tower removed from Hingham to Cummington, Mass., near the close of the war. At this time, or soon after, his several children went there also, and shared in the work belonging to the early settlement of that town. His oldest child and daughter, Leah, who had married Nathaniel Tower[5], was among the number.

Malachi Tower [5] died in Hingham, April 21, 1806, ag. 68 y. 1 m. 2 d.

Susannah (Harris) Tower died in Abington, April 26, 1830, ag. 79.

Malachi Tower [5] was a soldier in the War of the Revolution. His name appears on the rolls in the Massachusetts Archives, and by affidavit for pension, as follows: In June, 1776, he was in Capt. Pyam Cushing's company, doing duty at Hull; and during the same year and in 1777 he was in Capt. Theophilus Wilder's company. In 1778 his name appears in Captain Ward's company, doing guard duty in Boston, and in the same year in Capt. Joseph Baxter's company, in General Lovell's brigade, which marched to Rhode Island. In 1779 his name appears as "fifer" in Capt. Job Cushing's company at Tiverton, R. I., and in 1780 in Capt. Theophilus Wilder's company, in Col. Ebenezer Thayer's regiment of new levies from the county of Suffolk, raised for three months to reinforce the continental army stationed in Rhode Island.

As both Malachi Tower[5] and his son Malachi Tower[6] were, during a portion of the time embraced in the foregoing service, of the required age for military service, and the name is not distinguished by senior or junior, it may be difficult to determine by whom the several periods of service were performed.

In the statement made by Bathsheba Tower, widow of Malachi Tower[6], for obtaining a pension, Aug. 29, 1838, she claims "6 weeks in Sullivan's expedition in R. I. in 1778. . . . 3 months in Capt. Ward's company of guards in Boston in 1778. . . . Also 3 mos. 19 days in Capt. Theophilus Wilder's company in R. I. in 1780." The statement of the widow is confirmed by the affidavits of four soldiers then residing in Hingham, who had served with him.

Malachi Tower[5] resided in Hingham at a place known as "Great Hill," nearly a mile distant from the principal villages of the town. He gave this homestead to his grandson, Moses Tower[7], who resided upon the same, and built a new house upon the site of the old one. It is now owned and occupied by Samuel C. Souther[8] — son of Rebecca[7] (Tower) and Daniel Souther — and Sarah Jane[9] (Tower), his wife. It is the retreat and home for the children of Boston who are sent here during the heated season of the year by the help of those charitably inclined. They come in relays of from fifteen to twenty, and spend a fortnight each under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Souther.

Lynde Tower [5], who was a soldier in the War of the Revolution, resided in Pembroke, in Plymouth County. His name appears in Capt. Eleazer Hamlen's company, in General Thomas's regiment, in Roxbury, in 1775. He subsequently enlisted for the war. In a record of service in the Continental regiments of Massachusetts, we find the name of Lines Tower, of Pope's company, in the fourth regiment, credited with forty-eight months service. In an account kept by Massachusetts with the United States for sums paid "to make good the depreciation of their wages for the first three years service in the Continental army," we find the name of Lines Tower, in Col. Wm. Shepard's regiment, credited for £97 16*s.*, of which amount there was paid by the Continent £22 12*s.*, and by the State £75 4*s.* In 1781 he is recorded as a sergeant in Capt. Isaac Pope's company in July, and is credited with service for the months of "September, October, and November;" and in February, 1782, his name appears in the same company.

At the close of the war Lynde Tower removed to Westminster, Vt., where he resided the remainder of his days, and where his descendants are now living.

His oldest son, Gad Hitchcock [6], — named for the minister of Pembroke, where he was born, — by his own energy and industry was able to obtain a college education, and was the second of the name who enjoyed this privilege. He graduated at Brown University in 1803, and was in college with Levi Tower [6], who graduated in 1800.

Matthew Tower [5] died in Scituate, March 3, 1831, ag. 75 y. 3 m. 2 d.

Matthew Tower[5] resided in Scituate, Mass., and was a shipwright by trade. He was a soldier in the War of the Revolution, and his name is on the roll of Capt. Enoch Whiton's company on the 19th of April, 1775, for three days duty and for forty-two miles march. In October of the same year he was a private in Capt. Nathaniel Winslow's company, and his name appears again on the rolls of the same company in camp at Roxbury in December of the same year. In 1778, from July to September, he was in Captain Clift's company in Rhode Island.

That he performed other and more continuous service appears from an affidavit he made, May 28, 1819, in support of an application for a pension under an Act of Congress passed in 1818 for the relief of indigent soldiers. He says: —

"I enlisted in the company of artillery commanded by Captain Stevens, in Col. Henry Knox's regiment, in January, 1776, about the first day in the year. I served in Roxbury and about Boston until the 27th of March, ten days after the evacuation of the town by the British; we having had orders on the day of the evacuation to be ready to march to Canada in ten days; that we took up our line of march on the said 27th day of March and proceeded to Canada, I being detained on the way about four weeks by sickness; that I arrived in Canada in the month of May and joined my company in the month of May at a place called Sorel, and I continued in service until some time in the month of November of that year, about six weeks, as near as I can remember, before my year expired, and was then discharged on account of ill health."

This statement is confirmed by the affidavit of Lieut. Samuel Daggett, who served in the same company and at the same time.

A pension of eight dollars a month was granted, but in 1820 it was discontinued, as it would seem that the matter of indigence was not satisfactorily shown. It may be a matter of curiosity to learn the amount of property required to constitute a condition outside of the indigence warranting relief by a pension. Matthew Tower states that he is sixty-five years old, is a shipwright by occupation, able to perform two thirds of a man's labor. His family consisted of his wife, Jerusha, sixty-five years old, and "a small girl, named Clarissa Tower, eleven years of age."

"I have about 40 acres of land of an ordinary quality, the whole about sufficient to keep one cow, a small old dwelling-house, a small barn, half a pew, 18 old chairs, 4 tables, 2 small looking-glasses, iron, tin, glass, and wooden ware, brass kettle, skillet, 2 pair of andirons, shovel, tongs, one cow, one hog, one maple desk, a case of drawers, one old horse-cart, and loom."

The pension was not restored until 1824, with the following explanation: —

"The difficulty in this case arose from a disagreement between the certificate of the court and that of Charles Turner as to the valuation of the property in the first schedule. The court valued it at $208\frac{34}{100}$, and Turner states that it was valued at $582\frac{34}{100}$. The Hon. Mr. Hobart was informed of this on the 11th of May, 1824, and has since forwarded the certificate of J. B. Thomas, the clerk of the court, who explains the disagreement by certifying that the court, in valuing the property, deducted from the full value, $374, the amount of debts due by the claimant, which left a balance of $208\frac{34}{100}$."

The pension was restored Aug. 16, 1824.

In 1838, his widow, Jerusha Tower, at the age of eighty-two years, makes application for a pension. She mentions service of eight months in 1775, at the siege of Boston, the service in 1776, that in Rhode Island in 1778, — all of which are shown by affidavits of surviving soldiers who had served with him. The service claimed is stated as ten months in the artillery, and nine months and ten days in the infantry, for which an annual pension of $72\frac{79}{100}$ is granted, to commence on the 4th of March, 1836.

It is remembered in the family that Matthew Tower found time during the war to engage in privateering, — a method of distressing the enemy then held as honorable as any other service, — and that in his case it was unsuccessful to himself, as he was taken a prisoner. This is confirmed by his name being found in a list of forty-nine prisoners returned at New York, as seen in the Massachusetts Archives.

No son of Matthew Tower survived him; and though in humble circumstances, his oldest son graduated at Harvard College in 1806, being the third of the name who was fortunate enough to receive the privilege and honor of a collegiate education.

Matthew Tower's descendants through his daughters are still found in Plymouth County, occupying positions of honor and trust in the community.

Benjamin Tower [5] was a soldier in the War of the Revolution. His first service began on the 19th of April, 1775, as a private in Capt. John Clapp's company, which is credited with thirteen days service and thirty-five miles march. The company was stationed at Scituate Harbor; but after the battle of Bunker Hill it was marched to Roxbury and did duty there for the remainder of the year, where the company appears to have been under the command of Capt. Nathaniel Winslow. At the expiration of this term of service, Benjamin Tower enlisted in the Continental service for a period of one year, in Capt. Joshua Jacob's company.

In 1837, Lucy Tower, of Bangor, in Franklin County, N.Y., made application for a pension, and states that she was married to Benjamin Tower in Scituate, in September, 1778, "and that in the winter following said marriage he was absent from home in the army, . . . and that early in the spring of 1779 he again enlisted in the army for the term of nine months, and immediately left home, and was gone until the month of January or February, 1780. . . . Thinks he was in Capt. Jonathan Turner's company, and that a part or the whole of said service was performed at West Point and in its vicinity. She further states that in 1780 they removed to Westmoreland in New Hampshire, where they resided three or four years, when they removed to Westminster, Vt., and resided there until they removed to Bangor, about sixteen years before the date of the application.

In an affidavit made by James Lincoln, of Scituate, Mass., July 14, 1837, he states that he was the officer who enlisted Benjamin Tower for his period of service in 1776, and that he served with him, and says, "About the 1st of April we marched to New London, and at that place we went by water to New York;" and he further says, "I think that the said Tower was wounded in the wrist at the battle of Harlem Heights."

Noah Barrell, of Scituate, says that he served in the same company with Benjamin Tower, and that both were wounded at the battle of Harlem Heights.

Benjamin Tower was an invalid pensioner at the rate of $5 a month, and this was increased, under the Act of 1816, to $8. A pension was granted to Lucy Tower of $80 per annum.

Nathaniel Tower[5] was a soldier in the War of the Revolution. His name is on the roll of Capt. James Lincoln's company, stationed at Hingham, and guarding the shores against the incursions of the British during the siege of Boston. This was an important post, as the British by their fleet had complete command of all the inner harbor of the south shore of Boston, rendering incursions probable, as the readiest means of relief from the want of provisions and fuel so pressing during that siege. That the British made no successful attempts is a tribute to the activity and vigilance of the soldiers intrusted with this guard duty. His whole period of service here was eleven months and twenty-eight days. He afterwards served in Captain Wild's company, in Colonel Brook's regiment of guards in 1777 and 1778, at Cambridge, when the prisoners of Burgoyne's army were held there. A pension of $66\frac{66}{100}$ per annum was granted to his widow, Leah Tower, Dec. 9, 1845, with arrears to Sept. 4, 1845, of $\$96\frac{57}{100}$. At the date of the certificate she had entered upon the ninety-ninth year of her age. In her affidavit Leah Tower says: "We were extremely poor, and his wages would not support our family; and he was advised to remove to the western part of the State." He seems to have removed about 1780; and near this time a number of his relatives of the name of Tower, and many others of other names who were relatives, removed from Hingham, Cohasset, Weymouth, and the vicinity, to the hill-towns west of the Connecticut River, then for the most part unoccupied, where they became important factors in converting this wilderness into well-cultivated and flourishing farms, rearing large families of sons and daughters, who in their turn have repeated the lessons of enterprise and industry so thoroughly learned upon these hill-tops, and have gone out through successive generations in other fields to reclaim the wilderness, until the waves of the Pacific Ocean bar any further progress.

Martin Tower[5] died at sea 1787, ag. 37.

Martin Tower[5] was a private in Capt. Peter Cushing's third foot company in Hingham, assembled at Dorchester March 4, 1776, and credited with four days service and thirty-six miles of travel. In June of the same year he again did duty at Hull in the same company, which has a credit for two days service and twenty miles of travel. Martin Tower was a seaman by occupation, and it is quite likely that he was engaged in some of the many privateering enterprises wherein the sailors of the seaport towns annoyed British commerce during the war. He was lost at sea in 1787, in the schooner "Two Friends," which sailed from Hingham, where it was owned.

He appears to have settled in the town of Florida, where, and in the vicinity, his descendants are to be found to this day among the active and energetic men of that mountain region, some of whom have done service to town and State in positions of responsibility and trust.

Samuel Tower [5] went with his father's family when he was a young man into the wilderness in Worthington, where by his industry he wrought out for himself a productive farm and a comfortable homestead. It was situated upon the highest part of that hill-town. His first purchase of land appears by the record to have been made in 1797 of a lot of fifty acres, bounded on one side by his father's land. In 1799 he purchased adjoining land.

Here he built his house and farm-buildings, but did not live long to enjoy them. His neighbor, Ezekiel Cushing, came from the same town, and he had a farm on the other side of the street, and built his dwelling nearly opposite Samuel Tower's residence. Nothing now remains of the buildings erected here a century ago by these pioneers and many others in the vicinity, save the cellars and the fallen stone chimneys with the remains of which the cellars are filled. A few decaying apple-trees alone bear testimony to the labors of a former generation, and the land is slowly passing through the intermediate stages of grazing-land, with encroaching bushes, preparatory to its former condition of wood and forest, from which it has had a century's reclaim. None of Samuel Tower's descendants are now living in Worthington, and very little is known of them. His son Lyman [6] removed to Franklin, Delaware County, N. Y., where at his death he left an only daughter, whose descendants now live there.

Isaiah Tower[5] lived in Hingham, and to him the real estate of his father was devised; but dying before his father, it passed by inheritance to the sons of Isaiah[5]. The homestead is on the corner of Main and High Streets in Hingham, and by the division of the real estate this homestead came into the possession of three of Isaiah's sons, Isaiah, Leavitt, and Reuben, upon which they lived and died. This old homestead has been subdivided, and much of it has been built upon and is now occupied by dwelling-houses. The dwelling-house built by Isaiah Tower[6] has been removed, and the land is now a part of the High Street Cemetery, affording an entrance thereto from the Main Street. The grounds have been graded, and enclosed by a substantial wall and gateway, adding much to the beauty of the cemetery and of the adjoining estates. The portion of the original estate which fell to Reuben Tower[6] is now occupied by his descendants, while the portion which fell to Leavitt Tower[6], containing the ancient dwelling-house, has passed by devise under his will to the widow of his nephew, Charles F. Tower[7], late of Ohio, deceased.

Elizabeth (Wheeler) Tower died in Bristol, N. Y., March 8, 1841, ag. 76 y. 4 m. 27 d.

Isaac Tower[5] was a soldier in the War of the Revolution. His name appears in Capt. Samuel Sawyer's company of Lancaster on the 19th of April, 1775, with a credit for seven days service. In August, 1777, he was a member of Capt. Christopher Banister's company in Col. John Dickinson's regiment, which marched to Bennington on an alarm, with a credit of one hundred and eight miles travel. He was a sergeant in Capt. Ebenezer Belknap's company in Colonel Wade's regiment of Massachusetts, serving from Jan. 1, 1778, to Dec. 1 of the same year, his name appearing upon several pay-rolls during that period.

His daughter, Mrs. "Sibbel Pomroy," in an affidavit for a pension, states that her father was a soldier in the War of the Revolution, having the rank of a sergeant. "I often heard my father say he was at the battle of Bunker Hill, and served all through the State of New Jersey."

In the latter part of his life he removed to Bristol, Ontario County, N. Y., where some of his children had gone in the early settlement of that county, and where in Canandaigua, the adjoining town, his son-in-law, Eli Haskell, was for many years a Baptist preacher.

Samuel Tower[6], of Hadley, Mass., remembers the migration of the family to the State of New York. He was a young man, and went with Eli Haskell to Bristol, and says "that the journey was made in a large covered wagon drawn by two yoke of oxen. The wagon contained the household goods and the farming tools. The women and children rode in the wagon, while the men made the journey on foot. On reaching the destination the wagon continued to be the household shelter until the log-house was constructed. Among the stumps of the clearing, grain and grass-seed were sown, and in a year or two all the essentials for living were in abundance."

Mary (Smith) Tower died in Pomfret, N. Y., Dec. 30, 1835, ag. 72 y. 2 m. 17 d.

Jeduthun Tower[5] resided during the early part of his manhood in Rutland, Mass., where he succeeded to his father's homestead, as appears by a deed from his brothers and sisters dated Jan. 29, 1795, and recorded with Worcester County Record of Deeds. He was a soldier in the War of the Revolution, and so much of the record of his service is preserved as shows a term of duty from Jan. 1, 1778, to Jan. 1, 1779, his name appearing on several pay-rolls during the year.

The work of his life seems to have been passed in the quiet pursuits of agriculture as these pursuits were then conducted in the New England towns. The better lands had been brought from a wilderness to as high a condition of cultivation as they were capable, and successive years of cropping had tended to reduce the capacity of these lands for the production of remunerative crops without fertilizing aid, which could not be readily obtained. The combined labor of all the members of the family in a constant round of industry was required to furnish shelter, food, and raiment, with small margin for accumulation. Out of these conditions the prospect was not very encouraging for a young man, on attaining his majority, to secure the necessary means for buying a farm by the product of his labor. The various trades and handicrafts called for only a limited number of hands, and those hives of manufacturing industry which have caught all the waterfalls in the State, subjecting them to the various purposes of ingenuity and skill, were as yet unknown.

The enticing field for enterprise lay in the unbroken wilderness in the farther west. This was the condition of the greater part of the State of New York; and to this wilderness of fertile lands the people of these older towns turned as a source and means of bettering their condition. The subduing of the wilderness was a tempting field for enterprise and ability which had confidence in the power to produce all the means of living from it, and could see in the result of years of labor a suitable accumulation in well-ordered farms, in whose increased value they might have competence.

To these new lands came Jeduthun Tower, with his younger brothers, Justus and Jotham, and with his family of sons and daughters, and found a habitation in the township of Sangerfield, in the southern part of Oneida County. From the records of the county we find that he bought lands there in the years 1804 and 1807.

Jonathan Tower[5] passed the greater part of his life in Rutland, Mass., and lived near his father's place in that town. His business was the making of carpenters' and cabinet-makers' tools. He was a worthy and exemplary man, and is remembered for some eccentric habits and traits of character. He kept a horse, but had no wheeled vehicle, and was accustomed in harvesting his crop of grass to draw the hay from the field on a sled. He was very tender and considerate in the treatment of his horse, keeping one until it was thirty years old; and in his business visits to the village he would be seen trudging along the highway leading the horse by the bridle, instead of riding upon its back.

The part of the town where he resided gained the unenviable name of "Deathville," and it was a common saying that the judgment of Heaven was only averted from it by the fact that one righteous man lived there, — namely, Jonathan Tower. He was accustomed to read his Bible through in course at stated intervals.

His son Luke[6] says that his father cut his foot with an adze in early life, and that the wound was so severe as to prevent him from doing military duty of any great amount; though when the prisoners of war, on Burgoyne's surrender, were quartered in Rutland, he did guard duty. His great-grandson, Henry M. Tower[8], says that his great-grandfather was fond of books, and had collected during his life quite a library, which after his death was destroyed.

In a heavy freshet the dam was threatened with destruction, and while he was upon it, trying to prevent the disaster, it was carried away, and he was drowned. Two of his sons became prominent business men in Waterville, one of whom, Horace D.[6], died at the advanced age of nearly ninety-two years, with the remarkable record of not having been confined to his bed by sickness during the whole period of his life.

Jonas Tower[5] resided in Petersham, Mass. His son, Oren Tower[6], of Petersham, says that his father was for many years a mail-carrier. His route extended from Providence, R. I., to Brattleboro', Vt. He conveyed the mail on horseback, distributing and collecting at the several towns and villages through which he passed. His residence was sufficiently central between the extreme points of his route. This was a most exacting occupation, taxing alike his fidelity and powers of endurance.

Sarah (Putnam) Tower mar., 2d, Wright, of Waterford, Me.
She died Feb. 13, 1811, ag. 49.

Peter Tower[5] was a soldier in the War of the Revolution. His name is found among the new levies raised for six months, but without date. In July 3, 1780, a descriptive list of six months' men under the care of Daniel Frye, of the artificers, is given. Among them is Peter Tower, of Sudbury, five feet nine inches in height, of a ruddy complexion, and nineteen years of age. His name appears in Captain Holden's company, credited with a service of thirty-six months, under an enlistment for three years. In his enlistment for six months, in 1780, he is credited for five months and twenty days service, with one hundred and eighty miles travel. He was in Capt. John Holmes's company, in Col. Jonathan Reed's regiment of guards, at Cambridge from April 2 to July 4, 1778.

In an account of the State of Massachusetts with the United States, the latter is charged with the amount paid by the former for making good the depreciation of wages. Peter Tower's wages are £66 14*s*. 8*d*. Paid by the Continent, £13 2*s*. Paid by the State, £53 12*s*. 8*d*.

In an account of the balance drawn between the United States and the Sixth Massachusetts Regiment, in a settlement of a clothing account from Jan. 1, 1778, to Dec. 31, 1782, Peter Tower is entitled to £13 10*s*.

To Caleb B. Hayward, Agent of the late 6th Mass. Regt.

Sir, — Please to pay Mr. Benj^{a} Tower all the wages and balance of clothing that may be found due to me for my service as a soldier in the 6th company, 6 Mass. Reg't for the years 1781 & 1782, and this shall be your sufficient voucher for the same.

Augustus Tower[5] died in Stow, July 4, 1838, ag. 71 y. 11 d.

Augustus Tower[5] was not quite eight years old when the fight at Lexington and Concord commenced the War of the Revolution, yet he did service as a soldier before the close of the war. In his application for a pension in 1832 he gives the following account of his service: —

"In the month of March, 1782, I enlisted as a private for three years, was mustered in Boston by Colonel Badlam, and joined the army the last of April or the forepart of the May following. I was put into the Seventh Massachusetts Regiment, commanded by Col. John Brooks, and into the light infantry company commanded by Captain Coburn, Lieutenant Given, and Ensign Seaver. The regiment lay in the York Huts above West Point. Our company remained with regiment until July. We then went down to the lines near Kingsbridge for the purpose of catching the 'Cow Boys,' as then called.

"We stayed about there and at Fishkill till late in the fall, when we joined our regiment, which lay in the huts back of Newberg, or New Windsor. Here we remained until the next June, when the 'new arrangement' took place, then our company was commanded by Captain Mills.

"Our company then went down to New Rochelle, and was there and at West Chester, near Kingsbridge, until the fall of the year. We then joined a regiment commanded by Col. William Hull, and marched into the city of New York at the time the British troops left. We stayed in the city till the last of December or first of January, when our company went to West Point. Our company was then commanded by Captain Frye. We stayed at West Point until some time in June, when I received my discharge, which I have lost."

A pension was granted Jan. 5, 1833, and was continued to his widow, Polly Tower, after his death.

Augustus Tower[5] resided in Stow, Middlesex County, Mass., and was for many years a magistrate for the county, and filled many offices of trust and responsibility, to which he was repeatedly elected by his townsmen.

In 1799 he was one of the selectmen and one of the assessors of the town, to which offices he was repeatedly chosen.

In 1804 he was chosen town clerk and treasurer, and seems to have filled these offices uninterruptedly until the year 1826, when his son, Charles Tower[6], succeeded him.

In 1809 he was elected a representative to the General Court of Massachusetts, and by continuous elections he held that office until 1816. He was again chosen to that office in 1819, and continued therein until 1824, and was again chosen to the same office in 1826. To his occupation of a carpenter he added that of land surveyor.

Bela Tower[5] was a soldier in the War of the Revolution. His name is on the roll of Capt. Jotham Loring's company, doing thirteen days duty, called out on the 19th of April, 1775, though he was not quite fifteen years old. He was a fifer in Capt. Pyam Cushing's company, called out on the occasion of taking possession of Dorchester Heights, March 4, 1776, and credited with four days service and thirty-six miles of travel. From the 22d of May to the 1st of August of the same year he was a private in Capt. Seth Stower's company, doing duty at Hull. In the same year his name appears on the roll of Captain Penniman's company of Braintree as a fifer, and also from March 11 to the 29th he was a fifer in Capt. Pyam Cushing's company, doing guard duty at the shores. In 1778 he is credited with two months and twenty-eight days service in guarding and fortifying the posts around Boston, as a private. In 1780, from July 22 to October 29, he performed three months and eleven days duty as a fifer in Capt. Theophilus Wilder's company of three-months men to reinforce the army stationed at Rhode Island.

He was a pensioner under the Act of 1832. In his application he states that in August, 1776, he enlisted in Captain Penniman's company as a fifer for four months, and at the expiration of that time he enlisted for three months additional service. This service was performed at Dorchester Heights. A pension of $$45\frac{58}{100}$ per annum was granted, and this was continued to his widow until the time of her death.

Bela Tower was a trader, and kept a store in Hingham. By his will he gave his homestead, which included his store, to his nephew, Bela Tower Sprague, the same being subject to the use of the testator's wife during her life. Mr. Sprague continued the store for many years, and it is still kept for the same purpose.
